Prisoners Put LockupKeeper in Cell; 3 Flee

Two desperate robbers and a burglar escaped last night from their cells in the Shakespeare avenue police station after one of them had overpowered the lockup keeper and taken possession of his keys and pistol.

The fugitives are Robert Kearney, 31 years old, of the Norman hotel, 1325 Wilson avenue; Michael Romano, 26 years old, 2013 Webster avenue; and William Dardowiski, 22 years old, 1734 West 17th street. Early today police squads all over the city were searching for them.

Confess in 46 Robberies.

Kearney and Romano, who have confessed to participation in forty-six robberies, were sent to the Shakespeare avenue station by Lieut. John L. Sullivan of the Albany Park station, which has no lockup. In other cells near them last night were fifteen other prisoners, most of them confined for small offenses.

When Kearney, a large, powerful man, called for a drink of water last night Policeman Gabriel Zeccone, substituting for the regular guardian of the cells, went to give it to him. He did not notice that the cell door was not fastened. After he had passed the water through the bars he turned to leave.

The big robber swung the door open and seized Zeccone before the latter could turn and defend himself. Throwing the policeman to the floor, Kearney leaped over to the lockup keeper's desk and seized the pistol which was lying there. He pointed it at Zeccone.

"Keep your hands up," he cried.

Wants to Kill Policeman.

When the policeman obeyed the bandit jerked away the keys, which were attached to Zeccone's suspenders. Thrusting the luckless lockup keeper into the cell, he turned the key. Then he opened the doors to other cells in which Romano and Dardowiski were confined. Romano had a knife and wanted to kill Zeccone, but was dissuaded by the others. The trio ran out a rear door and Zeccone was released a little later by his desk sergeant.

According to Lieut. Sullivan, who arrested the two robbers, Kearney was a member of the notorious Purple gang of Detroit.

The escape probably cost Lieut. Sullivan $1,000. Romano and Kearney were wanted for the robbery of a telephone company exchange office. The telephone company offers $1,000 reward for conviction in such cases.

Capt. James Fleming, in command of the Shakespeare avenue station, announced that he would recommend the suspension of Policeman Zeccone.

ROBBERS LOOT HOME OF WIDOW OF M. ROSENBERG

Burglars last night looted the apartment of Mrs. Michael Rosenberg on the twelfth floor of the Park Lane hotel, 2842 Sheridan road, and stole jewelry and clothing valued at $4,000. She is the widow of Michael Rosenberg, sanitary district trustee and Democratic political leader.

The burglary was discovered when Mrs. Rosenberg and her son, Harold, returned home after an absence of several hours. The apartment was in disorder. The dresser had been ransacked and several cabinets opened. The thieves had entered through the transom. The loot consisted of two woman's diamond studded wrist watches, a string of pearls, and an ermine wrap.

Three robbers broke into the home of Elias and Mrs. Sarah Schewel, parents of Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewel, in their home at 3811 West 13th street while the couple sat in the living room unaware of the entry. From Mrs. Schewel they took a ring and a watch valued at $225. They also stole $145 from a dresser drawer. Before leaving the bandits tied the Schewels with cord. Mr. Schewel is 75 years old.

BIRD SQUAWKS AT POLICE AND KEEPS ON SQUAWKING

The neighborhood around 72d street and Vernon avenue was disturbed last night by a squawking in the tree top in front of 7112 Vernon avenue. The squawking emanated from a very large bird which settled in the tree last Friday and which since then has indulged in nocturnal solos.

Some one notified the Grand Crossing police and Policeman James Maloney and John McArdle were told to capture or chase the feathered disturber away. For hours they tried to put the bird to flight or capture it. But the bird continued to squawk, much to the neighborhood's annoyance. Finally McArdle and Maloney gave up.

"They must have forgotten to take salt with them," commented the desk sergeant.

DIES IN SULPHUR POWDER AFTER PLUNGE IN TANK

Elmer Weining, 22 years old, 445 West State street, Calumet City, lost his life yesterday when he fell into a large tank containing powdered sulphur and was suffocated before firemen could rescue him.

The accident occurred in the plant of the Stauffer Chemical company, 905 Forsythe avenue, Hammond. Weining and Michael Havran, 4909 Forsythe avenue, East Chicago, had descended into an eighteen foot tank of sulpnur on a ladder, to loosen the dust so that it would flow through a chute.

Havran climbed out. When Weining failed to follow him, Havran peered back into the inside of the tank and discovered that his companion had disappeared under eight feet of the chemical.

Deserts Tub, Grabs Pants, Seizes Bandit

Policeman George Schupolsky left a ring in the bathtub yesterday, but got off without a reprimand by his wife. He dashed out of his home, clad only in pants and an undershirt, captured one of a pair of bandits who had just taken $1,400 in a robbery of the Shell Petroleum company plant at 2458 North Crawford avenue, and recovered the loot.

The capture was aided by the opportune approach of a fire truck, the siren of which the robbers took for that of a police squad car, and by the fact that after they had swung their automobile into an alley in search for concealment, they halted a moment to count their loot.

C. W. Arnold, manager of the oil plant, and Richard Morrison, a clerk, told police later that the bandits acted swiftly and fled with their loot to a waiting automobile. As they pulled away from the curb they heard the shrieking siren of the fire truck and drove into an alley.

Alarm Interrupts Bath.

Policeman Schupolsky, taking a bath in his home at 2417 North Springfield avenue, heard the shouts of alarm raised by Arnold and Morrison, a block away. He sprang from the bathtub to a window and saw the bandits stop their car in the alley.

He hastily donned his pants and undershirt, grabbed his revolver, and ran out of his home barefooted. His wife saw what he was about and ran after him, his police star in her hand.

"George, wait," she called. "You can't arrest them without this."

She caught up with him and pinned the star on his undershirt. He ran toward the bandit car and as he did so one of the robbers jumped out and fled, unharmed by two shots from Schupolsky's revolver. He captured the other man, who said he was James Cooper, 30 years old, of Tulsa, Okla. Cooper named his companion later as James Van Defrendons of Kansas City, Mo.

Captures Bandit with Loot.

Cooper had the $1,400 taken in the holdup. Policeman Schupolsky turned his prisoner, the two guns used in the holdup, and the money over to Lieut. Thomas O'Hara, who arrived a moment later with a squad from the Cragin station.

He walked back to his home with his wife proudly clutching his arm, polishing his star as they walked. Policeman Schupolsky, a son of Sergt. George Schupolsky Sr., leader of a detective squad, joined the police department last January.

ANDERSON HITS 10 WICKERSHAM COMMISSIONERS

Survey Fails, Says 11th Member.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Ten members of the now disbanded law enforcement commission, Chairman Wickersham among them, have been taken to task by the eleventh of their number, Henry W. Anderson, for failing to attain one of the chief purposes for which they were appointed and granted an appropriation of half a million dollars. The accusation appears in the commissioner's report on "The Causes of Crime," made public today.

"We find it impossible," the ten write in their report to President Hoover, "comprehensively to discuss the causes of crime or factors in nonobservance of law."

In the present state of criminology and other social sciences, they explain, the best it has been possible for them to do with the time and money at their command has been to conduct a limited number of studies in the hope that they might have an effective bearing on the larger problem.

Mr. Anderson Differs.

Mr. Anderson, whose plan for national liquor control was the only concrete proposal in the commission's report on prohibition, thinks differently.

"I am unable to concur in the disposition made by the commission of the important branch of our inquiry dealing with the causes of crime," he asserts in a separate opinion.

"In broad outline the purpose of the commission was to make a study of the problem of 'crime' in the United States and to suggest measures looking to a more general observance and more effective enforcement of the laws. The study naturally divides into a consideration of the causes of crime and the remedies.

Fails to Attain Goal.

"At the time that the commission began its work the President expressed the hope that it would make accurate determinations of 'fact and cause,' and follow these with 'constructive, courageous conclusions which will bring public understanding and command public support of its solutions.' I am constrained to take the view that the report of the commission does not meet these specifications. Nor am I able to see how, without some consideration of the broad underlying causes for existing attitudes and conduct, it is possible to understand the problem or to devise or suggest appropriate and effective remedies."

The psychological basis of the limitations and restriction imposed on our social, political and economic institutions is fear, he declares.

"Even the people are so afraid of themselves," he says, "that they place their most intimate social affairs under the control of laws, which they then resent, and their personal morals into the keeping of the police. Human experience demonstrates that they who are subject to fear may not know freedom, for fear is the mother of repression and repression is the breeding ground of lawlessness and crime."

Society Held Responsible.

Mr. Anderson finds that though contributary causes of crime lay in the individual himself, the major responsibility rested upon society.

Likening crime, because it is a symptom of a deeper disorder, to eruptions of the human body, Mr. Anderson prescribes for its study and its remedy a correction of the fundamental causes.

As a means to this end he recommends the establishment in a proper government department of an institute of human behavior to study, and to correlate other studies of the relation of human personality and environment with special reference to the crime problem.

Social State Blamed.

Mr. Anderson is outspoken in his assertion of the whole American social state as a causative factor.

"Offsetting the many admirable qualities and achievements of American civilization are certain general facts of which the student of present social conditions must take cognizance," he says. "The American peo-

Lindys Rest In Siberian Town for Tokio Hop

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 17 (Monday).—A report here tonight that Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh had hopped off at Petropavlovsk for Nemuro, Japan, proved to be erroneous. The Ochiishi radio station later received a message from Petropavlovsk stating that they still were there.

TOKIO, Aug. 17.—[Monday.]—(AP)—Guests of the humble people of Petropavlovsk, Siberia, Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh rested today in preparation for their 897 mile flight today to Nemuro, Japan.

The famous couple landed there at 3 p. m. yesterday [1 a. m. Sunday, Chicago time] after a flight of 554 miles from Karagin island, off the eastern Siberian coast.

The Lindberghs were met by two launches, which escorted the plane to an anchorage, while 60 school children stood under a crude arch erected on the landing stage in welcome to the Americans and sang Russian songs.

Gets Enthusiastic Welcome.

Then they were escorted by city officials to the town hall, where speeches were made, to which Col. Lindbergh replied briefly. Toasts were then drunk, the Lindberghs only pretending to drink, as the glasses contained vodka and the Lindberghs are teetotalers.

Petropavlovsk, a town of about 10,000 Russians, Japanese and Mongols, lies on a plain, with steep mountains five or six miles back of its excellent harbor. Gold mining, fishing and fur trading are the chief sources of livelihood.

The townspeople were enthusiastic over the visit of America's great airman and his wife, and prior to their arrival there was talk among the citizens of presenting Mrs. Lindbergh with enough pelts for a fur coat if she desired to take them with her.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh left Karagin island at 1:30 p. m. yesterday [8:30 p. m. Chicago time] and landed here four hours and ten minutes later. They had good weather and unlimited visibility during the flight, which lay along the bleak coastline of Kamchatka peninsula.

Tokio Plans Entertainments.

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Aug. 16.—In preparation for the visit of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh, a small Japanese-American committee under Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes has quietly completed an entertainment program. It will be submitted to Col. Lindbergh when he arrives at Nemuro bay, however, and the details will not be fixed until he has approved them.

Based on a stay of at least two weeks, the program provides for much travel in country districts rather than for social entertainments in hot cities.

Nemuro bay is six or seven flying hours from Tokio, and the Lindberghs are expected to arrive at Kasumigaura airport early in the afternoon of the day chosen to come here. The army, navy and communications departments are coöperating to welcome the visitors and Capt. Sato of the navy aviation bureau is now at Kasumigaura, settling the final details with the air garrison.

Hops to West Greenland

F. L. SMITH TELLS $555,000 OFFER BY ROSENWALD

Promised Stock to Quit Senate Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Frank L. Smith made public yesterday what he described as a hitherto unpublished chapter of the historic battle over the United States senatorship from Illinois in 1926—the battle that centered over Samuel Insull's contributions to Smith's campaign fund and climaxed in Smith being barred from the seat to which he had been elected.

PROF. C. H. WOODDY.

In "an open letter to Prof. Carroll H. Wooddy of the University of Chicago Mr. Smith asserted that between the primary and the election of that year, 1926, Julius Rosenwald offered him stock in Sears, Roebuck & Co., then worth $555,000, to withdraw from the Republican nomination. Mr. Rosenwald was supporting Hugh S. Magill, an independent Republican candidate, against Smith and the late George E. Brennan, the Democratic nominee.

Prof. Wooddy recently published a book entitled "The Case of Frank L. Smith," which condemned the Smith campaign. Mr. Smith charges that the book was "financed and widely distributed by Mr. Rosenwald," and he addressed the author, he said, to call attention to the omissions of fact and to suggest the addition of this chapter.

Mr. Rosenwald Ill.

Mr. Rosenwald has been an invalid for several months, but his attorneys and members of his family were told of the appearance of the Smith document and requested to seek a statement from the philanthropist. This brought a brief statement from a son, Lessing Rosenwald.

"The members of Mr. Rosenwald's family," it said, "are unwilling to bring to his attention the controversy between Prof. Wooddy and Mr. Smith.

"Mr. Rosenwald has been confined to his bed for the last four months and, that nothing may retard his recovery, his physician has issued strict orders that all controversial matters be withheld from his consideration."

Prof. Wooddy, after several consultations on the subject, declined to say whether he knew that the interview about which he wrote included an offer of Sears-Roebuck stock in exchange for Smith's withdrawal from the race. He issued a noncommittal statement.

Followed Reed Disclosures.

The events described in the Smith letter are alleged by him to have occurred following the disclosures effected by the Reed senatorial committee concerning the Insull contributions, which were the cause of bringing Independent Candidate Magill into the field. The letter was hinged on a paragraph of the Wooddy book reciting that Rosenwald sought to persuade Smith to withdraw.

"Mr. Rosenwald arranged an interview with him," ran this paragraph, "and urged strongly that Smith abandon his candidacy on terms which would fully safeguard him from loss incurred by the effort and expense already invested in the campaign."

In telling his story, Mr. Smith used the third person, referring to himself as "Mr. Smith." He said he did so because, following the various incidents related, including his talks with Mr. Rosenwald, he wrote down the events and the conversations immediately. His suggestion was that they be incorporated in the Wooddy book at the appropriate place.

Tells of an Interview.

In this way he began by telling of an interview given out by Mr. Rosenwald in New York in which the Chicagoan said he was on his way to the summer White House "to discuss ways and means of getting Frank L. Smith to withdraw."

That was in August. Mr. Smith says he returned from the east in September. He then recites that Mr. Rosenwald, after a futile effort to see him in Chicago, telephoned his home at Dwight with the result that, after a Smith family conference, an appointment was made with Mr. Rosenwald for the Congress hotel the next day, Sunday, Oct. 3.

The Smith Narrative.

Mr. Smith's own narrative of the Sunday noon interview follows:

"After they [Mr. Rosenwald and Mr. Smith] had shaken hands, Mr. Rosenwald said: 'You would just about as soon expect the Deity Himself here as you would me," and Mr. Smith answered: 'It is said the Deity is ever present. Sit down.'

"Mr. Rosenwald then asked if he might take off his coat, which he did, threw it across the back of a chair and sat down in his shirt sleeves.

"'May I talk plainly?' he asked.

"'You sought the interview,' Mr. Smith said, 'so, of course, you can say what you came to say.'

"'I do not want to hurt your feelings,' Mr. Rosenwald said, to which Mr. Smith replied: 'They have already been hurt about as deeply as possible, do speak your mind.'

Says Smith "Couldn't Be Seated."

"'You know that if you are elected United States senator you can't be seated, don't you?' Mr. Rosenwald said.

"'No, I don't know that,' Mr. Smith said.

"'I don't think any one knows that,' Mr. Smith continued, "because the only persons who have anything to say about that are the members of the United States senate and I do not believe they will prejudge the facts or deny a sovereign state its rights under the constitution."

"Mr. Rosenwald replied: 'I have it from one very high in authority that you can't be seated.'

"'I don't know any one high enough in authority to make such a statement,' Mr. Smith said, 'when the matter has not yet been brought to the attention of the senate in a proper way.'"

At this point Mr. Smith described what Mr. Rosenwald had said about his own part in the Magill campaign and of his expression of willingness to contribute $500,000 if he thought Magill could be elected.

Interested in the G. O. P.

Then Mr. Smith resumed his detailed narrative, as follows:

"'Now,' said Mr. Rosenwald, 'I want to say something to you not in the interest of any candidate, but just because I am a Republican and because I am interested in the Republican party and the state of Illinois.

"'After the meeting the other day I went into an inner room to take a siesta upon orders from my doctor. While lying there thinking, I had a brainstorm. I thought to myself, "If I will give $500,000 to have Magill elected, why not give Frank Smith $500,000 and have him withdraw?"

"'So I acted. No one knows what I am about to say to you except my wife, whose consent I had to get before I could make the offer; and no one else will know from me.

Alleges Offer of Sears Stock.

"'If you will withdraw from the senatorial race I am here to offer you 10,000 shares of Sears, Roebuck stock the moment you sign your withdrawal notice. In a few months that stock will be worth three-quarters of a million dollars.

"'You can give as your reason for withdrawing that your health won't permit you to make the campaign or any other reason you want to give. The 10,000 shares of stock will be deposited in escrow in any bank you name, to be turned over to you when your withdrawal occurs.'

"'I am astounded,' Mr. Smith said, 'at the turn of mind that some of you moralists have. You think that a campaign contribution by Mr. Insull has unfitted me to be a representative of Illinois in the senate.'

"'Unfortunately, yes,' said Mr. Rosenwald.

"'But you also think,' continued Mr. Smith, 'that for three-quarters of a million dollars it is all right for me to sell to you for my own benefit what 250,000 people as American citizens gave me in their confidence.'

"To which Mr. Rosenwald replied: 'O, you do not put it fairly. You have a perfect right to withdraw if you want to.'

"Mr. Smith replied, 'In all probability there is no law to punish either of us for making such an agreement.'

"Mr. Rosenwald said, 'I am not acting for any one. I speak solely for myself.'

"Mr. Smith replied, 'I cannot understand your type of mind. From my viewpoint there is something else involved beside the election of a United States senator. There is my personal integrity.'

"Mr. Rosenwald then said he did not think an election would vindicate Mr. Smith.

"'I think you will be elected,' he went on,' but that will not be a vindication. You will always have a feeling of hurt which will be accentuated by the continuous attacks upon you. These attacks will ruin your health. Your election will not be worth the effort and suffering. You will live more happily by not being a candidate. You can enjoy life and have plenty of money to do it with.'

Says He Declined Offer.

"Mr. Smith declined the offer without hesitation, whereupon Mr. Rosenwald said: 'Well, my cards are on the table.'

"Mr. Smith replied: 'There is no reason for discussing this further. If I believed my candidacy would injure my party I would withdraw without consideration, but you are the first individual who has spoken to me about such action.'

"'What you need is a frank friend like myself,' said Mr. Rosenwald.

"The two sat looking at each other a long moment. Finally Mr. Rosenwald got up, put on his coat, and walked slowly to the door.

"'As he opened it, he said: 'If you want to see me before it is too late you have my telephone number.'"

"'I shall not want to see you on this matter at any time,' Mr. Smith replied."

Casual Meeting in Kansas City.

Mr. Smith closed this third person section of his letter by relating an incident he said occurred during the Kansas City national convention of 1928, a clash when Mr. Rosenwald spoke to him in the Baltimore hotel. Here a part of the narrative ran as follows:

"'I want nothing from any United States senator,' declared Mr. Rosenwald.

"'I don't know about that,' Mr. Smith said, 'but what would you have said had I told the story of your offering me 10,000 shares of Sears-Roebuck stock not to be a candidate for United States senator after I had been nominated by the people?'

"Mr. Rosenwald said he would have admitted that he had done so, either in Mr. Smith's first campaign or in his second campaign, or that he would admit it then, but that, of course, he hoped Mr. Smith would not tell the story.

"'Mr. Rosenwald then said, "Well, everything happened to you that I told you would happen, didn't it?"

"'Yes, 'as per schedule,' said Mr. Smith.

"'You are the first man I have known to refuse a million dollars,' said Mr. Rosenwald.

"'No, the woods are full of them and most of them would have been less courteous in refusing you than I was,' said Mr. Smith."

The letter went on to explain that while 10,000 shares of Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock was worth only $555,000 on Oct. 3, 1926, the market price was $755,000 in August, 1927, and that in November, 1928, it was $1,975,000.

At the market price Saturday 10,000 shares would be worth $580,000.

Asks Inclusion in Book.

"This is the end of that chapter, Prof. Woodby," wrote Mr. Smith, speaking no longer in the third person, "and I think you will agree with me that these facts should be included in your book. The recital above is all fact. What I have set down is not just a five year old memory of the occurrence. It was all written out when it happened."

Prof. Woodby's statement follows:

"I have no comment to make on the alleged details of the interview between Mr. Smith and Mr. Rosenwald in October, 1926, which are best known to the principals themselves. I note with regret, however, that Mr. Smith has selected as the moment for launching a reported new campaign for public office a time when Mr. Rosenwald's prolonged illness makes it difficult for him to speak for himself in the matter.

"I recall that when before the Reed committee Mr. Smith was much less communicative than he is today. It is a great pleasure to know that he is now in a reminiscent mood. I venture to express the hope that he will give us now the whole story of the 1926 campaign, including the terms and conditions of his campaign contributions. In that case I should be delighted to add some interesting paragraphs to the next edition of 'The Case of Frank L. Smith.'"

HOOVER THEORIZES AS JOBLESS SUFFER, CHARGE BY SHOUSE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—"More positive action and less theoretical investigation," was demanded of President Hoover today by Jouett Shouse, in a statement issued through the Democratic national committee of which Mr. Shouse is executive chairman.

Mr. Shouse asserted that the President is spending more time ascertaining how many persons will be out of work next winter than he is in taking measures for their relief.

"What the country has a right to expect is that measures will be taken to relieve the possible maximum rather than attempt to fit the measure of aid to a hypothetical minimum," said Mr. Shouse. "Whether there will be 5 million, 6 million, or 7 million people out of work next January may be nice problem to work out with glyphs and indices and curves and other engineering playthings. But what the country faces is the necessity of taking care of all of them, whether they come within the prospective blue print or not. A surplus of relief resources would involve no disaster; a deficit of resources would be an appalling calamity."

NEWTON JENKINS IN SENATE RACE AS FOE OF HOOVER

Newton Jenkins announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States senator yesterday in a formal statement the candidate said he recognizes that "the Republican party throughout the country is in confusion and retreat" and that some share of responsibility for this condition rests with the party and management in Illinois, but the most responsibility "is due to the total lack of constructive leadership in the White House."

Mr. Jenkins has twice been a candidate for senator and once a candidate for alderman. In 1924 he polled 114,000 votes throughout the state, and in 1930 he received 162,000 votes. He is 44 years old, a lawyer and an ex-service man.

His announced platform is one of opposition to the renomination of Hoover, and he declared he will oppose the nomination by the Republican party in Illinois of those who constitute Mr. Hoover's supporters and defenders.

SEEK JOB WHICH GIRL PAY ROLLER HAD UNDER YATES

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Gov. Morgan F. Larson of New Jersey announced tonight he had partially completed his investigation of payment of $566 in two state checks to Miss Ruth Jayne Crammer, accused of having shot and wounded State Senator Roy T. Yates of Passaic, early Friday morning in her apartment in Manhattan.

The governor said the woman had received two checks from the New Jersey pension survey commission and he was now seeking to determine if she did any work. Senator Yates is chairman of the commission and Miss Crammer was carried on the pay roll as "a research worker."

Earlier Senator A. Croser Reeves of Mercer county, Republican, chairman of the senate judiciary committee and majority leader, said that if Gov. Larson's investigation warrants such action, he is ready to call a meeting of his committee to consider the case of Senator Yates with a view to instituting impeachment proceedings.

FRANCE WILL NOT OPPOSE WAR DEBT CUTS—FLANDIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 16. — If the United States takes the initiative in favor of reducing or annulling the war debts, France will not object, Finance Minister Flandin declared today in an interview.

"However," he declared, "you must understand that we have not and do not intend to exercise pressure on our great American friends, who are the sole judges in the matter, since it concerns their clear part—direct or indirect—of Germany's payments.

He declared that reparations, as separate from the war debt, are "sacred" and can be neither reduced nor annulled. He also urged that all nations abandon the present system of "economic warfare" in order that the depression might be more quickly ended.

REVENUE OF U. S. FOR YEAR DROPS BY 600 MILLION

Greatest Loss Is Shown by Income Taxes.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—A drop of more than 600 million in internal revenue collections was suffered by the government during 1931, the first full year during which taxes were affected by the business depression and the falling stock market. Total collections for the year ending June 30, 1931, were $2,428,228,700, according to a preliminary treasury statement issued today.

DAVID P. MORRIS, (Keiser & Ewing)

Income taxes showed the greatest loss, individuals and corporations paying by decreased tax payments as a result made by unemployment and the economic depression. Income taxes yield $1,868,040,400, a decline of 600 millions while miscellaneous internal revenue accounted for collections of $560,188,300, a drop of $61,000,000.

Individuals and Business Suffer.

Corporation income taxes netted the government $1,026,292,600, a decline of $[illegible],000, and individual taxes $841,847,700, a decrease of $313,196,900, showing the depressed conditions in the business world and the wide variation of collections in times of prosperity and in times of depression.

With both corporation and individual income taxes were cutting a deep hole in government revenues, miscellaneous taxes showed only a small ripple in the business slump.

All tobacco taxes for the fiscal year amounted to $444,276,500, a decrease of $[illegible],500. Of this total cigarets accounted for $358,915,100, representing a reduction of $901,086.

Liquor taxes did not do so well, collections amounting to $18,025,400, a decrease of $3,115,500. Chewing tobacco and snuff virtually held their own, with the snuff taxes showed a drop of $[illegible],000.

Indications that cigaret smokers are turning to "rolling their own" are seen in the fact that there was an increase of $117,941 in the taxes on cigaret papers and tubes. The total collection was $1,441,826.

Stamp Taxes Decrease.

The government stamp tax figures indicated the extent to which business slumped in the stock market and commodities exchanges. Collections on transfer stock sales and transfers ranged from $46,688,226 in 1930 to $[illegible],000, representing a decline of $[illegible],000.

The figures for the produce markets indicated that sales for future delivery had been cut more than half. The tax on sales of products on exchanges were given as $1,682,800 for 1931, as compared with $3,699,375 during the previous year, when business conditions were better.

Notwithstanding the lowered collections, the government found that it was more proportionately to gather the smaller taxes than it had during the days of prosperity, it was revealed by H. P. Mires, acting commissioner.

Work Harder to Collect.

Indications that the field agents of the internal revenue department were more active in digging up taxes was indicated by figures showing that the additional assessments of taxes resulting from office audits and field investigations aggregated $382,788,085 for the 1931 year, as compared with 303 millions the year previous. This represented an increase of approximately $80,000,000. Additional assessments on income taxes amounted to $261,285,213 in 1931, as compared with 264 millions in 1930. Officials said this did not represent returns from the anti-gangster campaigns.

Analysis of the tax collection figures showed that New York was the largest contributor, counting income and miscellaneous, with North Carolina second and Illinois third. New York paid 672 millions, compared with 928 millions the previous year; North Carolina paid out 252 millions, and Illinois 190 millions.

Illinois Third in Incomes.

Illinois was third among the states in income tax collections, taking a back seat to New York and Pennsylvania. New Yorkers paid the government 614 millions in income taxes, a decrease of 216 millions below income taxes paid the previous year. Illinois also showed a big drop, paying 173 millions in 1931, compared with 223 millions in 1930. The Pennsylvania payments barely exceeded that of Illinois, being 174 millions.

Five states, New York, North Carolina, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Virginia paid considerably more than half the taxes turned in to the government. Virginia squeezed California out of the select list of five this year, turning in collections about $700,000 greater than California.

These five states paid $1,429,000,000 compared with 898 millions by the other forty three states.

New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Ohio were the five best income tax producing states. This quintet paid the government $1,161,000,000 out of a total income tax revenue of $1,360,000,000.

Total collections from all sources in Illinois during the 1931 year were $196,787,171 compared with 247 millions in 1930. Income tax collections also showed a considerable drop, falling from $223,375,161 in 1930 to $173,675,584 during the last year. Corporations turned in $101,802,830 in Illinois during 1931, while individuals paid in $71,872,783.

Illinois also paid $132,191 on cigars, $24,220 on cigarets and $6,453,415 on manufactured tobacco and snuff during the year.

Stamp taxes collected in Illinois amounted to $513,026 on bonds of indebtedness, capital stock issues, etc.; $1,346,601 on capital stock sales or transfers; $1,050,171 on sales of produce; and $284,128 on playing cards. The state also paid $3,824,076 in estate taxes.

In the nation as a whole card games presumably were more entertaining to families on restricted budgets than were theaters. Revenues from playing card taxes jumped $174,267 to a total of $4,892,559, while receipts from theater admissions fell off nearly 80 per cent. Theater ticket taxes in the last fiscal year totaled only $2,778,884, a decline of $1,451,803.

Estate taxes resulted in collection of $48,078,300, a reduction of $16,691,300.

On distilled spirits the government collected $16,432,000, a drop of $1,263,200. Collections under the prohibition laws amounted to $586,140, a reduction of $819,000. Small miscellaneous taxes, including those on adulterated or processed butter, oleomargarine, delinquent taxes under repealed laws and others totaled $2,883,400, a reduction of $3,695,200.

BLIND PIG RAIDS AFTERMATH OF TORCH MURDERS

Savage Slayings Laid to Bootleg Liquor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Wholesale raids on moonshine whisky dispensaries here and elsewhere over the state constituted today's aftermath of last week's quadruple torch murders near here.

Blaming bootleg liquor for the savage slaying of two young couples last Tuesday morning and for other recent crimes of violence, Gov. Wilber M. Brucker ordered a state wide drive against drinking resorts, and Oscar G. Olander, state commissioner of public safety, mobilized state police to put the order in effect.

"Stuff Makes Maniacs."

"The stuff makes maniacs of those who drink it," Commissioner Olander declared, "and the sad part of it is that young boys and girls are the addicts because moonshine is cheap and plentiful."

In their confessions of the torch murders, David T. Blackstone, Fred Smith and Frank Oliver indicated they were drunk when they killed the two couples and burned their bodies.

Catherine Keller, Smith's sweetheart, and Howard Forwalter, whom officers suspect of supplying one of the guns used in the murders, remained in custody tonight, although no charges have yet been placed against them.

Doubt Woman Was Present.

Officers doubt now that the Keller woman was present at the slayings, although she admitted being with the slayers three hours before and had in her possession when arrested a gun belonging to Smith.

Admissions made by the slayers in Michigan state prison, where they are serving four life terms each, have resulted in several arrests for other robberies, one of which ended in an assault on a young woman.

TWO ROBBERS EAT AND TAKE $1,900 IN HOLDUP OF CAFE

Two well dressed young men sat a table in the La Mar Tea room at 4367 Lake Park avenue last night. They ordered table d'hôte dinners, and chatted casually as they dined.

Their meal finished the young men stood up. Simultaneously they whipped out revolvers. "Everybody throw up their hands," they commanded. The order was obeyed by six patrons, one a woman, and the owner, Henry Delauloye.

From Delauloye the gunmen took $110. They next took three diamond rings valued at $1,200, and a purse containing $5 from Miss Kay Vincent, of 4450 North Tripp avenue. From J. G. Strauch, 3637 North Hamilton avenue, they stole a diamond ring which cost $520. The other victims, and the amounts they lost were Stanley Livingston, 4400 Greenwood avenue, $12; William F. Burch, 3401 University avenue, $31; Ernest Hanes, of the Stevens hotel, $15, and E. E. Price, 1476 Belle Plaine avenue, $5.

HAWKS AND AVIATRIX ARE LIABLE FOR FINES; FLEW PAST CUSTOMS

Burlington, Vt., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Capt. Frank Hawks, speed king of the air, and Miss Maude Irving Tate of Springfield, Mass., aviatrix, flying separate planes, were informed here this afternoon that they had become liable for $500 each for failure to report at the United States customs port of entry at Swanton, Vt., on their way here from Montreal.

Capt. Hawks, flying his famous speed plane, and Miss Tate, flying a Gee-Bee from the Springfield airport, landed unexpectedly at the municipal airport during the progress of the American Legion air meet, at which Post and Gatty, round the world flyers, were feature attractions.

The flyers declared they had been informed they could come through and land in Burlington, instead of stopping at Swanton, and they showed clearance papers from Montreal to Burlington. They were allowed to fly the planes on to New York later this afternoon. The commissioner of customs at Washington has authority to suspend the assessment if he finds it was a misunderstanding, rather than intent to avoid the law.

Baby Puts Penny in Light Socket and Sees Firemen

Tabor, Ia., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Twila Grace Harrison, 2, had seen the big boys downtown stick coins in slots and get music. She stuffed a penny into a light socket at the home of her mother, Mrs. W. V. Harrison, and heard a lot of sirens as the big red fire trucks came dashing up.

SECOND SURVEY PLANE TO FOLLOW CRAMER'S ROUTE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Trans-American Airlines corporation officials announced here tonight that a second survey plane would take off soon over the same northern route to Europe on which Parker Cramer and his radio operator, Oliver Pacquette, are believed to have perished last week.

Edwin L. Preston and Robert H. Colligon have been named co-pilots for the second attempt to blaze an air mail and express route over the Arctic ice cap, the officials said, and they are expected to take off here before Sept. 1.

Captor of Torch Slayer Back to Find He's a Papa

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—William A. Dailey, deputy sheriff and captor of Frank Oliver, one of the three torch murderers, is the father of a new baby girl, but it was not until 48 hours after the child's birth that Dailey learned of it. The daughter, Gloria Jean, was born just at the hour when the search for the killers of Anna May Harrison, Vivian Gold, Harry Lore, and Thomas Wheatley was at its height.

HELD AS GIRL'S SLAYER.

Ithaca, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Bernard Turner, 21 a Negro, was arrested here today at the request of Detroit, Mich., police, investigating the slaying of Selma Grover in that city Aug. 2. A policeman quoted Turner as saying: "I guess I killed her."

GANGSTER SEIZED IN POLICE KILLING; SOUGHT 2 YEARS

Martin O'Leary, 37 years old, a gangster sought for more than two years in connection with the murder on May 15, 1929, of Policeman Raymond Martin, was arrested yesterday in a Summit saloon by county highway police under Lieut. Edward Weber.

MARTIN O'LEARY.

O'Leary, who is on the new list of "public enemies" published by the crime commission, was taken to the detective bureau to be shown to witnesses of the Martin murder. The policeman was slain by members of a gang of kidnapers who were holding Philip Blumenthal, a former bootlegger, for ransom. He was shot down as he impersonated Moses, brother of the kidnaped man, in an attempt to arrest the band.

Three other men were seized with O'Leary in the saloon of Julian Novak, 6205 Archer avenue, Summit.

One of them, Carl Fontano, 5961 Roosevelt road, Cicero, is believed to be the Carlos Fontana, a well known gangster, who was arrested following the Martin murder as a suspect, and later released. He was carrying a gun yesterday. The other two men, John Menard, 5812 South May street, and Mike Bartola, 4826 West 28th street Cicero, also have records, police said.

REALTY BOARD BACKS DRIVE TO TAX PERSONALTY

Promises to Co-operate with Assessors.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The crusade of the board of assessors to place tax assessments against ten billion dollars worth of savings and other bank deposits, stock of building and loan associations, stocks, bonds and other securities, automobiles, yachts, and other personal property was pledged the support yesterday of the Chicago real estate board. The promise came from Mark Levy, president of the realty board.

This plan was criticized and opposed as illegal and impracticable Saturday by the Chicago branch of the Illinois Bankers' association.

Realty Leader's Pledge.

Mr. Levy, in his letter, expresses "our appreciation of the cordial acceptance of our suggestions." He goes on:

"We desire to assure you of our support and that of all allied real estate interests in the program announced by you in the press this morning. In such initiative and courage lies Chicago's hope in this crisis. The only way to get a better substitute for the personal property tax is to enforce the present personal property tax. We indorse that position."

Mr. Levy offered to help the board of assessors in getting a large appropriation to enforce the personalty tax. He says the board's total budget is $877,575, of which only $83,463 can be used for assessment of personal property.

"This leaves a net balance of $794,115 to you for the quadrennial assessment, ranging from $7,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000 of real estate," continued Mr. Levy's letter, "and only $83,463 for general office and appraisal of an estimated $50,000,000,000 of other forms of taxable wealth, which is generally admitted to be more difficult to uncover and assess than real estate."

Sees Cut in Realty Tax.

The letter goes on to say that if personal property is placed on the tax books to the limit of the law and the ability of the assessors, the real estate tax bill will be cut one-half. Concerning the amount needed for the [illegible], Levy suggests:

"Such an appropriation would require certainly not less than the amount that has originally been set for the appraisal of real estate; and should be considerably larger, inasmuch as this is going to be the initial attempt to put any considerable portion of personal property upon the tax records. When you have formulated your revised budget we shall be glad to join you in an effort to secure the indorsement of the governor's committee, in order to be better fortified in presenting our demands to the county board."

Mr. Levy states that the average assessment of merchandise in Cook county is $9.76 per capita as contrasted with $60.43 in Winnebago county, in which Rockford is situated. He gives the average assessment on money other than that of bankers, in Cook county as $6.64 per capita as compared with $13.84 in Winnebago county.

Personal Property Classes.

Secretary John E. Conroy of the board of assessors said that the ten billion dollars' worth of personalty which it was hoped would be taxed is "only a rough estimate." From the board's demand for information from banks and other sources it was judged that the following properties are included in the ten billion total:

1—Savings in the banks. At the last bank call, June 30, these totaled $542,350,000 in Chicago.

2—Other deposits in the banks. These on June 30 aggregated $1,957,057,000, of which about $90,000,000 were funds of the local and state governments.

3—Assets of building and loan associations. These in Illinois aggregated $448,423,000 in the last published report of the state auditor. The assessors believe that two-thirds of this sum is in Chicago.

4—An estimated 100,000 autos in the suburbs and 466,400 within Chicago. At Mr. Conroy's estimate of $300 each, the autos are valued at $169,920,000.

5—Memberships on the Chicago Stock exchange. About 500 of these at $10,000 each would account for $5,000,000 more.

Total Over 3 Billions.

These five groups of personal property total $3,123,290,000. The other $7,676,710,000 necessary to reach the "ten billion dollars" has not been classified. The assessors hope to find this sum in stocks, bonds, debentures, notes and other securities, property of customers in pawn shops, memberships in clubs, and yachts and other water craft, according to the announcements.

Under the announced plan it is expected that owners of two-thirds of the 10,276,817 shares of stock in building and loan associations in Illinois will be called upon to pay personal property taxes in Cook county.

The automobile owners also would be hit hard under the assessors' plan. The annual figures of Secretary of State Stratton and the state finance department for 1930 indicate that Chicago motorists paid $18,627,493 last year. Of this total $8,125,272 was in gasoline taxes, $5,252,477 went to the state in fees and licenses, and $5,249,744 went to the city in vehicle licenses. That is an average for each car owner of $39.83. To this would be added by the assessors' plan an average of $6.96 per owner, bringing his total taxes on his car to $46.79 a year.

But Assessor Conroy reckons that only a third of the car owners will be taxed the extra $6.96.

Hoover to Base His Future Savings on Economy Data

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Statistical data from which President Hoover can deduce the cash effects of his current economy program and on which he can base his economy plans for the next 22 months will be placed before the budget officers during the next two weeks.

The first data will reach the treasury tomorrow whe department and independent establishment heads in response to Mr. Hoover's letter of July 19, submit reports showing appropriations available for expenditures during the current fiscal year with an indication of amounts each department expects actually to expend this year as well as contemplated ultimate savings.

All Bureaus to Submit Estimates.

Before Sept. 1 all heads of executive departments must submit budget estimates for the 1933 fiscal year for examination by the President. All indications are that the budget estimated for the 1933 year will be virtually as large as the appropriations voted this year. Unless radical cuts are ordered by the President, there appears to be little prospect that the cabinet officers themselves will make any radical reductions. Little hope is held by budget officials of bringing estimates below the four billion mark.

On the basis of announcements of prospective economies emanating from the Rapidan fishing camp economy conferences in June and July, the reports submitted by cabinet officers should show an estimated savings for the current year by all ten departments in excess of 100 millions.

Slash Navy Expenditures.

So far as Washington has been able to judge, the only economies registered have been in the navy and war departments where purchasing officers have found it possible to cut down expenditures. The navy has been forced to slash marine personnel and this, together with other economies is expected to account for a saving this year that may reach as high as $15,000,000.

Just how much of a cut the President expects to make in the navy's expenditures for this year or in its budget estimate for 1933 has not been announced. It is known, however, that the navy expects to ask for about 390 millions. The navy on July 1, had about 414 millions on hand, representing unexpended balances from last year, plus a new appropriation of 360 millions. Of the 390 millions it expects to spend this year about 65 millions will go for warship construction.

For 1933 the navy will ask at least 390 millions and probably more if a new warship authorization bill is passed by congress.

TWO ARE KILLED IN CRASH OF AIRPLANE AT DE KALB AIRPORT

De Kalb, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Allen Glassburn, 30, and Joseph Kaiser, 31, of Dixon, Ill., were killed today when a plane they were testing over the De Kalb county airport went into a spin and crashed near the north end of the field.

Some spectators said Glassburn was making a steep bank when Keyser was thrown out of the rear cockpit. Later it was discovered his lifebelt had broken. It is believed his sudden catapult from the plane unbalanced it so that it was thrown out of Glassburn's control.

Both men were alive when dragged from the wreckage, which had not caught fire. Glassburn died while en route to the Waterman hospital, nearby, and Kaiser died shortly after arriving. They were trying out a Velie monoplane as prospective buyers. Glassburn was a licensed pilot.

Two Killed Near Anna.

Anna, Ill., Aug. 17.—(AP)—Glenn Joram, 22, of Cobden, and Frank Willy Jr., 25, of Alto Pass, were instantly killed today when Joram's monoplane crashed near here. Joram, who recently returned to Cobden after completing a course in flying a Wichita, Kas., was taking up passengers under a temporary pilot's license.

Plane Falls; One Drowned.

Seattle, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Al Mace, 43, was believed to have drowned while a girl and three other men escaped as an amphibian plane crashed into Lake Union today during an attempted takeoff. Miss Helen Bickel, a society girl and club worker; James Dow and William Haviland, all passengers, and Pilot Harry H. Lynch crawled safely from the submerged cabin and were rescued.

Illinois Central Freight Trains Crash at Homewood

Two Illinois Central freight trains were partly wrecked early this morning at Homewood, near the entrance to the Markham yards and an engine and caboose were completely buried in the debris. A switching crew had left the rear half of a train on the main track while they shunted some cars to a switch track. A second train came thundering along and struck the cars on the main track. No one was injured, but traffic was tied up.

Slain by His Neighbor In Quarrel Over Wife

Samuel Monica, 35 years old, 2706 Wentworth avenue, was shot to death in his home early this morning by his neighbor, James Dininno, 30 years old, 2702 Wentworth avenue. Monica accused Dininno with being too attentive to Mrs. Monica.

VICHY, France, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Premier Pierre Laval, who, like Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, was fatigued after the recent international conferences, arrived here today for several days of rest.

KIDNAP AND ROB THEATER MAN, WIFE AND AID

A. G. Johnson, manager of the Palace theater in Crown Point, Ind., his wife, Fannie, and Rex Fitch, the operator at the theater, were held up as they left the theater last night by two bandits, who compelled them to return to the theater, where Johnson was forced to open the safe. From it the robbers obtained $526 in cash, and from Mrs. Johnson they took three rings valued at $1,000. The three were then bundled into the robbers' automobile and driven thirty miles away to a lonely spot near Highland, Ind., where they were dumped from the car. They aroused a farmer, who notified the sheriff of their plight.

Forest Fire Roars on Two Sides of Washington Town

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 16.—(AP)—With forest conflagrations roaring on two sides of the town and embers dropping on their homes, residents of Ione, Wash., northwest of here, sat on their doorsteps tonight, ready to evacuate if the wind switched. One section of the blaze was a half mile southwest of the town and the other three miles southeast.

Organizations Score at Final Concert.

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Five stenographers, a sign painter, a teacher of mathematics and a shoe cobbler won in the second music festival contests held yesterday in Gary and sponsored by the Gary Post-Tribune, which is associated with THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in promoting the Chicagoland music festival. Last night the winning girls and three men received their medals at the final concert, which was given in the auditorium of the Horace Mann High school.

The winners were: Soprano, Miss Leotta Flick, stenographer; contralto, Miss Martha Davis, stenographer; tenor, Tom Warrilow, sign painter; baritone, Ralph M. Jones, teacher of mathematics in the Crown Point, Ind., high school; bass, Enrico Matysiak, shoe cobbler, unemployed.

Will Appear on Radio.

The winners in the instrument contests were: Saxophone, Lawrence Kosik; clarinet, Miss Rosemond Rutchik; cornet, Charles Bailey; baritone, Emil M. Ray.

The vocal winners will appear during winners' hour next Saturday afternoon over W-G-N, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE station on the Drake hotel roof, 1:30 to 1:58.

Among the organizations which appeared in the festival concert last night and which will participate in the Chicagoland finals Saturday were St. Mary's Russian Orthodox church choir, directed by Prof. Andrew Gisser, and the 113th Engineers' regimental band, Indiana National Guard, conducted by Warrant Officer Howard J. Beaty. Both of these units received ovations at the entertainment.

The judges in the contests were Earle Hyde, Chicago, for vocal contests, and A. R. McAllister, director of the national championship school band, Joliet, Ill., for instrumental contests.

The directing committee which arranged the splendid concert consisted of A. R. Dickson, secretary of the Gary Y. M. C. A.; Prof. H. H. Warner, bandmaster at Emerson High school, Gary, and A. M. Harris, supervisor of music in the Gary public schools. H. B. Snyder and J. R. Snyder, brothers, are publishers of the Gary Post-Tribune, and E. C. Rosenau, a reporter, was in charge of the festival.

Glee Club Rehearses.

More than eight hundred colored singers disregarded the heat yesterday afternoon and attended the final Sunday rehearsal of the CHICAGO TRIBUNE's massed chorus of jubilee singers which will take part in the second annual Chicagoland Music Festival at Soldiers' field, Saturday night. There will be three more week day rehearsals.

From three o'clock until after six Prof. James A. Mundy, Elmer Simpson and William H. Smith rehearsed the singers in the spirituals that they will present.

The Umbrian Glee club, the second oldest Negro musical organization in the United States will offer "Golden Slippers" with the massed chorus singing the refrain.

POSTAL STATION AND DRUG STORE ROBBED OF $700

Two armed men stole $700 late last night in a robbery of the Campbell Drug company store at 2457 West 63d street. The store is a substation of the postoffice, and $404 of the money taken was of government funds. Max Poinorantz of 5444 South Richmond street, the manager, and his brother, David, a clerk, were about to close the store when the gunmen entered. They forced David to open the safe, from which they took the loot.

Four men invaded the grocery at 728 South California avenue late last night and menaced the owners, Peter Castellano and Joseph Brigante. They forced them into a back room and robbed them of $311. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

ROME-VIENNA EXPRESS RAMS FREIGHT; 13 DIE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Aug. 16.—Thirteen are dead, four are dying and 48 were injured as a result of a collision between the Rome-Vienna express and a freight train at Goess, near Loeben, early today. The accident occurred when the express was given an open block before the freight train had cleared the main line.

Escaped Omaha Burglar Nabbed in Evanston Home

Peter Mancuso, 21 years old, who escaped from the county hospital in Omaha, Neb., July 10, where he was taken from jail to undergo an operation for appendicitis before beginning a five year sentence for burglary, was captured last night at the home of his sister, Mrs. Louise Mencurio, 1823 Brown avenue, Evanston, by Evanston police. He was found hiding in a clothes closet. In Omaha Mancuso was known as "The Eel."

SEVERE QUAKES HIT TEXAS; TOWN MUCH DAMAGED

Every Building Suffers from Shocks.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Earth tremors shook central and west Texas today.

Houses were reported shaken in scores of cities, but Valentine in far southwest Texas in the southern Sierra Vieja mountains, seemed to bear the brunt of the shock. There many adobe residences were wrecked. No loss of life was reported.

At Hondo two distinct shocks were felt, a rocking motion appearing to run from the northwest to the southeast along the rock uplift there.

Taylor was the farthest city to the east to report the shock, giving it a width of at least 500 miles in Texas.

Sleepers Awakened and Flee.

At Valentine the most severe tremor was preceded and followed by lighter ones. The original tremor aroused most of the residents and they rushed into the streets, all escaping before the heavier shocks cracked walls and sent roofs crashing down. Every chimney in Valentine fell and every building showed damage. Total loss was estimated at $75,000.

San Antonio was the largest city to report the earthquakes. Dishes were broken, windows rattled and chandeliers swayed, although no extensive damage was reported. William Marx of the San Antonio weather bureau estimated the tremors began at 5:25 a. m. and lasted 72 seconds. It was the first earthquake recorded since establishment there of the weather bureau in 1871.

Fort Stockton, in the Big Bend country in southwest Texas, reported the walls of several downtown business buildings were cracked.

Famous Springs Spout Mud.

Comanche springs, flowing 60,000,000 gallons of water daily, spouted muddy water for an hour after the disturbance, but apparently the flow was not affected otherwise.

At Sanderson, in the same general section, one residence was damaged.

Monahans, in the West Texas oil area, reported walls of the Worth hotel were cracked by four slight but distinct tremors.

Moody, Hamlin, Coleman, Colorado, Brady, Stamford, Cameron, San Angelo, Pecos, Abilene, Temple, Sierra Blanca, and Eagle Pass were other cities and towns which felt the earth shocks, with an accompaniment of rattling dishes and windows and shaken beds, but none reported any damage.

Many Injured in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A dispatch to El Continental says a large number of persons were injured at Oaxaca, Mexico, last night when earth tremors caused many houses to collapse. None was killed. Oaxaca is about 200 miles northwest of Mexico City. Strong earth shocks also were reported from Chihuahua City. No serious damage was done.

MEXICANS ASK CITY TO NAME BOARD TO FIX PRICES ON FOOD

Eagle Pass, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Hundreds of Mexican farmers and laborers sullenly but peacefully heard fiery orations against "unscrupulous merchants" at a massmeeting in Piedras Negras across the international border this morning. The meeting was called to protest food prices.

The crowd vociferously voted to have leaders frame a memorial asking city officials to appoint a price regulating body composed of wholesale and retail merchants and laboring people to fix normal prices for nationally produced and American produced goods and print list prices until the present emergency has passed.

Price protestants held the meeting withing hearing of the city hall. Police and government troops stood at the edge of the crowd, ready to intervene in case their orders that the meeting must not assume anti-government aspect were violated.

Take Bullet from Heart; Nab Suspect in Shooting

Herbert Green, 23 years old, 3005 South Wabash avenue, accused of shooting and wounding Gus Harris, 3203 South Dearborn street, in a dice game on Saturday, was arrested yesterday. Harris was taken to the county hospital, where physicians found that a bullet was imbedded in his heart. The bullet was removed and the outer walls of the heart were sewed together. The condition of Harris was still critical late yesterday.

5 HURT IN AUTO CRASH NEAR HERRIN.

Herrin, Ill., Aug. 16.—(Special.)—Five persons were injured, one seriously, in an auto accident near here last night.

AUTO PLUNGES INTO STORE; 3 AT COUNTER INJURED

D. S. Komiss Drives Car Through Window.

Three persons in a store were injured yesterday, one seriously, when a car driven by D. S. Komiss, 52 years old, 435 Surf street, a State street merchant, got out of control and crashed through the window of a Whelan drug store at 5200 North Clark street. Sidney Franklin, 1901 Humboldt boulevard, a cigar clerk, was pinned behind a counter, receiving severe internal injuries, and two customers, Mrs. Anna Stephanton, 1901 North Kimball avenue, and George Olson, 6517 Oxford avenue, were cut by flying glass.

D. S. KOMISS. [Moffett Photo.]

Heads Clothing Company.

Mr. Komiss is president of the D. S. Komiss company, 301 South State street. He is a member of the Chicago crime commission, director of the Art institute and Field museum, and a guarantor of the Chicago Civic Opera. For a time the Komiss company had control of the Leiter stores.

Mr. Komiss, who was charged with reckless driving, was taken to the Edgewater hospital in a badly shaken condition. After receiving treatment there he went to his home. He said that he "did all I could to avoid the accident."

Franklin was taken to the Lutheran Deaconess hospital, where his injuries were reported as critical. The accident occurred when Komiss, driving north in Clark street, swerved to avoid crashing into a car driven by John T. Holmes, 1740 Wallen avenue.

Two babies were fatally injured late yesterday and their parents were hurt when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a steel support under the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad viaduct at California avenue near 32d street.

The little victims were Elinor Hauppa, 11 months old, and Frank Hloucel Jr., 9 months old. Those injured were William and Mrs. Anna Hauppa and Frank and Mrs. Mary Hloucel, all of 2126 South Washtenaw avenue. Elinor died almost immediately. The other baby died later at St. Anthony's hospital. Mrs. Hauppa suffered possible internal injuries and Mrs. Hloucel a possible skull fracture. Hloucel received a broken rib and broken left arm, while Hauppa suffered bruises and cuts. Hloucel was the driver of the car.

Policeman John Krupicka, 47 years old, 5035 South Sacramento avenue, died in St. Anthony's hospital yesterday of injuries received last Thursday when his automobile collided with another car at Kedzie and 36th street.

These deaths raised the motor toll in Cook county since Jan. 1 to 706.

Uses Old Inner Tube to Free Girl from Live Wire

Mobile, Ala., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The quick thinking of Randolph Gilbert, 18, today saved the life of six year old Betty Adams of Dothan, Ala. The child had caught hold of a high voltage tension wire and young Gilbert, hearing her screams, ran to his home and got an old inner tube which he used to free the child from the wires.

ELEVEN ARE INJURED WHEN GLIDER FALLS; PILOT HELD IN JAIL

Wyalusing, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Eleven persons were injured, five seriously today when a glider fell into a crowd at Wyalusing rocks, near here.

The pilot, Capt. Fred A. Pippig, New York, also injured, but not seriously, was held in the Bradford county jail pending the outcome of the injuries of those struck when the glider fell.

Those injured seriously:

J. H. Swackhammer, Rummerfield, both legs broken and a possible fractured skull; Mrs. William Stone, Wyalusing, right leg broken, cuts and bruises; Mrs. J. B. Lewis, Wyalusing, injuries to the chest; Dorothy C. Edwards, Laceyville, right wrist broken and possible fractured skull; R. S. Arthur, Laceyville, injuries to hip.

Free Pamphlet on Mouth Care

Explains Law of Osmosis; New Principle in Mouth Hygiene. Don't Miss It!

STOP in today at any Walgreen store and ask for the circular on mouth care which we are distributing free. It contains much valuable information on methods of keeping the teeth, mouth, tongue, and throat clean and healthy, how to avoid and to treat disorders of the mouth. It also describes how Ora-Noid uses the well known physical law of osmosis — a new principle in mouth hygiene.

These are highly magnified pictures of a tongue and gland. Note the crypts, many of them actually coming together at their openings. Many thousands of these microscopic crypts exist in the mouth. Each is a hiding place for bacteria which no antiseptic can reach. Ora-Noid flushes them out by osmotic force.

Flush Out Germs While Brushing Teeth

Ora-Noid is a remarkable new dentifrice that performs six mouth benefits at the same time—a complete oral prophylaxis in itself.

It not only cleans the teeth, but it keeps the mouth clean and healthy as well. No mouth wash is needed.

And most important of all, through osmotic force, it flushes out those germs which are securely hidden in the crypts of the tongue and mouth tissues which no antiseptic, no matter how strong, can possibly reach.

Help Nature Make Repairs

Ora-Noid draws excess fluids from the tissues. It allays irritation and reduces inflammation. It clears the way for nature to make repairs. Ora-Noid is an important adjunct in the treatment of any disorders of the mouth.

Walgreen's offer Ora-Noid on a money back guarantee. Get a $1 can and if you do not find that it does all that is claimed for it, your money is cheerfully refunded. *Call for the special Ora-Noid Pamphlet on the care of the teeth. ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

STOCKYARDS AWE WHOLE WORLD IN 66 BRIEF YEARS

Today Is Anniversary of J. B. Sherman's Road.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Sixty-six years ago this morning there emerged from one of the small residences in what is now Chicago's financial district a tall, broad shouldered man with long coat and hip boots.

JOHN B. SHERMAN. [From an oil painting owned by Rialto and Bolzin club.]

Mounting a horse, he made his way in haste through the marshes and cabbage patches to a point now known as Madison and 25th streets. He was just in time to oversee a crew of workmen in the laying of ties and rails for the only suburban line that connected Chicago and the new million dollar enterprise "way out there in the country." That project was to be completed by Christmas day, 1865. It was the beginning of the Chicago Union Stockyards, surrounded by an infant Packingtown.

He Starts Stockyards.

The tall Chicagoan was John B. Sherman, a leading citizen in his day. He started something that continues to this day to be one of the strongest forces in making Chicago the agricultural capital of the world. In addition, the support he secured from nine railroads at that time, together with the natural superiority of Chicago's location, has grasped and held for the city its dominance in transportation.

Today, entirely surrounded by the city, this district which pays nearly one-ninth of the hourly wages of industrial Chicago, is a city within a city. Its 55,000 population during the active weeks in cool, clean buildings of modern construction—an enormous human machine that is a distinct surprise to those who see it for the first time.

The stockyards themselves constitute the largest open air hotel for meat animals in the world. So long as people continue to enjoy juicy steaks and chops, butter, eggs, cheese, fat poultry, or find need of some 200 industrial products, this four billion dollar industry will continue to carry Chicago's name into every civilized corner of the world.

Always Major Industry Here.

Since the first settlement around Fort Dearborn began to draw on the fertile midwest prairies for food and saleable products the meat business has been a major industry here. Archibald Clybourn in 1827 built the first log cabin slaughter house on the north branch of the Chicago river to supply the fort's garrison.

Later, the packing industry of P. D. Armour, Gustavus Swift and Nels Morris was founded at the point where the Chicago Civic Opera building now stands. Slowly but surely these pioneers expanded the midwest's business arteries into the east and into foreign countries.

Market Always Open.

Every hour of every day in the year, farmers have here an open cash market for whatever they may offer. Live stock which has made a market for 25 per cent of the corn crop and vast plantations of forage crops, is bought here and sold from or for interests in every state in the Union, as well as export.

Last year 31 states and Canada sent meat animals to this great battering place, aggregating over a half billion dollars in value. Since the stockyards opened it has never been closed by war, panic, or plague, having handled the stupendous physical volume of 786 million head of live stock, worth over nineteen billions of dollars!

As Chicago can boast of this great reservoir for the material output of the nation, so also is it the center of competition for over 60 large packing or meat slaughtering concerns. There are 20 packers whose annual business exceeds 50 million dollars.

"Most industries," explains one packing official, "buy raw materials to fabricate or finish. Here is one that buys a finished product and disassembles it into some 200 products. Directly and indirectly, the industry is so closely related with others as to somewhere touch, almost without an exception, every individual in the United States."

Prove it? That the packing official did, as he does repeatedly for the 800,000 visitors, most of them from outside Chicago, who annually come to Chicago's stockyards.

"First, of course, is the meat business, reaching consumers in fresh, frozen, pickled, cured or processed forms," said the packing official. "That is the industry's mainstay. Then the dairy and poultry products we gather, manufacture or distribute, making us the largest operators in this field also.

By-Products Are Increasing.

"But in our by-products lines, constantly being added to, we make soaps, fertilizers for gardens or farms, glues, gelatins, surfacing for movie films, medical and pharmaceutical products for babies and grownups, canned fruits and vegetables, cosmetics, combs and hundreds of other such widely used articles. We interlock with transportation and communication in all its phases."

Chemists and research experts are busy adapting the products of the American farm to changes in modes of living in the city.

There are 1,350 packing establishments in the United States. Sooner or later, all of them must have recourse to the Chicago market; or must base their financial dealings on its operations.

That unemployment has been less in this business than in most others is evidence of its economic security—so sound that the business continues to expand each year. Two reasons are given for keeping up pay rolls, one that nations must continue to eat, even if credit is sometimes strained; the other that an open market for farm products must be continued, and a force be kept to accept and utilize whatever the farmer offers, whenever he offers it, paying him in cash.

R. D. KOHN CHARGES U. S. ARCHITECTS ARE BOUND BY RED TAPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.] — Government architects are bound by routine and red tape and they tend to create stereotyped designs, declared Robert D. Kohn of New York, president of the American Institute of Architects, today, in answering what he described as charges of inefficiency and slowness recently made against private architects by Ferry K. Heath, assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of public buildings.

FERRY K. HEATH. [Harris & Ewing.]

In his statement which was given out through the Institute's headquarters here, Mr. Kohn remarked that the Keyes-Elliott bill authorizing the employment of private architects for federal building design had been passed in 1930 and that a year was too short a time in which to form a sound judgment of the private architects' ability.

"We wonder how anybody who knows Washington can take this seriously," he said, and added that industries and business corporations who employ these same men do not patronize inefficient and slow designers.

RAID BLIND PIGS IN OMAHA; 200 ARE ARRESTED

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Six squads of Omaha police, augmented by federal agents, by today had arrested nearly 200 persons in raids upon numerous liquor resorts as the result of Police Commissioner Roy Towle's demand for an immediate "cleanup" of the city of Omaha.

For three hours central police headquarters was jammed with those waiting to be booked. There was an occasional charge of "protection" from some of those caught in the drive. One said he had just paid $50 for protection, another said he had been advised to clean up but did not.

Commissioner Towle yesterday asked the city council for $10,000 for use in investigating the liquor situation here and the purported liquor syndicate of Omaha. He was refused, and Mayor Richard Metcalfe said, "There ought to be more raids." Towle immediately advised Police Chief J. J. Pasanowski that drastic action must be taken and if results were not forthcoming a police department shakeup would be demanded.

CONFESS $731 ROBBERY.

John Sanford, 22 years old, of 228 East 37th street, and Lloyd Lichtfoot, 25, of Forestview road, Evanston, Negroes, confessed to Evanston police last night that they were the bandits who robbed Henry C. Schultz, a butcher at 2735 Central street, Evanston, of $731 Saturday.

H. W. Anderson Reports on Crime Causes.

ple acquired in its virgin state what is in many respects the most favored and fruitful area of the world's surface. They have existed as an independent people for only the short period of 150 years. Within this time they have destroyed the original occupants of the soil or driven them from their lands with little regard for their rights.

"They have converted substantially all of this great area, with its immense natural resources, from public into private ownership. They have exploited these resources for private gain to an extent which in some instances at least already threatens exhaustion. They have created the widest spread between the extremes of wealth and poverty existing in the western world. They have developed degrading slums in the cities and ignorant under-privileged areas in the rural districts which stand as menaces to social health and dangers to social order.

Makes Man a Cog.

"They have conquered many of the forces of nature and made them the servants of man, but have so organized and developed their industrial system that it tends to make of man himself a cog in a relentless machine, without the inspiration of personal achievement, or the contentment which springs from social and economic security. They have created the largest body of laws and the most complex system of government now in existence as restraints and controls upon individual and social conduct, but every stage in their development has been characterized by a large and ever increasing degree of lawlessness and crime. They have engaged in at least one war in every generation. No candid investigation can ignore these facts, or the conclusions which they naturally suggest."

Shows Chicago Crime Zones.

Chicago appears as the case book in a survey of delinquency areas by Clifford R. Shaw and Henry D. McKay of the institute of juvenile research, and is frequently cited in a study by Morris Ploscowe of Harvard university. With a third inquiry under the direction of Miss Mary Van Kleeck, these studies occupy a major portion of the majority report's 800 pages.

The feature of the Shaw-McKay report is its study of juvenile delinquency areas in Chicago.

The nearer the loop, the nearer the factories, the nearer the stockyards, the nearer the steel mills, the greater the chance that a youngster will go wrong, says the survey. The fact that a large per cent of Chicago's population is foreign born also contributes.

Worst Sections Named.

Along the north and south branches of the Chicago river, on the near west side, around the stockyards, in the South Chicago steel mill districts, and in the Pullman industrial districts west of Lake Calumet are the worst places for children to grow up.

Three groups of delinquent boys were studied by Mr. Shaw and Mr. McKay.

In the best residential districts there were no delinquent boys, but in the two square mile areas south of Roosevelt road and east of State street more than 26 per cent of the boys between 10 and 16 were dealt with by the police probation officers in 1926. In the neighborhood of the yards it was 17.6 per cent; around Goose island, 14.3 per cent; just west of the loop, 21.5 per cent.

In a Juvenile court group it is shown how delinquency falls as the in-close sections are left behind.

Outer Districts Better.

The same thing appears in a study of committed delinquents. A circle with its center in the loop and a two mile radius contains delinquency rates averaging 3.5. Extend the radius so that the zone holds only the outlying districts and the rate falls to 0.7 on the north, 1.9 on the south, 0.9 on the west.

A delinquency area is characterized by a decreasing population, the survey shows; for it means an area where industry is encroaching. It is an area where the economic dependency rate is high and social services busy. It is an area with a large Negro and foreign population. The delinquency rate for children with foreign born fathers is 76 per cent greater than for children with native born fathers, it was found. The Negro delinquency rate is still higher.

The delinquency area is a district of squalor and low rents, but it is handy to the mills and factories. It is, therefore, the area into which the new immigrant comes, pushing the old before him. It is the place where divergent old world cultures are in conflict with each other and with the culture of the new world. It is an area where adult crime thrives—and teaches the coming generation.

Influenced Toward Crime.

In the high rate of crime among young men between 17 and 21 in these areas the investigators find proof of the constant influence toward crime which surrounds the younger boy.

"These older offenders, who are well known and have prestige in the neighborhood, tend to set the standards and patterns of behavior for the younger boys, who idolize and emulate them," says the study. "In many cases the 'big shot' represents for the young delinquent an ideal around which his own hopes and ambitions are crystallized. His attainment of this coveted ideal means recognition in his group and the esteem of his fellows."

Some of the case histories reveal Al Capone, Frankie Lake, and Terry Druggan as the heroes young delinquents seek to imitate.

Several other cities are studied and their delinquency areas portrayed. Family relationships and their influence and the influence of gang life are discussed.

First Offenses in Childhood.

"Many students of the problem of delinquency and crime agree that a large proportion of habitual offenders commit their first delinquencies during childhood, youth, or adolescence," the Shaw-McKay survey concludes. "Our detailed case studies indicate that criminal patterns of behavior develop as a product of a long process of interaction between the individual and the successive social situations in which he lives. This process in which the criminal's habits and attitudes are formed usually involves a continuity of experiences extending over a long period of time. From this standpoint a delinquent or criminal act is a part of a dynamic life process and should be considered as such in the analysis and treatment of cases."

Enforcement System Blamed.

Direct attention to the inefficiency of the law enforcement system as being in itself a cause of crime is paid by Mr. Ploscowe.

Chicago appears several times in illustration of his point. He quotes the Illinois crime commission to show that the police do not catch more than 20 per cent of those who commit felonies. He charges the police forces of Chicago and New York with being particularly prone to collusion with the criminal and among other evidence cites the 1915 report of the Chicago city council committee on crime which said:

"There can be no doubt that one of the chief causes of crime in Chicago is that members of the police force, and particularly of the plain clothes staff, are hand in glove with criminals. Instead of punishing the criminal they protect him. Instead of using the power of the law for the protection of society they use it for their own personal profit. They form a working agreement with pickpockets, prowlers, confidence men, gamblers, and other classes of offenders. The basis of this agreement is a division of profits between the law breaker and the public official. The exact extent of this system it is impossible to determine, but there is no doubt that its ramifications are so wide as to cripple the machinery for the enforcement of the law."

Nor, he says, is proof lacking to show that Chicago has not greatly improved since then.

Corruption also inhabits the prosecutor's office and sits upon the judicial bench, says Mr. Ploscowe, and again cites some of Chicago's experiences.

Stability of work is of great importance as a factor in law observance, it is concluded. Certain types of crime are found to fluctuate in almost perfect proportion to fluctuations in the level of employment. Lack of sufficient training to hold a job may prove an impelling factor toward crime. The difficulty experienced by the ex-convict in getting and keeping a job may be the cause of his return to criminality.

Anderson Submits Both.

The majority of the commission presents neither conclusions nor recommendations. Mr. Anderson submits both and, together with the authors of the three surveys which make up the bulk of the report, details a list of crime's causes.

In an anti-social doctrine of inalienable individual rights and in defective individual minds and bodies; in rigidity of law in conflict with progress and in the conflict between old world traditions and new world ambitions; in the venal influence of politics and the squalid influence of city "delinquency areas"; in a social policy of restraint by fear and a parental policy of restraint by force or none at all; in laws unsupported by public sanction; in the insecurity of employment, the drive of poverty, the lure of the gang, the glamor of the "big shot," and the vicious tutelage of criminal adepts, Mr. Anderson and the collaborating research scholars find the manifold factors which combine to build the American criminal.

Map of Chicago showing delinquency in various areas, as prepared by the Wickersham commission. The areas within and around the loop, along the forks of the Chicago river, back of the stockyards and in South Chicago are found to contribute heavily to the city's crime.

Two Tugs Fail to Free Lake Steamer Manitou

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 16.—[Special.] — Two tugs of the Great Lakes towing and wrecking company worked in vain all day today in an effort to release the passenger steamer Manitou of the Michigan Transit company which went aground at the Dark Hole on the shores of Neebish island, twenty-five miles south of this city, in a heavy fog. The passengers are making a lark of their extra stay in the St. Mary's river.

DU PONT MAID IS READY TO SERVE TERM FOR THEFT

Willingness to waive extradition and return to Delaware to "face the music" was expressed yesterday by Mrs. Emil Ludwig, 28 years old, who was arrested on Saturday night for the theft of $50,000 worth of jewelry from the home of Ernest du Pont, member of the wealthy Du Pont family in Wilmington, Del., where she was employed as a maid. She was arrested when she tried to dispose of some of the jewelry shortly after she arrived in Chicago. The pawnbroker became suspicious because of the value of the pieces and called police. She had already disposed of jewelry valued at $10,000 for $215 in New York.

ILLINOIS PEACH WEEKS · AUGUST 17 TO 31

put this Bumper Crop of Delicious Peaches on your Pantry Shelves

THIS SEASON PEACHES ARE
bigger · better quality · and far cheaper than ever before

Listen in to Ball Brothers' Canning Time radio program for helpful hints on canning peaches. On the air over WLS every Tuesday and Friday from 2 to 2:15 p. m. (Daylight Saving Time).

BUSHELS of peaches are pouring in from burdened orchards—bushels of great, red-ripe fruit, firm and delicious to eat. Not for many, many years has the peach crop been so choice, so full—and so CHEAP. It is rank extravagance to waste gorgeous fruit like this when it will taste so good next winter. Be efficient—can them!

What if you haven't canned a peach in your life! It's the easiest thing in the world to do. A bushel or two of peaches, a little sugar, a row of Ball "Perfect Mason" or "Ideal" Jars, a half-day's time—and before you know it you'll be bragging of your newest achievement, a shelf full of tasty preserves, of spicy peach pickles, of whole sweet peaches, all lined up to vanquish the grocery bill next winter.

Just remember this—in canning, the most important thing is the Jar. BALL Jars are the scientific development of fifty years of manufacture. Smooth, easy to use, air-tight, they are preferred by three-fourths of all the housewives in America. Sold at any grocery or hardware store.

Five Tested Recipes for Peaches

Peach and Cantaloupe Conserve.

2 pint diced peaches.
1 pint diced cantaloupe.
3 cups sugar.
2 lemons, juice and grated rind.
½ cup English walnuts, blanched and chopped fine.
Combine ingredients with exception of the nuts. Cook mixture until it is thick and clear, add nuts and pour into clean, hot BALL Jars. Seal at once.

Pickled Peaches.

Make a syrup of two quarts of best cider vinegar and 3 quarts granulated sugar. Place this in a kettle with a spice bag containing one tablespoon of whole cloves and one quarter pound of stick cinnamon. Pare and halve the peaches, leaving in an occasional stone for flavor. Cook the peaches in the syrup until tender, then place in BALL Jars. Fill jars with the vinegar syrup, and seal. The peaches may be left whole if preferred.

Peach Butter

Peel and stone peaches. Cook in as small amount of water as possible until they are reduced to a pulp. Add ½ as much sugar as pulp and cook mixture until it is thick and clear, stirring frequently to prevent burning. Spices may be added if desired. Pack into clean, hot BALL Jars, and seal at once.

Peaches (Open-Kettle)

Because of their rich flavor, peaches canned by the Open-Kettle method are preferred by some home makers to peaches canned by the Cold-Pack method.
Make a heavy syrup using 3 cups of sugar to 1 cup of water. Let the syrup come to a boil, then drop in the peaches, which have been peeled and halved, cook until very tender. Pack carefully, cut side down, into hot BALL Jars. Fill jars to overflowing with boiling syrup and seal immediately. If the peaches are weighed, a pound of sugar may be allowed for each pound of fruit. If not convenient to weigh the fruit you can start with a small amount of syrup, and if not enough add more sugar and water in the same proportion, 3 to 1, to that already in the kettle. If this makes a heavier preserve than wanted, use a medium thin syrup of, say 3 cups of sugar to 2 cups of water. If any syrup is left, can the remaining peach syrup to be used for pudding, sauces, gelatine, jellies and other winter-time desserts. It also makes a delicious ice cream.

Peaches (Cold-Pack)

Select peaches which are ripe, but not soft. Those which are over-ripe may be used for jam or peach butter. Blanch (scald) quickly to loosen skins; cold dip for 1 minute, remove skins and pack (halves or whole), without crushing, into hot BALL Jars. Fill with medium thick syrup made with 3 parts sugar to 2 parts water, partly seal and process in a Hot-Water Bath for 20 minutes. Remove from canner and seal immediately.

GANDHI SAYS GOD TOLD HIM NOT TO GO TO ENGLAND

Returns to Spinning; Sees Trouble Ahead.

AHMEDABAD, India, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi returned to his spinning today, declaring that his "inner voice" told him he should not go to London for the second round table conference on Indian affairs unless the government agreed to investigate what he insists are breaches of the Delhi pact.

While the Mahatma reeled off yard after yard of yarn with his clawlike hands, he said:

"The web of India's destiny, I fear, must be woven in India, not in England. It is my notion that no Indian should look toward London at the present time. If I have not seen fit to go to London it is because I firmly believe the interest of India lies in that course."

Says Justice Fails.

Then, turning from his spinning wheel, he said earnestly:

"I, for myself, do not distinguish between British politicians and British officials in India, and if all our energies have been spent without securing justice in small affairs, it is impossible to expect justice in the so-called big affairs. Therefore it was proper for me not to go to London as a representative in the congress, but the responsibility on the shoulders of the Indian people has thereby increased."

Gandhi asserted that not only his own followers, but many of his friends in America and England, urged him to go to London, but after he received the final telegram from Viceroy Lord Willingdon, he said, his own "heart searching" advised otherwise.

"I saw the hand of God beckoning me not to go in the viceroy's telegram," he said. "Up to that time I had employed, by thought, word and deed, all means a human being could employ for insuring my participation in the round table conference. But God's will be done!"

Indians Expect Compromise.

The Mahatma said he would make no overtures to the government on the question of his going to London, because he thinks the next move is with the viceroy or Prime Minister MacDonald. The feeling prevails here that the government will eventually find a way of compromise with him. In this case, it is believed that the meeting of the federal structure committee at London would be postponed for a week or two in order to permit Gandhi to go there.

Addressing groups of his disciples after the usual prayer tonight, he exhorted all Indians to be ready, either for peace or for war.

"There are," he said, "two ways for us—to play a passive or an active part, but always to think of swaraj [self-rule]. We have not scrapped the truce, but if the government declares it ended, we are ready for it. Either way, the notion of London must be dropped. Cherish your prowess; that alone will help in the future."

150 Carloads Daily of Peaches in Anna Region

Anna, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Trainloads of the finest peaches ever grown leave for the market each night. The movement will last about ten days. One hundred and fifty cars daily will be loaded in this vicinity.

NAVY'S SCOUTING FLEET TO LEAVE MONTAUK TODAY

Montauk, L. I., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Thirty-five ships of the United States navy's scouting force are leaving here at daybreak tomorrow after a week's stay, during which their officers and men held their annual athletic maneuvers. The cruiser Chicago, flagship of the fleet in command of Vice Admiral George R. Marvell, will hoist anchor at 6 a. m. and before 10 o'clock the last ship will be out of Fort Pond bay.

The first statement of an official nature concerning "the attitude of the fleet toward its sojourn here came from Vice Admiral Marvell at the presentation of trophies to the fleet's athletic champions when the admiral expressed the appreciation of himself, officers and men of the treatment and hospitality shown by Long Island people. "It was a great pleasure," the admiral said, "to have been stationed here." The harbor facilities of Fort Pond bay also were praised by the admiral.

Representative Fred A. Britten of Illinois, chairman of the house committee on naval affairs, who has been the center of much criticism for recommending to Admiral Pratt that the fleet maneuvers be held here, said tonight that he believed Admiral Marvell to be speaking for the entire fleet when he spoke in glowing terms of Montauk.

"On my word, I have not heard a single dissenting voice from either officers or sailors concerning the visit of the fleet," Mr. Britten said.

Montauk will be recommended again next year as the site for the fleet maneuver, Mr. Britten indicated. Whatever opposition comes to the Montauk selection for the fleet maneuvers will come from Newport, according to Mr. Britten.

RUSSIA OFFERS 'WHITE COLLAR' CLASS NEW DEAL

Wants Old Intelligentsia to Join Workers.

MOSCOW, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Elaborating the new soviet policy toward the old technical intelligentsia, J. E. Rudzutak, assistant chairman of the council of people's commissars, declares all who want to work honorably and respectably will be given the opportunity, regardless of "yesterday."

J. E. RUDZUTAK. [A. P. Photo.]

Painting a rosy picture of the future of soviet Russia, he says industrialization plans have surpassed expectations. This, he adds, should lead to greatly improved living conditions for workers as a whole with completion of this year's program.

His statements, made in a speech Wednesday at a conference in Moscow of engineers and technical workers, was published in the Moscow newspapers today.

Need "Old" Engineers.

Emphasizing the importance of "our technical backwardness," the soviet leader called for wider coöperation between the new and old intelligentsia, declaring that, while the nation must develop its own proletarian technical leadership, as Dictator Josef Stalin advocated, it was foolish to rely on new engineers alone.

"The question now is, will the old engineers work with or against us?" Rudzutak said, answering his own question by saying most of the capitalist elements of the country had been conquered and it now remained only to win over the specialists of the old order completely.

He pointed out there would be some difficulty in assimilating some of this class into a Socialistic state, however, because many were prone to view the working man as ignorant and inferior, instead of helping him to raise his capacities.

Working Class Now "Master."

On the other hand, the working class looked on the old intelligentsia with suspicion, remembering that formerly they were on the side of the "master," while now the working class itself was master, he said, but a master without technical knowledge.

"Some of the old intelligentsia are unable to find a common language with the proletarian family," he asserted. "The problem now is to collect them in the common family of the Socialist state, side by side with the workers.

"Their lost faith must be reëstablished, friendly relations must come between workers and technicians. There should be no division between the old and new technical order."

POLICE ARREST TWO BROTHERS.

Aubrey Carley, 23 years old, and his brother, John, 19, both living in a rooming house at 7933 Marquette avenue, were arrested last night by South Chicago police on charges of contributing to the delinquency of two 10 year old girls. They denied the charges.

GOV. ROOSEVELT, TAMMANY HALL MAY HAVE FEUD

Special Session May Lead to Open Break.

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Possibility of a political feud between Tammany Hall and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt which may have a marked effect on the presidential boom for him, developed today as the result of his call for a special session of the legislature to pass a bill to empower the Hofstadter committee to grant immunity to witnesses.

Resentment in Tammany, smouldering since the governor appointed Samuel Seabury, counsel of the committee, to investigate the City club's charges against District Attorney Thomas C. T. Crain, increased with the examination of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany, by Mr. Seabury on Friday, and broke more or less into the open with the call for a special session.

Think Break May Help.

Some of Gov. Roosevelt's friends believe that a break with Tammany might help rather than hinder him in getting the Democratic nomination for President and would bring him support from other states, leading Democrats of which have been holding aloof from the Roosevelt movement because of fear that the governor was too closely allied with Tammany. These advisers of the governor do not believe Tammany would knife the governor but contend that even if Tammany should become hostile, Gov. Roosevelt could carry this state against Hoover unless there should be a great improvement in the economic situation.

So far there has been no suggestion that Tammany, no matter how much resentment its leaders might feel, should try to keep delegates to the Democratic national convention from this state from voting for Gov. Roosevelt on the early ballots. There has been the suggestion however, that if opportunity should offer during the balloting, Tammany might throw its votes to some other candidate.

Tammany Leaders Silent.

Leading members of Tammany would not discuss for publication their attitude toward Gov. Roosevelt because the Tammany policy apparently is to avoid an open break with the governor so long as he has the state patronage at his disposal and remains a decided presidential possibility.

Assemblyman Louis A. Cuvillier, Democratic member of the Hofstadter committee, who earlier had charged the governor with political motives in issuing the call, expressed views shared by others in Tammany, who were not so frank in expressing them.

"In calling the special session the governor tried to help his presidential aspirations in other states by showing independence of Tammany Hall," Mr. Cuvillier said, "but he has to depend on Tammany Hall to get the vote in this state. If he thinks he can get along without Tammany Hall, let him think so."

Scope May Be Limited.

Friends of the governor have indicated that in his message to the legislature, which he must send when the special session convenes on Aug. 25, he will limit its scope to the passage of a specific bill giving the immunity grant power to the Hofstadter committee alone and will not give the legislature opportunity to consider a general bill.

Senator John J. Dunnigan, Democratic leader of the senate and an ex officio member of the Hofstadter committee, is preparing a list of counties in which corruption is alleged to have been disclosed by investigations from the office of the state controller. He will ask the governor to broaden his message so that the legislature either may extend the authority of the Hofstadter to enable it to investigate local governments upstate.

These are Bead Protectors

This is a Double Woven Breaker Strip

These are PLIES

The National Better Business Bureau . . SAYS:

Ply

A ply is one of a number of layers of rubberized cotton fabric, either cord or square woven, extending from bead to bead, and forming the body of the tire.

Breaker

A breaker is a layer or layers of rubberized fabric or cords, extending around the tire directly over the body plies and under the tread. It is approximately the width of the tread, and serves to promote adhesion between the tread and the carcass; and to help absorb and distribute road shocks.

Breakers Are Not Plies

Breaker strips should not be enumerated as plies, because they are different in character, and perform different functions.

Breakers usually have a lower cord count to the inch, and consequently are not as strong as plies. Breakers do not extend to the bead of the tire, as the plies do.

Breaker strips do not, therefore, contribute materially to the bursting resistance of a tire, which is the main function of the plies.

Avoid Confusion! Breaker Strips Are Not Plies

ALLSTATE TIRES HAVE AS MANY PLIES AS ANY OTHER FIRST QUALITY TIRE . . .

These so-called "6-Ply Tires" of a certain make are really "4 ply" tires when the facts are known! No tire selling at ALLSTATE'S price of 4.98 for the 29x4.40 contains more than 4 plies! In addition to 4 plies, ALLSTATE TIRES have a double woven Breaker Strip superior by actual tests to any two single woven Breaker Strips. This is but one of the many outstanding features of ALLSTATE TIRES. Over 8 million car owners have investigated the facts—that's why they changed to ALLSTATE TIRES. You, too, will be satisfied when you change to ALLSTATE TIRES.

NOTE: EVERY ALLSTATE TIRE SIZE 6.00 and Over has 6 Plies and Double Woven Breaker Strip

PROMPT RELIEF AND A GREAT PUBLIC IMPROVEMENT.

The Chicago Plan commission has made the most important proposal yet contributed to our planning for the relief of depression in this community. It has the great merit of providing not only substantial prompt relief of unemployment, but a great and urgently needed public improvement. It is both an emergency measure and a permanent benefit.

The commission, after expert study, proposes the construction of the west side elevated highway, for which the money is now available. It is estimated that the road fund lying idle in the state treasury will reach the huge sum of $50,000,000 by spring. If the legislature will appropriate $22,000,000 for this highway, work could begin within seven weeks of its action. A special session, which is justifiable in the present emergency, could insure this work long before snow flies. The commission estimates that it would provide employment for 20,250 men, and would directly stimulate business by putting $363,000 a day into circulation. A staff of from 400 to 500 engineers and draftsmen, now unemployed, could be put to work upon plans and specifications as soon as the legislature acts and within three weeks work upon the highway itself could begin.

For direct relief of unemployment, Eugene S. Taylor, manager for the plan commission, rightly says this project would furnish more relief than any charity program, and the relief would come in the best form.

As an emergency measure it is of first rate importance. But it is more than an emergency measure. It is a thoroughly studied and approved permanent improvement which ought to be accomplished at once entirely apart from any immediate pressure for relief of the unemployed. It would give to northern Illinois the same adequate access to the metropolis, and in fact a better access, than Wisconsin and Indiana now have. It is an essential artery for this city and the great contributory region about. It would be not only a Chicago but an Illinois public benefit. Chicago motorists will contribute in the form of gas taxes and registration fees nearly half the $50,000,000 which will accumulate during the winter, and the expenditure of $22,000,000 on the highway is not more than they are entitled to, even were it not a benefit which will accrue to the whole state, directly and indirectly.

The governor did not approve an appropriation of $5,000,000 to start this work, promising a survey to determine traffic needs, upon which little if anything has been done. But this survey is not necessary, for the plan commission had a staff of engineers working for three years before it recommended the west side elevated artery. The commission's present proposal is, therefore, thoroughly considered and not a hasty improvisation for this emergency.

But there is urgent need for action and we are fortunate indeed to have a proposal so well considered and of such solid merit as a permanency, which will also meet the very grave emergency presented by unemployment.

JUDGE HOPKINS SITS IN NEW YORK.

Federal Judge Hopkins says New York is the most lawless city in the country and is reaping the harvest where it has sown. That extra-judicial opinion is something for New York to take up with the judge. It is New York's quarrel and it must make its own disposition of it, but we are interested in Judge Hopkins' sitting in the New York federal district court because there he is verification of a prophecy.

Judge Hopkins is Richard J. Hopkins, formerly a justice of the Kansas Supreme court and, at the same time, a lecturer for the Anti-Saloon league in that state. An investigation of the books of this organization a few years ago disclosed that Charles B. Griffiths, when attorney general, had received payments from the league and that Justice Hopkins had been paid the expenses of his lecturing trips. The Rev. Charles M. Sheldon of Topeka said at the time: "The man in the street does not understand why public officials elected by the state to enforce certain laws should receive two salaries, one from the state and another from an organization which is supported by the churches."

Judge Hopkins was recommended to President Hoover for the federal judiciary by Senator Capper and by H. J. Allen, then senator, both, of course, Kansas drys. Attorney General Mitchell investigated Judge Hopkins' professional record and advised against the appointment on the ground that the candidate was not qualified for the federal judiciary. The President accepted the opinion of his attorney general but the Kansas senators did not weaken. They threatened more trouble in the senate than Mr. Hoover thought the principle was worth. They would not withdraw and the President was forced to. Mr. Mitchell had the humiliation of restudying the candidate's record and finding him qualified. The nomination was submitted and the senate approved. Capper, Allen, and the Kansas drys got their man.

THE TRIBUNE feels that it is entitled to the present verification of its prophecy at the time the controversy ended in the rout of Mr. Hoover and Mr. Mitchell and in their abandonment of a standard of judicial appointments which they themselves had set up. It was then said that the presence of Judge Hopkins on the federal bench in Kansas in compliance with the demand of the Anti-Saloon league might be justified on the theory of giving people of a state whatever they will submit to, but the matter did not end there. Judge Hopkins would probably be found in a Chicago or New York district, the practice of the department of justice being what it was. Such is the case.

A lecturer for the Anti-Saloon league who combined his judicial function in Kansas with promotion of a special cause which could come before him as an issue is sitting in the federal court in a state which would have rejected his name at the mere mention of it for judicial appointment. The New York senators would have laughed at any organization or men who suggested Judge Hopkins for judicial nomination and they would have had control of New York appointments. But they could not control the Kansas drys, Capper and Allen. Senator Tydings of Maryland tried to fight off this appointment, having a true idea of what it meant. He failed and Kansas sent its judge to New York.

HAIL COLUMBIA, HAPPY LAND.

Seymour Lowman, acting secretary of the treasury in the absence of Mr. Mellon, has closed the international bridges from Texas to Mexico to night traffic after 9 o'clock. The bridge at El Paso is not closed until midnight, but Mr. Lowman has stopped traffic at children's bedtime story hour at Laredo, Brownsville, Hidalgo, Eagle Pass and Del Rio. Yes, you have guessed the reason. The treasury department is keeping Americans from crossing over to the night life of the Mexican border towns. When Mr. Mellon was boss of prohibition enforcement Mr. Lowman was his chief enforcer and he has retained all the guardian instincts. He has closed the bridges to keep the Texans and American tourists from gambling and drinking in another country. What a man! What a government!

For the Texans the ruling is a consistent extension of approved methods and doctrines. They should be fed about by federal agents, spoon fed and put to bed. It is their idea of the function of government. They impose it on the rest of the country and they should be treated as feeble minded juveniles, with the farm board running their farms and the treasury department telling them where they may go at night and how long they may stay out.

Later it will come to Mr. Lowman's attention that Americans cross over the Canadian border for suspectable reasons, three of them being spirits, wine and beer. It is whispered about that the Volstead act is not properly respected by Americans traveling in Europe. Mr. Lowman's attention is engaged and his spirit is up. More will be heard of this.

The United States has reached its highest development. It is a half orphan asylum.

SELLING DEATH.

It will be difficult for law abiding citizens of Chicago to believe that the man Von Frantzius has been let off with a fine of $25 for failing to keep a proper record of his sales of firearms. And this fine is not the result of the vagaries of an irresponsible jury, but the deliberate act of a Municipal court judge.

Von Frantzius has a long record of sales of death-dealing weapons to undesirables. The police have found his trail repeatedly in their war on gangsters. They assert they are in possession of evidence that Von Frantzius sold the weapons with which the North Clark street gang massacre was committed. He has been in trouble with the police repeatedly, and was arrested on a warrant for the sale of the revolver used in the Lingle murder. His trade as well as his record is such as to demand from him the most exact obedience to the law respecting the sale of firearms, and his failure to keep complete records is a circumstance so justifiably suspicious as to call for the most drastic application of the law. His effort to shirk responsibility upon a clerk deserves no respect in a court.

The penalties provided in the statute for Von Frantzius' offense are a fine not exceeding $200 or 6 months' imprisonment, or both. Judge Scheffler's fine of $25, which does not even carry costs, is an astonishing and ominous failure of justice and public policy. That Von Frantzius has thus far been able to carry on his trade in death-dealing weapons with suspicious characters is a public scandal to which this paltry fine is a conspicuous addition. It is also further advertisement of the weakness of the defense of the community as represented by some of our judiciary.

REVEALING CENSUS FIGURES.

[Elgin, Ill., Courier-News.]

At least one American institution can be depended upon to grow and to remain unshaken by the reverses and uncertainty of business that affect everything else in the country. It is the institution of government, wholly necessary and always to be maintained, but strangely possessed of the power of seemingly endless expansion. The census bureau, with its voluminous information, discloses an example of the situation. Here are 250 American centers, all of those, in fact, above 30,000 in population. Cities of this class, the 146 of them that have reported continuously since that time, were able to get along with "per capita, net governmental cost payments for operation, maintenance, and interest," amounting to an average of $16.41 in 1902.

Those were happy days, if the taxpayers had only known of it or could have seen a little more than a quarter of a century ahead, even a bare fourteen years to 1917. For by that time the per capita cost figure had moved up to $24.58. Then came the war period and its havoc with costs of virtually all kinds. But local government, which soon shared in the advances, forgot all about the later reduction and deflation and kept its cost figure up steadily until at last accounts it stood at $55.34, a gain of well above 300 per cent since the early part of this century. Costs as a whole, wages and all the rest, have no advance corresponding to that. But then more should be expected of government; especially of returns in proportion to costs, which must be persistently demanded.

IMPROVEMENTS IN CONTROL OF CONSUMPTION.

WE are doing very well in wiping out consumption. According to Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman the average death rate from consumption in fifty-nine American cities in 1930 was only 33 per cent as high as it was in 1910. In these cities there live more than thirty-two million people. If the same rate of improvement could only continue there are persons living who would see consumption as rare as typhoid now is, and that disease is not much more than a memory.

In 1910 the average rate for these cities was about 175, and it is now about 66. The far better records of some of the smaller places give additional hope. For instance, instead of 66 in 1930, the record of Lakewood, O., was only 8.4; that of Cedar Rapids, Ia., 8.9; of Williamsport, Pa., 9.4; and Oak Park, Ill., 10.9. Nineteen smaller cities had records of less than 20. These places have less consumption now than Chicago had typhoid fever twenty years ago.

In Hoffman's report on 147 American cities there were several Canadian cities with rates as low as those that prevailed in the good cities in the States. The honor roll of countries is led by Union of South Africa, with New Zealand second, and Australia third. The United States is fifth and Canada sixth.

The consumption problem is decreasing so rapidly that it becomes possible to analyze it to advantage, as was not possible when the disease overwhelmed us. Negroes are still far too susceptible. But they are becoming less so, and Africa is showing the possibilities of meeting the difficulties of consumption among Negroes. The decline in the prevalence of tuberculosis is greatest among children under 5 years of age. Pasteurization and tuberculin testing of cows are bearing fruit. Women are less subject than men to the ravages of the disease, but between ages 10 and 29 women are more in danger than men. Occupation has much to do with the prevalence of consumption. Miners pay a heavy penalty. This does not apply to coal miners. These have the lowest consumption rate found amongst underground workers. The five occupations with the highest rates are: Miners [other than coal miners], pottery workers, stone cutters, waiters and hotel servants, and cutters and grinders. The five lowest are: City firemen, stationary engineers and firemen, roofers, railway engineers and trainmen, and coal miners.

SALTED PEANUTS.

S. S. H. writes: For the last two months I have been eating a handful of salted Spanish peanuts in the middle of the morning, and another handful at bedtime. I find this has improved my elimination to such an extent that I have two or three bowel movements a day. Is there any danger of upsetting my digestion or gall bladder later on if I keep up this régime? I am 69 years old and healthy.

REPLY.

Peanuts are a very good article of diet though a rather rich one. Your plan is open to three objections. First, you are probably getting more salt than is good for you. Second, you are eating between meals. [That is not wise.] Third, you are taxing your stomach just as you retire. People of 70 or thereabouts should eat very little at night.

FEET AND EYES.

1. I am troubled with skin peeling between my toes. What causes it?

2. I also have some trouble with my eyes. I have granulated eyelids and occasionally matter crosses over my eyeball and everything gets blurry.

REPLY.

1. You have ringworm of the foot in all probability.

2. The most important disease which causes granulated lids is trachoma. Have a physician see if you have that. Trachoma is contagious.

NO TREATMENT NEEDED.

Miss V. E. writes: Several months ago I was operated on for appendicitis. Have felt fine, but sometimes sharp shooting pains are felt inside the incision. I have been wondering whether or not these are natural. I am 20 years old and play tennis a lot, although not as strenuously as before.

REPLY.

My guess is that your pain is in nerves that were cut during the operation. It is unimportant and calls for no treatment.

TEMPORARY CONDITION.

Chicago, July 23.—[Friend of the People.]—About two months ago they installed a sewer on Magnolia avenue north of Lawrence avenue. The people who installed this sewer broke the sidewalks, tore up the street, and left it in a very bad condition. Could you tell me when this street and these sidewalks are to be repaired? C. L. K.

This is a part of the Magnolia avenue system of sewers. The contract for the sewer provides for the restoration of pavement and sidewalks disturbed in connection with the construction of the sewer. The contractor has already started work toward restoring the pavement on Argyle street west of Magnolia avenue. He will be starting the excavation for the new pavement on Magnolia avenue between Lawrence avenue and Argyle street in a few days. The work of restoring sidewalks has not been started yet, but it is expected that this work will follow the paving work and will be started in the near future.

LIENS.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Can any one put a lien on a house without first notifying the owner? 2. How can one find out who had the lien put on the house? 3. Where must one go to find this information? 4. What are the charges? F. V.

1. It is possible.
2. One way would be to examine the records in the Recorder's office.
3. See No. 2.
4. You may be able to do it for yourself.

ATTORNEY'S FEES.

Chicago, Aug. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—What is the legal fee a lawyer is allowed to charge for service rendered in a law suit where judgment is secured? E. A.

Depends upon the amount involved, the labor that was necessary, the risk of defeat, the standing of the attorney, and other facts that are not before us.

THE CHARITY BASEBALL game suggested by THE TRIBUNE sports department, an invitation accepted at once by Cubs and White Sox managements for the open date of Sept. 9, is a sound proposition. Receipts will go to Gov. Emmerson's fund for relief and unemployment. That time has passed when a sports event, simply because it is for charity, will yield attractive profits. The offering must have inherent merit or attractive novelty. Numerous attempts to secure money without "giving a show," with resultant failures, prove that fact. This meeting of Cubs and White Sox, however, taking place before their united partisans, is what, over on the sports pages, we call a "natural."

THE ARCH CRIMINAL

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 17, 1915.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga.—Leo M. Frank was kidnaped from the Georgia state prison farm shortly before midnight. A mob estimated in number from 25 to 75 men overpowered and handcuffed Warden J. T. Smith, Superintendent J. M. Burke and guards and quickly rushed Frank away in automobiles. It is reported that the mob took Frank about five miles from the prison and hanged him to a tree by the roadside. Officers in autos had left Milledgeville in pursuit of the mob. First reports that the party might have been composed of friends of Frank bent on rescuing him were dispelled when a prisoner said he had heard a member of the mob say that "Frank's body would be found on the grave of Mary Phagan at Marietta." It was for the murder of the Phagan girl, a 13 year old factory worker, that Frank was convicted.

BROWNSVILLE, Tex.—A large part of Galveston is inundated as a result of a terrific storm which has been ripping the gulf into a fury. Gigantic seas are bursting over the retaining wall and as early as 6 o'clock last night the water was rushing over the causeway. The water in the harbor is ten feet higher than at normal times and several vessels have been capsized by the tremendous waves.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 17, 1901.

SIASCONSET, NANTUCKET, Mass.—Messages by Miller's wireless telegraphy were passed between the incoming steamship Lucania and the station here for two hours and a half this evening. The Lucania will not arrive in New York for twelve hours and yet every one on board knows what has happened in the United States since the big liner left Ireland nearly a week ago. Many of the passengers were able to send messages to friends in New York. The system worked perfectly.

CARMI, Ill.—An infernal machine was received by Sheriff Eugene Ackman by express. It was sent prepaid from Evansville, Ind., securely packed in a candy bucket. The machine consisted of gunpowder, dynamite, and matches and was discovered by the sheriff's wife noticing some wires when she attempted to open the bucket.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 17, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Whether President Garfield will be living when the events of today are read is a problem that medical science cannot solve. This has been the most terrible day since the President was shot and he seems hourly to have been in the valley of the shadow of death. The bulletin issued at 7:30 p. m. gave the pulse as 120, temperature 98.9 and respiration 19. During the afternoon the physicians in attendance on the President told a United States senator that the condition of the President is extremely critical and that unless there is a change for the better soon he cannot last long. However, the very latest advices from the sick room are somewhat more encouraging. No food of any kind is to be given the President during the next 48 hours because of the stomach being unable to retain nourishment.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—It is reported that at a meeting of the cabinet, in view of the critical condition of the President, it was deemed advisable to inform Vice President Chester A. Arthur that it would be wise for him to hold himself in readiness to leave New York for Washington within the next twenty-four hours.

LONDON.—As was anticipated, the house of lords accepted the Irish land bill as it passed through the commons on Aug. 15 and that much debated, much agitated for, and much amended measure now only awaits Queen Victoria's signature to be the law of the land.

CHICAGO.—Miss Frances E. Willard, president of the National W. C. T. U., is expected to reach the city today from her retreat in the White mountains, where she has been taking a brief rest. She will preside at the Northwestern Temperance convocation that convenes at Lake Bluff on Aug. 30.

FROM MR. ELFMAN TO JUDGE BORRELLI.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—On Aug. 8, 1931, there appeared in the Voice of the People a letter entitled "An Experience with the Law," which letter was written by the undersigned. I have since come to understand my great error in writing this article and I am asking you to help me right the wrong that has so unjustly been done Judge Borrelli by publishing the enclosed letter.

BERNARD J. ELFMAN.

Chicago, Ill., Aug. 12, 1931. Hon. Francis Borrelli, Judge of the Municipal Court, Chicago, Ill.: Dear Judge Borrelli: On Aug. 8, 1931, I wrote a letter to THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE under the Voice of the People entitled "An Experience with the Law." For that statement I wish now to personally apologize to you most abjectly. Let me state, however, that I wrote while laboring under great misapprehension of the law. I realize now that through no fault of your own or the state's attorney there was not sufficient evidence presented in court to warrant you acting in any different manner than you did; and I appreciate that your decision not only was based solely upon the merits of the law but also was made with a view to enable me to again prosecute the defendant should I be able to gather sufficient evidence.

I wish to add that I am at this date making an attempt to secure a public apology through the press for the unjust remarks and attack upon your character that I so erringly made in my letter.

Very truly yours,

ACCURACY IN WEATHER FORECASTS.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—In refutation of the statement made in today's TRIBUNE by R. H. T. that the "government forecasts locally are fierce," I wish to state that in the year 1930 87 per cent of the forecasts in question were substantially correct, while for the first seven months of the present year the per cent of accuracy has been 88. Evidently R. H. T. belongs to that all too numerous class who, when appraising effort of any kind, give too much weight to the failures and not enough weight to the successes. It is the old story of "counting the misses and forgetting the hits."

C. A. DONNEL,
Principal Meteorologist in Charge.

A BIT OF RED.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Last Sunday I attended a showing of the Russian Five Year Plan at a downtown theater. Stalin's picture was thrown on the screen and great applause followed—the American flag was shown later and not a hand clapped. Something wrong. If all those people who applauded for Stalin were to return to Russia now, perhaps when they returned to this country they would be happy to give the American flag a hand. M. M. B.

THE MUSIC FESTIVAL.

Evanston, Ill., July 16.—I have read with profound interest the article appearing in your publication of the musical festival which is to take place some time during the month of August. Do last year your institution promoted and sponsored this festival, which drew the largest crowd ever assembled at an entertainment of this kind in the history of Chicago. This year, with the plans you are now putting into operation, will, beyond question, attract a crowd that the Stadium and Grant park will not be able to accommodate.

I want to commend and congratulate you on your splendid efforts in giving the general public a musical treat that such a mass of people could not enjoy from any other effort. Then again, you were broad enough to provide that the festival should include all race groups who could prove themselves eligible to participate. I am sure that your institution has merited the proper approval, friendship, and good will from millions of music lovers. So speed on the good work and make it so attractive this year that not only sitting room but standing room will be at premium.

WILLIAM H. GIBB.

RENO.

Chicago, July 23.—In your Sunday article on Reno a gross misstatement was made, as follows: "Center street in Reno, for example, some three months ago was merely a shabby street with a few second rate speakeasies and gambling dens," etc. I want to say Center street is, and has been for many years, a decidedly up to date street. Reno has no shabby streets and hasn't had for the last quarter century or better. Reno is one of the most up to date, modern, and beautiful cities in the United States, and I have seen a good many in my life. Reno has never been and never will be a "ghost city." It is the outstanding city of Nevada and the Sierras.

MRS. C. C. HARMON.

STAMP LANGUAGE.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 13.—Every now and then I hear some one mention the "stamp language." I've inquired incessantly, all in vain; then when one of my friends twisted a stamp crookedly on an epistle to me an inspiration formed, and I hereby appeal to the populace. Can you, and if you can, will you come to the aid of a damsel in distress? I'll be hoping that my curosity is at last to be satisfied. AN OAK PARKER.

PROTECTION OF DEPOSITORS.

Chicago, Aug. 9.—Today's editorial "For Better Protection of Depositors" Please do not drop this subject, but continue with more along the same line. The thousands of victims of bank mismanagement need a loud and influential mouthpiece in these trying times.

STATE PRISONS' POPULATION UP 11 PCT. IN YEAR

Asylum Gains Are Under 4 Per Cent.

Illinois' prison and reformatory population increased approximately six times as fast as did the total population of the state during the year ending July 1, figures released yesterday by the state department of public welfare indicate.

During the same period the number of persons confined in state institutions for the insane and feeble minded increased approximately twice as fast as the state's population grew. One person out of every 182 in the state is held in a state institution, either for crime or because of mental affliction.

Majority in Hospitals.

On July 1 of this year 28,757 persons were confined in the state hospitals at Elgin, Kankakee, Anna, Jacksonville, East Moline, Peoria, Chicago [Dunning], Alton, Manteno, Dixon, and Lincoln, and in the hospital for criminal insane at Chester. The increase over the population of July 1, 1930, was 1,076, or 3.88 per cent.

Prisons and reformatories at St. Charles, Joliet, Geneva, Menard, Dwight, Pontiac, and Vandalia had inmates numbering 11,460, an increase of 1,180, or 11.48 per cent, over their population on the same day last year. For purposes of comparison the increase in the total population of the state was taken as 1.75 per cent, one-tenth of the total increase in the decade from 1920 to 1930, as shown by the federal census.

Joliet Leads Prisons.

Joliet has the largest prison population, with 4,550 inmates reported on July 1 in the old prison in the city proper and the new one at Stateville. The southern Illinois prison at Menard had 2,285 inmates and the state reformatory at Pontiac 2,504.

Of the mental patients, the largest group, 3,767 was confined in the Chicago state hospital at Dunning. There were 3,566 patients at Elgin, 3,531 at Kankakee, 3,173 at Jacksonville, and 2,608 at Peoria. All of the other state hospitals had populations of less than 2,000 each.

2,000 AT NORWEGIAN PICNIC.

Two thousand persons attended the thirty-sixth annual picnic of the Norwegian Old People's Home society yesterday on the grounds of the home in Norwood Park. Speakers were Chief Justice John J. Sonnetag and Judge Edgar A. Jones of the Municipal court.

NEW YORK IS ASKED TO CHANGE PRISONS TO REFORM CLINICS

New York, Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Transformation of Sing Sing prison and the new one under construction at Attica, N. Y., into huge psychiatric clinics instead of mere places of confinement is advocated by the Prison association of New York in its eighty-sixth annual report, which has just been made public. In the clinic felons would be treated and classified during their confinement to determine the work and training best suited to them.

The association's report was issued by E. R. Cass, the general secretary.

The association declares against the construction of any more of the fortress type of prison and, instead, urges the extension of road camps and the experimental work in pre-parole units.

Pointing out that only 30 out of every 1,000 prisoners serve long terms and that the other 970 return to society within a comparatively short period of time, the association stresses the need of a system which will allow their proper training and reeducating before attaining their freedom.

Many Towns in Illinois Suffer from Water Famine

Virginia, Ill., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—This city, the county seat of Cass county, like Jacksonville and many other cities in Illinois, is suffering from water famine. Wells have gone dry that never failed before. A proposal to bring water to the city from Beardstown, eleven miles away, has been voted down four times. A bond issue was proposed at each election.

JUDGE HITS DEBT LAW; DEPLORES DEBTOR JAILINGS

Jarecki Scores Greedy Credit Concerns.

The recent increase in the number of men and women jailed for debts brought a caustic attack yesterday by Judge Edmund K. Jarecki upon the law and upon a number of credit business concerns.

"More men and women are brought into the courts on matters of debt at the present time than ever before in the history of the county," the judge declared. "Nearly a score of men are confined in the county jail for debt today. This is a barbarous condition."

Law Passed in 1872.

"Illinois is an old common law state. Our laws on debts are the old common laws, and only a few other states have similar statutes. The present law was passed April 10, 1872. Under this act a debtor on the execution of a judgment against him may be imprisoned for three causes.

"The first is a charge of fraud in having concealed assets which might be used to pay the judgment, or of having converted the goods he purchased to his own use. The second is a refusal to turn over his estate for the execution of the judgment. The third is the inclusion of a 'malice count,' which under the law means dishonesty of motive rather than hatred, in the creditor's judgment.

"When a man is imprisoned his creditor must pay his board bill at the rate of $1.50 a day to keep him in jail. The costs thus added to the court action are collected as part of the costs of the suit and are levied against the debtor. The maximum jail sentence, however, is six months, although even having served this time the debtor is still liable through his property to his creditor," the judge explained.

Attacks Business Concerns.

Turning his attack upon business concerns, Judge Jarecki spoke of the practices of many automobile, jewelry, and clothing companies which compelled their customers to sign judgment notes when purchases were made. Under the provisions of the notes the company is enabled to charge malice—that is, willful intent to do evil—on the part of the customer if he defaults in payment.

Commonly the companies sell their articles at such extreme prices that they do not wish to take back the goods, it was pointed out, but insist that the customer complete his bargain. The threat of jail is used as a club, the judge said.

"Recently an elderly woman was haled into court on threat of a jail sentence by a jewelry company which had sold her a diamond ring for $4,000," the judge went on. "Representatives of the company admitted the ring was worth only $2,000 and the woman had paid $1,300 toward her debt. She wanted to turn back the ring and was willing to lose all she had paid. The company refused. It demanded that she carry out her contract. The case still is pending and the woman may have to go to jail.

Tells of Injustices.

"Many injustices are done to the families of men who bought automobiles or goods on 'time.' I have known of cases where families literally starved while the husband, the only one who had any chance of earning enough money to pay the debts, served a sentence in jail.

"There is only one way that this can be changed—by act of the legislature. But few legislators are interested in debtors."

Georgia Sheriff Shoots Self to Death in His Sleep

Griffin, Ga., Aug. 16.—(AP)—On the theory he shot himself while asleep, a coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death today in the case of Sheriff Oscar McGee, found dead in bed this morning. Testimony at the inquest showed that on several occasions recently the sheriff had walked in his sleep and, upon awakening, had found his pistol in his hand. He kept the weapon on a table near his bed.

NEW PARLEY ON MOVIE LOCKOUT SET FOR TODAY

After a lockout of 100 moving picture theaters which has lasted one week, representatives of the theater owners and of the operators' union said yesterday no plans for the future have been made out of courtesy to State's Attorney Swanson, who is to hold a conference with them today in the hope of bringing about an agreement under which the theaters may reopen.

Neither side is prepared to yield on the point of controversy—the forced employing of two operators instead of one—but, according to the spokesmen, a proposition of part payment of salaries for the rest of the year may be discussed. The operators' union claims to have a contract with the owners calling for the use of two operators and the owners deny such a contract exists.

"It is possible that the owners may be willing to pay part of the salary of the one additional man for the balance of this year if the operators will sign a new contract for only one operator," said Attorney Theodore Levin, representing the theater owners.

The theater owners say that if the conference today fails to bring about a settlement of the dispute they expect that many of the other independent owners of theaters may join them in closing their doors.

SEEK 3 MILLION FROM OFFICIALS FOR RELIEF FUND

Plan May Be Laid Before Getz Commission.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A plan to collect nearly $3,000,000 for unemployment relief from public officials and employés, from the governor and mayor down, most of whom still continue to enjoy post-war compensation, may be suggested to Gov. Emmerson's commission on relief and unemployment this afternoon.

Because of the nature of the proceedings at the session today, action on the proposal probably will be deferred, but it is admitted that a heroic effort must be made to care for the unemployed the coming winter.

Getz Sees Situation Worse.

"The situation, we believe, will be much worse next winter than it was last," said Chairman George F. Getz, chairman of the governor's commission, yesterday at his summer home in Holland, Mich. "It was difficult to raise the $5,000,000 needed last winter, and there will be extreme difficulty in getting the money for next winter."

"Will your commission try to obtain as much, or more, for next winter?" he was asked.

"Considerably more," Mr. Getz replied. "The Red Cross, Salvation Army, United Charities, Catholic charities and Jewish charities are all in the red, and they are spending as much money for relief this summer, almost, as they spent last winter. A great deal more money will have to be collected than last winter to meet the needs of the coming winter."

"Is there any plan to extend the relief outside of Chicago?" Mr. Getz was asked.

Expects Notables at Conference.

"I do not know what will be done at this conference tomorrow along that line," said Mr. Getz. "Gov. Emmerson appreciates that the conditions are very serious, and from the invitations he has sent out, I believe there will be 50 to 75 prominent citizens at the conference tomorrow."

Last year the governor's commission on relief and unemployment raised the emergency fund of $5,000,000 by popular subscription. At that time the chairman of the commission was Philip R. Clarke, president of the Central Republic bank, who directed the subscription campaign.

At the meeting in the Stevens hotel this afternoon, Mr. Getz said that the commission would report on the collections made and the disposition of the money, select new officers, fill any vacancies there might be and in general prepare for the coming winter. Gov. Emmerson is expected to make a speech.

Governor Deeply Concerned.

"The governor told me that he would be present and his conversation on the subject indicated a deep concern for the situation," said Mr. Getz, "and I am sure that he will have something to say."

It is estimated there are 57,000 employés on the pay rolls of the state and the local governments, whose annual compensation has been roughly estimated at $114,000,000 a year. At one day's pay per month, for eight months, it has been reckoned that $2,985,000 could be obtained. It has been reasoned that since a very large part of the $2,000,000 raised last winter from employés was from those privately employed, it is not unfair to ask public employés for the estimated $2,985,000.

Private Incomes Reduced.

Of the estimated $2,985,000 collectable from public employés, it has been reckoned that $2,390,000 would come to Chicago and $745,000 would be available from downstate. Still another reason advanced for a strong appeal to public officials and employés is that employés of private concerns are not receiving as much income as a year ago and cannot this winter be expected to contribute as much.

With the exception of teachers, janitors, engineers, and other school employés all local public employés have obtained their salaries to date. The school board is behind on its pay rolls about $11,000,000.

In addition to Gov. Emmerson, it is expected that Barney Cohen, state director of labor, and Rodney Brandon, state director of public welfare, will be at the conference this afternoon. These state officials are necessarily interested in unemployment, and it is said that the governor deems it pertinent to present a picture of downstate conditions, if it can be prepared in time for presentation. Also he would like Chicago to know that public works by the state are planned or in progress of construction to aid employment.

Mayor Cermak also probably will be present. He has some ideas on a luxury tax which he will present if the opportunity is afforded, as well as what should be attempted by the tax expending bodies.

POSE AS COPS, STEAL $800.

Fred Peristein, owner of a shoe store at 3739 West Chicago avenue, was stopped early yesterday by three bandits who impersonated detectives and robbed him of $800 which he was taking to the night depository of a bank.

West Side Business Representatives Support Plan for Elevated Highway

Two representative west side business men yesterday advanced arguments in favor of state action toward an immediate start on construction of an elevated highway westward from the loop as a means of stimulating business and furnishing emergency unemployment relief during the coming winter.

Louis O. Runner, manager of the Central Plaza hotel, Central avenue and Lake street, declared that the project should be started at once. Frank J. Bilek, secretary of the West Town Chamber of Commerce, urged the improvement as a move to set Chicago's wheels of industry in motion.

Could Be Special Session Act.

It has been pointed out by officials of the Chicago Plan commission and others that a $22,000,000 appropriation from the state highway fund for the superboulevard, along the Austin-Kinzie route abutting the Chicago and North Western railroad, could be made at a special session of the legislature if Gov. Emmerson would include the proposal in his summons.

Construction work could start within seven weeks, according to the plan commission experts, as specifications for the project already have been completed.

Both Mr. Runner and Mr. Bilek, who were among the leaders in previous campaigns for a superhighway through their district, emphasized the prospect of 30,250 jobs and a daily pay roll of $363,000 which the plan commission has estimated the improvement would afford.

"Need Is Undisputed."

"I can think of no more effective stimulus for business right now than this project," said Mr. Runner. "The need for the improvement is undisputed. The west side should have had it long ago. Now is the time, if ever, to get started. Business temporarily has slowed down. Such a construction project would push it off dead level and start things moving again.

"Thousands of working people in Chicago are ready and anxious to spend providing they have an opportunity to earn. Give them jobs and they will spend. Every dollar spent will do duty a dozen times. Merchants, wholesalers, manufacturers, and bankers as well as workmen all will get a share. All we need is vision and action at Springfield."

Traffic arteries through the west side are needed south of the loop even more than north in the opinion of Mr. Bilek, who said he did not wish to commit himself or his organization to the Austin-Kinzie route. He said he heartily indorsed, however, the immediate expenditure of state highway funds on the west side to furnish emergency employment.

"There is no time to lose if we are to cope with the unemployment situation this winter," he asserted. "By all means let us get something started. Nothing could be saner nor more timely than big street improvements."

Labor Supports Project.

Organized labor officiall went on record in favor of the superhighway proposal yesterday when the Chicago Federation of Labor unanimously adopted a resolution urging Gov. Emmerson to include the project in a call for a special legislative session. The resolution, presented by Edward Nockels, secretary of the federation, was supported by several speakers and passed by a viva voce vote.

Eugene S. Taylor, manager of the plan commission, announced yesterday that the commission could immediately furnish the state highway department full reports of its studies of the project.

"All that we need would be a word from Gov. Emmerson and we would turn over to the state experts the data we have gathered," said Mr. Taylor.

CONTRACTORS WILL FIGHT DOAK'S RULING ON PREVAILING WAGE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Secretary Doak's decision that the prevailing scale of wages for painters on government jobs in Washington should be $11 daily today seemed likely to be challenged in the courts.

The ruling of the secretary of labor was handed down as the result of protests from labor organizations against the pay scale of the Alliance Construction company of New York, contractors for painting the internal revenue building.

Julius Goodman, president, and Herman Morris, vice president of the construction company, said they had no intention of paying $11 daily and would carry any attempt to enforce the decision to the courts.

The W. P. Rose company of Goldsboro, N. C., contracting firm building other government structures here, also said a legal contest would follow any attempt to enforce the wage ruling upon the concern.

Complaints had been made to the labor department that the scales of the Rose and Alliance companies were less than union wages.

Only contracts let by the government since April 3, when the Bacon-Davis law became effective and provided employés should receive not less than the "prevailing wage" of the locality of building operations, are involved in Secretary Doak's ruling.

Jahncke, Assistant Navy Secretary, Stops in City

Ernest Lee Jahncke, assistant secretary of the navy, stopped over in Chicago yesterday on his way to speak today before the Wisconsin state convention of the American Legion. He arrived by train accompanied by his aide, Capt. L. A. Desses of the marine corps, and was met at the Palmer house by John B. Chapple, official escort representing the Legion. The party took off in a plane for Ashland, Wis., whence they will go to Chippewa Falls, Wis., for the convention.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

BRITISH PIN AIR RACE HOPES ON 400 M. P. H. SHIPS

Secret Tests Are Held for Schneider Cup Planes.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Great Britain today revealed for the first time at the royal air force base at Calshot a part of her stock of tricks with which she hopes to gain permanent possession of the Schneider cup at the air races Sept. 12. Three sleek airplanes, capable of estimated speeds of nearly 400 miles per hour, are being groomed for the races daily.

The Italian team in this contest of speed, which might terminate forever the competition inaugurated in 1913 by the late Jacques Schneider, has arrived. The French are due later.

If Great Britain wins this year's races she holds the trophy permanently, since the rules stipulate that any competitor winning three times in five years retains the famous cup.

U. S. Not a Competitor.

America is not a competitor. The United States won at Cowes in 1923. The following year America declined to enter the races. In 1925 "Jimmie" Doolittle, then an army lieutenant, won again for the United States with a speed a 232.57 miles per hour.

Since then the cup has been in European hands, Italy winning in 1926, Great Britain in 1927 and 1929. By international agreement there were no races in 1928.

Great Britain has two planes with which she expects to make aviation history. They are new super-marine Vickers S-6-A machines, equipped with motors more powerful than the Rolls Royce engines. The ships were designed by a young British airplane expert, R. J. Mitchell. The fuel is stored in twin floats. A new cooling system, either of oil or water, for the motor has been installed. Both the surfaces of the 30 foot wings and the tops of the pontoons are covered with "skins" of duralumin, in which water circulates from the engine. The oil is stored in a fin and is cooled by a special piping in the fuselage.

800 TROOPS TO SHUT OIL WELLS IN EAST TEXAS FIELDS TODAY

BRIG. GEN. JACOB F. WOLTERS.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Eight hundred Texas National Guardsmen tonight were preparing to march into the east Texas oil field with the prospect that within twelve hours they would be directed under martial law to close the wells of that area.

Gov. Ross S. Sterling said today he probably would not issue a proclamation declaring martial law until morning. It was understood in military circles here the edict was being held up that troops might be in the field and ready for action when it was announced.

Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters, field commander of the Texas National Guard, issued orders for all 800 members of the 56th cavalry brigade to be in the east Texas oil section by 7:15 a. m. tomorrow. Four counties will be put under martial law.

PERU'S POLITICAL 'DON QUIXOTE' BACK FROM EXILE

Aspires to Presidency; Finds Lima Cold.

BY C. N. GRIFFIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LIMA, Peru, Aug. 16.—Thirty-five years old, Victor Raul Haya de la Torre, Peru's youngest presidential candidate, whose followers claim for him the title of "political leader of all Latin-American youth," returned to Lima yesterday after eight years of political exile.

In 1923 Senor Torre achieved passing fame as a student orator and Peru's first and only huner striker. For the last two months De la Torre has been touring the northern provinces in the interest of his candidacy.

Debonair and smiling, De la Torre, the "Don Quixote" of Peru's politics, was hailed at the northern outskirts of Lima by a few thousand supporters and curiosity seekers, but, like most of Lima's political demonstrations since Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro's spectacular airplane dash into Lima from Arequipa a year ago, it was evident that the De la Torre party organization has a hard task before it in generating any great political enthusiasm.

City Is Apathetic.

The noncommittal greeting which Lima usually extends to aspirants to the palace of Pizarro, unless they come backed by regiments and guns, was extended to De la Torre. However, out of fear of possible trouble the steel shutters of many restaurants and saloons were pulled down.

The action of the government junta in postponing the general elections until Oct. 11 is merely designed to meet the widespread demand for more time to be allotted for political registrations. The voters as a whole appear to regard the approaching elections with apathy, and it is generally declared that what Peru needs is not an election but "a man on horseback." It seems likely that none of the four candidates, Haya de la Torre, Rafael Larco Herrera, Arturo Osores, or Sanchez Cerro, will secure a sufficient majority to win the election.

Former President Benavides and other old line politicians urge the calling of a national convention of parties to elect a compromise candidate.

May Release Leguia.

Former President Augusto B. Leguia may be released from prison soon, according to political observers, though it is improbable he will be allowed to remain in Peru. The courts have washed their hands of the affair, holding that the charges of graft against the former president can only be heard by congress. Members of the government junta are said to be in favor of Leguia's release, but fear to assume the responsibility, preferring to hand over the problem to the next congress for solution.

It was announced today that the fiscal revenues for the first semester of 1931 were $8,600,000, as compared to $10,000,000 for the first semester of 1930.

Wild He-Men in Wilder West Capture Prize

Robert Raynolds' Novel Gets Harper Award.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Brothers in the West," by Robert Raynolds [Harpers]. Published today.

THE novel which has been the winner of the Harper Prize Novel contest in the past always has been of a definitely literary quality. "The Able McLaughlins," by Margaret Wilson; "The Perennial Bachelor," by Anne Parrish; "The Grandmothers," by Glenway Wescott, and "The Dark Journey," by Julian Green, all were novels which commanded serious literary consideration as well as enjoying popularity. The prize has come to have a connotation of literary importance. It is not a laurel wreath which any fellow would be happy to wear.

ROBERT RAYNOLDS.

In the façade of that wreath are, it seems to me, turning a little dingy with the award of the prize to "Brothers in the West," by Robert Raynolds. Sir James, Carl Van Doren, Ellen Glasgow and Bliss Perry, all are critics of the highest standing, and the fact that they gave the prize to "Brothers in the West" is a discouraging indication of the literary importance of the novels submitted. If "Brothers in the West" was the best of the lot, the rest of them must have been pretty awful.

"Brothers in the West" is a story of wild western life as lived by two fellows who were giants in stature, void of nothing, dogged by a melodramatic fate. It includes the women who become their mistresses and later their wives; the man who adored one of the women and turned—in some mysterious fashion known only to the author—from a dull, animal-like fool to the keeper of a diary in which is recorded the highest and noblest curiosity and observations of life of his fellow men.

The narrative suffered also a sea—a prodigious a "prairie" would be more self-charge from a woman whose work were at least shaky to the best of and mother in, presumably, seven ons. Passion and melodrama paint every page red. To me at least there is reality in the book anywhere.

It's a dime novel published outside a gas.

I was on the deck of the good ship [illegible] in midocean, while the sea was as cobalt blue and the sun swathed us in warmth and a good stiff breeze kept the warmth from becoming too enticing, that I read "Brothers in the West." No imaginable atmosphere could have been more propitious for its perusal. I am sure that Willa Cather's "Shadows on the Rock" took on clearer outlines and truer meanings and incomparable beauty [illegible] as it was, at sea, where values are all less personal and more certain, where there is a clarity of vision's insight into life and its portrayal in literature.

"Shadows on the Rock" was so definitely a work of beauty as to seem a part of the rhythm of the sea, of the rhythm of all enduring beauty and power. "Brothers in the West," on the other hand, by its very lack of authentic genius, became, perhaps, to the reader something even less significant in the scheme of life and literature.

It is a light and ephemeral picture of life of pioneers who roved with a passion for roving, whose roots were in a state of tumbleweeds, who had for the most primitive passions. "Brothers in the West" might be very reading. It wheedles hours away, and it moves with swiftness in its lines. But as a serious recipient of one of the most important prizes that American publishing offers, it is a discouraging piece of work. Discouraging in the sense that it is far out of the available material. But to me it is extremely encouraging, for if one ought to be able to whip a novel in the same pattern. Given a background sufficiently proportion of melodrama, a setting which is removed enough from the general reader's life to seem an allure for him, characters who are different enough from the men to assume the proportions of heroes and heroines, then any one who can put words together into coherent sentences might write a novel resembling "Brothers in the West." Some one once said that every man has at least one novel in him. Authors who have not as yet got that novel out of their systems should be immensely encouraged by the publication of "Brothers in the West."

—o—

"Brothers in the West" is the first published piece of creative writing of any sort from the pen of Mr. Raynolds. The conditions of the prize do not specify that the award shall be given to a first novel. It was Margaret Ayer's first novel which won the prize in 1925, but Anne Parrish, Glenway Wescott, and Julian Green had published novels previous to the ones which were given the prizes in their years. "The purpose of the prize is to give prominence and success to a writer whose real quality has not hitherto found a wide audience," reads the announcement of the award.

Mr. Reynolds has been writing for years and he never has to date had a story accepted. Two of his novels have been rejected by one publisher after another. So great was Mr. Reynolds' faith in his ultimate success that a year ago he gave up his position as editor of a trade magazine in Chicago, his wife and two small children, went to Connecticut to devote himself to his literary career.

Two Directors May Be Fault of This Talkie

"Basquerie" Suffers as "Their Mad Moment."

"THEIR MAD MOMENT."
Produced by Fox. Directed by Hamilton McFadden and Chandler Sprague. Presented at the Palace theater.
THE CAST.

|---|---|
| Esteban | Warner Baxter |
| Emily | Dorothy Mackaill |
| Miss Dibbs | Zasu Pitts |
| La Mara | Nanco O'Neil |
| Sir Harry | Lawrence Grant |
| Susanna | Nella Walker |
| Stanelo | Mary Doran |
| Narcho | Leon Janney |

BY ROBERTA NANGLE.

"Their Mad Moment," the result of the combined talents of two directors, brings up that old saying about too many cooks. Perhaps one director might have accomplished a better job, if he'd held a blue pencil in one hand to strike out the cheaply obvious scenes in the continuity and a whip in the other to lash the players into action.

The picture is an uninspired adaptation of Eleanor Mercein's delightful stories which were published in book form under the title, "Basquerie." The plot, though ordinary, has elements of romance and atmosphere which, with a little imagination, might have been worked into an intriguing and diverting film.

Dorothy Mackaill plays Emily, an American girl whose stepmother totes her up and down the Riviera in search of a wealthy husband. Just as the finances of the two ladies are at their lowest ebb a marriage is arranged with a dilapidated but moneyed Englishman.

—o—

After accepting the Britisher's proposal, Emily plans to say good-by to romance in the person of Esteban, a handsome young Basque farmer who offers her love and matrimony but no fortune. Needless to say, the Basque pursues her with tempestuous wooing, and in the end the Englishman is left waiting at the altar. What's more, Esteban was only fooling about being a poor farmer. He's quite a man of the world, it seems, and has a pile of gold up in them thar Pyrenees.

Dorothy Mackaill apparently just didn't feel like working when this picture was being made, because she moves through it with the lackadaisical air of a sleepwalker, and Warner Baxter seems ill at ease and unsure of himself as the Basque lover. Zasu Pitts is in the cast, though, and there's no fault to be found with her comical performance as a lovelorn spinster.

French Author Calls History Strife Maker; Predicts New Ideas

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 16.—M. Paul Valéry, poet and member of the French academy, predicts that men of the future "will not be held to the past by any habit of mind." The break will be complete.

Apparently this will be not altogether an evil, for M. Valéry says: "History is the most dangerous product that the chemistry of the intellect has ever fashioned. Its qualities are well known. It intoxicates peoples, breeds false memories in them, keeps open their own wounds . . . gives them delusions of grandeur or of persecution, and makes nations embittered, vain, and insufferable."

The human race, in its bedevilled ideas and passions, is the fatal obstacle to peace rather than clashes of interest. M. Valéry, it will be observed, evidently takes little stock in the talk about wars being economic in their causes. From all this is drawn the strange deduction that "Europe visibly aspires to be governed by a committee of Americans. All its policy is directed to that end."

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER

LINDA WATKINS.

JEAN HARLOW.
[Acme Photo.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—The local tempest that has been raging since the Wampas association singled out thirteen young actresses for "baby stars" of 1931 seems likely to direct more attention to Linda Watkins, one of the girls who was not chosen, than to any of the thirteen who were.

Twelve members of the Wampas made Miss Watkins nonselection an issue and resigned. The twelve who resigned are connected with the Fox studios and Miss Watkins is a Fox star. Their wholesale resignations were turned in after Winfield Sheehan, boss of the Fox studios here, sent a suggestion to the chief of the publicity department that no Fox employés should belong to an association that slighted their studio. Miss Watkins herself says she deprecates the fuss. Jean Harlow is another girl left off the Wampas baby star list whose admirers expressed some umbrage.

—o—

Edward Small, movie producer, today received a cable from Ewing Scott, head of a film troupe which Small sent to northern Alaska, reporting the company's rescue after thirty-two days marooned on an icy cape, in the arctic circle. Scott, the director Roy Klaffki, Hollywood cameraman, and an Americanized Eskimo boy known as Ray Wise, who acted as interpreter and assistant camera man, left Point Barrow last February.

—o—

I just found out today that in Hollywood a mountain cabin may be "just a little place" where $15,000 is required for "a job of remodeling." George Hill, the director, having just bought Hoot Gibson's mountain cabin, is spending that much with a contractor to remodel it.

—o—

Beulah Bondi, who plays Gabby Woman, who is eternally taking her dog for a walk in stage and film versions of "Street Scene," was heaped with so much praise when Producer Sam Goldwyn previewed this not yet released picture to an all-star audience, that Goldwyn chased all over Hollywood the next day to sign up Miss Bondi for a part in his next special, "Arrowsmith."

Beauty Experts Plan to Fit Faces to the New Millinery Styles

What's going to be done about hair that doesn't curl about milady's face, and cigaret smoke that does, is scheduled to concentrate the attention of thousands of beauty experts at the Hotel Sherman for three days, beginning this morning.

Members of the American Society of Cosmeticians and Hair Artists will go into conference there on the new technique of pulchritude required by the equally new hats and the not so new hold of the cigaret habit on the feminine world.

Tresses will have to acquire and hold a soft wave and a definite sheen if they are to enhance the romantic style of the Empress Eugenie millinery that is engulfing the country like a tidal wave. So the experts, led by Mrs. M. B. McGavran of Kansas City, avowed yesterday. So much of the hair is exposed with the small, tip-tilted hats that meticulous grooming will be an essential, the Missouri cosmetician declared. And unless mademoiselle and madame forego some of their daily smokes the fumes therefrom will not only discolor and deaden the hair, but will actually affect the facial expression.

In Portugal Women Work on Equalities with Men

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Women are blamed by some men for Portugal's unemployment crisis.

Women in this country not only do their full share of field work, but they are to be found at the factory, the office, the bar, and in general business.

In the town markets and provincial fairs, women may be seen driving oxen and mules laden with wares, and at the same time carrying enormous baskets of fruits, vegetables, eggs, or cans of milk on their heads.

GEO. SAINTSBURY, 86; GIVE HIM WINE, BOOKS, AND FRIENDS

LONDON, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Dr. George Saintsbury, critic and scholar, now in his eighty-seventh year, has become president of what is described as London's most exclusive club. It is called the Saintsbury club, and its objects are set forth thus: To honor the name and work of George Saintsbury by bringing together men whose love of wine is articulate; to publish occasional volumes bearing upon the allied subjects of wine and literature; to build up a cellar of interesting wine for the delectation and instruction of the members; to afford the members facilities for visiting famous vineyards under privilege conditions.

Old Folks and Orphans Wait Joys of Picnic

More Autos Needed to Carry Them.

There are only a few red letter days in the experience of the orphans and the aged of Chicago. One very special one is next Wednesday when the annual outing and picnic of the Orphans' Automobile Day association will be held in Lincoln park.

Now, inviting 5,000 orphans and old people to a picnic is one thing, but providing transportation and entertainment is quite another. Yesterday, Arthur Jones, president of the association, made known that 200 automobiles were lacking of the necessary 1,000 to transport the guests to and from the 27th annual picnic.

—o—

"We need more drivers to volunteer their cars or their services or both," explained Mr. Jones. "Only a few hours' time is required of the driver. The guests are picked up at their homes before 9 a. m. and delivered at the park by 10 o'clock. The volunteers then go about their business and return to the outing for the return journey at 4 p. m. Those who wish to volunteer call William E. Webster, telephone Dearborn 0718, before Tuesday night, or see him at 215 West Wacker drive."

The annual outing has grown to be one of the largest of gatherings attended by the underprivileged, where they may taste the joys of a real picnic. It is sponsored by the Chicago Automobile Trade association, the Auto Club of Illinois, the Chicago Motor club, the Chicago Motor Liverymen's association, and the Woodlawn Business Men's association.

—o—

In addition to luncheon, ice cream, orangeade, games, toys and knicknacks for the youngsters, there will be cigars for the old men and candy for the women. A stage performance will keep going all day and performers will be leading radio stars, juvenile actors, clowns, singers and acrobats.

Word has been received at association headquarters that Mayor Cermak plans to appear in person with Greeter Gaw and address the guests. So all in all you can't blame the inmates of forty homes for all races and religions for looking forward excitedly to Wednesday's party.

HINDENBURG GIVES TO FRENCH AMBASSADOR SWORD TAKEN IN 1871

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 16.—As a symbol of friendship for the French ambassador, M. de Margerie, President Paul von Hindenburg today presented him with one of the prized possessions of his youth, a sword he brought home from the war of 1871.

VON HINDENBURG.

M. de Margerie, who will be leaving Berlin soon, was calling on President Hindenburg before the latter left for his annual hunt in the Bavarian Alps. They talked for several hours on the work they had done jointly for their countries, and in a spontaneous gesture the old German soldier gave the Frenchman one of his treasured trophies which has decorated his home since 1871.

President Hindenburg carefully refrained from saying this was a sword of a French officer in the Franco-Prussian war. The return of the French weapon by the German field marshal, as a symbol of the new peace, greatly delighted M. de Margerie.

The incident has been kept a secret. President Hindenburg's own aids was most surprised at his action. The president insists that this was a private present he gave, and he did not want the press to learn of it. Both the president and the ambassador's aides believed it was wiser not to mention the incident in order to make it impossible for the chauvinists of both countries to distort the friendly intention of the old soldier. Therefore no official confirmation is obtainable.

Jugo-Slavs Wonder If King and Queen Are Drifting Apart

Jugoslavia, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The fact that Queen Marie of Jugoslavia, who is a daughter of Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, did not come here to be with her husband, King Alexander, on the celebration of the 10th anniversary of his accession to the throne provided a topic for considerable speculation today.

Queen Marie has remained in Rumania ever since she went there to attend the wedding of her sister, Princess Ileana, to Archduke Anton of Hapsburg on July 26.

Child Health Conference to Be Held Here

Secretary of Interior Wilbur to Speak.

A White House conference on child health and protection for the Chicago metropolitan area, embracing the program outlined a year ago at the national conference in Washington, will be held at the Palmer house Oct. 30 and 31.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur and his assistant, Dr. H. E. Barnard, director of the White House conference, requested Superintendent of Schools William J. Bogan to inaugurate the Chicago conference to give widespread effect in the Chicago area to the children's charter adopted last year by the 3,000 national representatives.

—o—

The charter consists of nineteen salient features. Of special interest to Chicago are those which provide for safe, sanitary and wholesome dwellings and schools, nursery schools and kindergartens to supplement home care for younger children. The charter states that the right to grow up in a family with an adequate standard of living and possessing a stable income is the surest safeguard against social handicaps. It calls for protection against labor that stunts growth or limits education and deprives children of normal comradeship and play.

There will be five divisions of the local conference, with chairmen of prominence in charge of each. The program sets forth the divisions as follows:

1.—Medical service, headed by the Chicago Medical society.

2.—Public health service—Dr. Herman Bundesen, commissioner of health.

3.—Education and training—Dr. Charles H. Judd, dean of the school of education, University of Chicago.

4.—Child welfare—Miss Sophonisba P. Breckenridge, head of school of social service administration.

5.—Community planning for child health and welfare—Wilfred S. Reynolds, director of Chicago Council of Social Agencies.

—o—

Among the speakers of national repute who have accepted places on the program are Miss Jane Addams of Hull house, Miss Grace Abbott, head of the United States children's bureau; Miss Julia C. Lathrop, former director of the bureau; Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior; Dr. H. E. Barnard, A. J. Todd, department of sociology of Northwestern university, and local public figures.

To make the nineteen points of the children's charter effective in the community the program calls for a district, county or community organization for health, education, and welfare. It is hoped that definite, practical plans for the carrying on of the work in the Chicago area will be formulated at the conference in October.

33d Division Veterans Will Hold Meeting Thursday

If there is to be a good, well conducted war, the staff work must be undertaken a long time in advance.

With that lesson learned from their world war experience, members of the Thirty-third Division War Veterans' association will have an executive committee meeting Thursday evening at the Mid-City hall, 3350 West Jackson boulevard, to plan for the big reunion in November.

But as there is no need for making this a private war, there will be a buffet luncheon and some of the veterans' contributions to the art of the drama. Any and every veteran of the Illinois National Guard division who was mixed up in the late war will be welcomed.

THE STAGE

DUBLIN, Aug. 16.—(AP)—For the first time in eighteen years the Abbey Theater company is preparing to tour America.

The famous company toured the States in 1911 and again in 1913. But because of the long lapse it will present this time an almost entirely new Irish drama, which has developed in the meantime.

The tour includes seventy-two American cities and reaches from New York to San Francisco. In the repertoire are twenty-ofur plays by Irish dramatists, notably Sean O'Casey, Brinsley MacNamara, and George Shiels.

For the first time such actors as F. J. McCormick, Barry Fitzgerald (who played Paul Robeson in "The Hairy Ape"), Michael J. Dolan, Arthur With Shields, P. J. Carolan, Eileen Crowe, and Maureen Delaney, will play before American audiences. They are under the direction of Lennox Robinson.

N. U. Teachers Lead Students for Strong U. S.

More of the Latter Vote for Pacifism.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Replies to a questionnaire on pacifism circulated among faculty and students of the Northwestern university summer school indicate professors are more warlike than students. Seven questions were asked which covered the field of United States membership in the league of nations, reduction of armaments, protection of American lives and property in foreign countries, enlistment for service in the next war and military training in public schools.

As summer students usually include teachers from other colleges, from high schools and academies as well as advanced students, candidates for masters' and doctors' degrees, it would appear that pacifist doctrines are more likely to be taught elsewhere than at Northwestern.

For instance, nearly 30 per cent more students than professors voted for the entrance of the United States into the league of nations. Also, relatively, more students than professors favored a substantial reduction of armaments for all nations. A still larger proportion of student than of faculty members favored a smaller army and navy for this country than for other nations.

—o—

The question of the protection of American lives and property in foreign lands brought from most of the students the reply that only pacific means should be used. Replies from the faculty indicated strong doubt about the effectiveness of peaceful measures for such protection.

Only 25 per cent of the students said positively they could conscientiously bear arms in the next war. Fifty per cent said they could not, while 10 per cent were in doubt, and about 15 per cent gave no answer to that question.

Professors, on the other hand, were more militant, the questionnaire showed. Nearly half the faculty replies indicated no conscientious scruples against enlisting for service in the event of another war. A third of the professors said their consciences would interfere, while only one-sixth of the number was in doubt or failed to reply.

—o—

Only in the matter of military training in public schools were the faculty members more pacific than students. Six times as many professors voted against such training as those for it, whereas a third of the students declared themselves in favor of such training while a number more thought the training should be available, but not compulsory.

NEEDS STUDENT AID

A gift of $25,000, to be used for scholarships in the law school, was made yesterday to Northwestern university by Mrs. Minnie G. Newman, whose husband attended the institution. In accepting the gift President Walter Dill Scott declared that it came at a most opportune time in that the need for scholarships has increased with the present economic depression.

"We need student aid more urgently than anything else right now," Dr. Scott said. "The scarcity of jobs and the increasing numbers of working students has created a necessity for more scholarships for worthy students." Dr. Scott announced that a grant of $600 for research purposes has been made to Dr. G. De Takats of the Northwestern medical school by the committee of research of the American Medical association.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH CONTRIBUTIONS DROP $4,876,682 IN A YEAR

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 16.—(AP)—A decrease of $4,876,682 in contributions to church causes for the year ending March 31, 1931, as compared with the preceding year, was reported today by the Presbyterian church in the U. S. A.

In making public the annual statistical review, Dr. Lewis Seymour Mudge, stated clerk of the general assembly, said the decline reflected the general financial depression.

Total contributions were $58,171,351. It was the first time since 1925 they had fallen below $60,000,000. The major decrease was that of $4,079,496 in local congregational receipts.

An increase of 15,023 was reported in the communicant membership, which at the end of March totaled 1,999,121. The total Sunday school membership was 1,820,496, an increase of 24,466.

All Presbyterian statistics relating to membership, it was pointed out, are based solely on the number of communicants in good standing and not on the Presbyterian population or baptized members.

For the first time since 1923 the number of ministers passed the 10,000 mark, an increase of 27 bringing the number up to 10,014.

The movement to strengthen local churches by dissolving those having only a nominal existence and by combining those serving practically the same constituency resulted in a reduction of the number of congregations to 9,243, a net decrease of 85 for the year.

The Presbyterian church in the U. S. A. continues a national body, it was announced, with churches in every state of the union, grouped in 46 synods with 293 presbyteries. The ranking order of the ten largest synods remained the same as in 1930, with Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey leading the list.

In support of the official boards of the church, the benevolence contributions totaled $8,240,235, a decrease of $550,742 from the preceding year.

Ice and Camp Funds for Poor Need Your Help

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

With one more month left to complete a summer's task and with the funds to accomplish it inadequate, the free ice and Camp Algonquin funds contributed by TRIBUNE readers threaten to fall hundreds of tenement families.

For years ice has been delivered every summer without fail to needy families, with the result that thousands of people are alive today who might not have been had not ice kept milk fresh and sweet when they were babies. For years mothers and children have escaped the stuffy tenements for two weeks of rest and play in the cool tree-shaded camp on the Fox river northwest of Chicago.

The happiness these two funds have given the underprivileged folk of Chicago cannot be measured in monetary terms. Only social workers and others close to these families know of the revelations of body and soul wrought by kindness of TRIBUNE readers.

At the beginning of this summer it was known that both funds would face the hardest season in many a year. Whether the coming fall would bring a repetition of the hardships of the winter of 1930-'31 was not then certain, but social workers were convinced that the immediate job lay in rebuilding after the ravages of the winter.

Both funds attempted to accomplish this. Out at Camp Algonquin Mrs. Astrid Save, camp superintendent, planned with extreme care the diet for her summer guests. Good food and well balanced meals, she believed, would soon rout undernourishment. A group of 200 children who usually stay the whole summer was cut to half, giving more room in the crowded camp for two weeks' vacations for mothers and children.

The ice fund has done a land office business, the increased poundage having gone far beyond the income. But the delivery of ice has saved the lives of babies—future citizens of Chicago.

The ice and Camp Algonquin funds need immediate assistance. Every year the same contributors have gladly put their gift into an envelope and addressed it to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE. This year depleted incomes have made that impossible for some. But there are others who perhaps have not realized how much both funds need friends. A few dollars will help a great deal.

The total of the Camp Algonquin fund is $3,826. The ice fund, just as important a charity, is far lower—$3,892. A month is left to foot the bill. Can you help?

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover motored to the Rapidan camp and joined the President and their guests for dinner last evening, after christening the twin ships of the United Fruit company at Newport News, Va. President Hoover will return tomorrow, but it is expected Mrs. Hoover will remain on the Rapidan throughout this week.

The new assistant secretary of state and Mrs. Harvey H. Bundy of Boston are at the Mayflower for the week-end. She will return to their summer home in Mansfield, Me., as soon as the question of their winter home here is decided.

The French ambassador gave a dinner last night in honor of a group of Frenchmen visiting in this country.

Senator and Mrs. Porter H. Dale of Vermont are here for a few days and are staying with their son and daughter-in-law in their apartment at the Broadmoor. They will go on to their home in Vermont early in the week.

Mrs. John D. Sherman, former president of the Federation of Women's Clubs, has returned to the Mayflower from a visit to her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John K. Sherman, in Colorado. Mrs. Sherman is one of the commissioners of the bicentennial celebration in honor of George Washington.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Youthfulness is expressed in this bolero dress—neither too dressy nor sportive to cover the needs of an entire day. The softly falling bolero emphasizes the flatness of the hipline, and the gores of the slightly circular skirt are length giving. Chinese silk damask in shell pink, yellow linen with brown binding, pastel tub silks, and white cotton mesh are most attractive.

The pattern, 3019, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with 4½ yards of binding.

WEDDINGS

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dickinson of Hubbard Woods have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Dorothy Elizabeth, to Gerald E. White of Grand Rapids, Mich., which is to take place on Sept. 5. The ceremony will take place at Winnetka Congregational church, the Rev. J. W. F. Davies officiating, at 8:30 o'clock, and a small reception at the Dickinson residence is to follow.

Miss Virginia Hinchcliff of Galesburg, Ill., is to be maid of honor, and Leon Townsend Dickinson is to be best man. The bridesmaids are to be Miss Charlotte White of Lowell, Mich.; Miss Ethel Hale of Sweet Briar, Va.; Miss Dorothy Clark of Fargo, N. D., and Miss Helen Brown of Winnetka. Emil Roth and Lawrence Beukema of Grand Rapids, Mich.; James A. Sprowl, and Gilbert R. Barton are to usher.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Perraton of 6954 Glenwood avenue announce the marriage last Saturday of their ward, Miss Marcelyn Ball, to Fred C. Sink of New York.

After Nine Years of Economy He Wonders Why He's Turned Down

BY DORIS BLAKE.

For the last eleven years he has been working to get $25,000 invested so he can live on the income in a short while. He's forty now. He admits to being well fed, well educated, well attired, and a comfortable liver. Also admits being on the 'close side' a bit when it comes to spending money on others.

He says: "Aside from a movie and an occasional luncheon I have never spent any money on my girl friend. But why should I, when she is not a gimme girl? She enjoyed my company and I hers. So I took it for granted that that would cement the love between us."

Just to prove that you can't take anything for granted about a woman she's been dated lately each time he telephones but not with John, the Penitent, as he signs himself.

Maybe in love arithmetic nine years of no-gimme makes a gimme. I don't know. Only it's a long time to keep a girl hanging with nothing more than an occasional lunch and movie to sustain her. So a friend of John, the Penitent's, undertook to tell him what's wrong with him and why the one girl has turned on him.

The friend told him he was too stingy. He should have treated the girl to little show surprises, made dinner dates, taken her to dances since she is a wonderful dancer. He should have given her new books, flowers, etc. "I have never given her a blossom in my life," John confesses, "as they fade too quickly. She bought them for herself as she is crazy about flowers, but then I might not have picked out the ones she likes."

He continues: "Anyway, since she was not the gold digger type I took it for granted she was content the way things were. But now I want her more than anything in my life. How can I get her back?"

In the interim the girl has risen in the artistic world, has made other friends, other dates, and money. Maybe a terrific campaign of flowers and books and shows would help. But I doubt it. After nine years trial a girl has pretty strong convictions of the character of a suitor. And it's depressingly hard work converting independent, successful women into the idea of marriage unless the human qualities of generosity and understanding appear in the contract.

Food Talk.

This department has, of late, welcomed a number of letters which asked for suggestions for porch entertaining.

Porches are readily adaptable to any kind of a party, whether it is a tea, bridge luncheon, or just a table or two of bridge. If you have no maid or small daughter to assist you in serving, a buffet meal is in good form. It has the virtue of permitting you to be with your guests throughout the luncheon and doesn't demand continual sprinting back and forth to the kitchen. Keep your luncheon simple—a salad, two kinds of sandwiches, a dessert, and a drink. Stuffed celery, olives, and cheese carrots may or may not be added.

Should it be a tea you are interested in the same menu stands except that you eliminate the dessert and serve small fancy cakes. For the small informal bridge party you may provide as much food as you wish. I should advise either a salad and dainty open sandwiches, or cake and ice cream, but not both. You can turn it into a substantial ice cream sandwich. Use either a sponge or angel food base and put it together in three layers—a layer of cake, a layer of ice cream, and another layer of cake. Pour over this a generous two tablespoons of a rich hot fudge sauce.

It should be remembered by the hostess that people are not eating as heartily as they once did. They have a watchful eye directed at scales, and a phenomenal power of resistance to the most attractive and edible of foodstuffs. Fresh fruits appeal to the "calorie" woman and are especially appropriate at this time. Quartered peaches, pears, and plums; grapefruit, white grapes, and oranges; ripe figs and sliced bananas; sliced apples, bananas and grapes; ripe pears with cottage cheese stuffing—dressed in a tart mayonnaise to which whipped cream has been added—make grand salads.

The fruit combinations are, of course, endless, and an ingenious cook will vary them according to her taste.

Recipes for dishes included in tomorrow's menu are given below.

ONION SOUP.

Slice four large onions and fry in butter until a golden brown. Add one quart of soup stock from meat, or lacking stock, use four bouillon cubes dissolved in a quart of water. Simmer thirty minutes. Just before serving, beat one egg and one-half cup cream lightly and pour the soup into the egg and cream. Do not reverse this order of procedure or the soup may curdle. Serve with croutons which have been rolled in Parmesan cheese, or sprinkle a little grated Parmesan over each serving of soup. Serves eight people.

SUMMER SALAD.

1 slice crisp head lettuce.
1 slice ripe tomato.
2 cooked asparagus tips.

Place the tomato over the lettuce and then the asparagus over the tomato. This is sufficient for one serving. Use a French dressing.

HALIBUT STEAK.

Lay the steak on a cheesecloth and cover with sliced lemons and broken bay leaves. Cook in a steamer about thirty minutes. Make a sauce for the halibut of one heaping tablespoon of flour, one heaping tablespoon of butter, one-fourth teaspoon of mustard and salt [each] mixed with the flour, one cupful of milk, two hard boiled eggs [diced], one teaspoon of lemon juice, and ½ cup cream. Put the ingredients together in the order named.

Time for Another Beauty Transition, States Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Obviously the era upon which we are about to depart is going to mark a complete beauty transition.

All the old inhibitions about what you can wear and what you can't wear are due for the discard. If you can't wear this and such, the demand is that you make yourself over so that you can wear this and such. Anyway, this coming season is going to show a distinct line of demarkation between the old and the new in beauty and in girl.

Not that that's discouraging news. For if there is one thing woman has proved in the last decade and more, it is that a little thing like a radical change in style of beauty is not going to catch her unprepared in mood, or unequal to the emergency. She's taken a figure that couldn't be crowned into a 44 without a seam busting catastrophe and in no time has it whipped into such divine proportions that the saleswomen address her with: "You take an eighteen, Madame?"

She's taken hold of her hair, even by the roots, if necessary, and what she's done with that is everybody's business at an opening night! She's not only done things with the hair—but with the shape of her head. If she hasn't changed the shape of her skull, nobody would suspect it. She's created the illusion of a head ideally proportioned to the svelte silhouette whose company it keeps.

She's taken legs and reshaped them in a manner truly marvelous. And what the woman of late has done with her hands is another modern miracle. One of the idlest forms of amusement from this beauty editor's standpoint, at least, is talking manicures here and the worthiness of well kept nails. Almost every woman's nails today do their own talking. Sometimes perhaps a little louder than is approved in conventional circles—nevertheless, there are no smudge-tipped nails or overgrown cuticles.

So, if there is a new era confronting us, which there is, you and you and you will be right up front with the best of 'em looking better and younger than you have in years.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

S. H.: WHEN SHAMPOOING DRY hair strong soaps must be avoided. Soaps of a good toilet grade are best. If the hair is dry, superfatted soaps that will leave a coating of oil on the hair may be used. Shampooing instructions may be had for a stamped, addressed envelope.

K. G.: THE HAIR SHOULD BE brushed daily for five to ten minutes. Two brushes are better than one—one being cleansed by dipping in soapsuds and left to dry in the sun, if possible, while the other is in use.

"PLAYING WITH FIRE"

A thrilling tale of a Mexican Revolution

WHEN Lee fired her ranch foreman, he swore vengeance. She laughed at his threats and dismissed them from her mind. But when she heard her lover condemned to be shot and found herself the prisoner of the bandit leader, she remembered—too late!

Don't miss this fascinating story, written by a master of western fiction, William MacLeod Raine

INSTALLMENT I.

A MAIDEN RESCUED.

Against the adobe wall at the corner of Papago and Fourth streets leaned a lean-faced man in chaps. So long had he stood there that the descending sun cut a shaft of light creeping into the shadow almost to his worn and dusty high-heeled boots. Motionless as a puma taking a siesta, there was even in his stillness a promise of dormant power not to be ignored. It could be read in the flow of packed muscles sloping from the throat, in the confidence of his careless ease, in the cool steadiness of the steel blue eyes noting impersonally the tide of humanity which swept up and down the thoroughfare. Mexicans and Mexicans, Indian women with pottery and papooses, giggling schoolgirls, shoppers, and loungers, all the details that went to make up the population of Spring River were absorbed by his keen, indifferent gaze.

And he was a cynical observer rather than an actor in the drama might be guessed. His detachment held a touch of the sardonic, a suggestion of contempt bought by experience, in odd conjunction with such obvious youth. Back of the recklessness lay a grimness, tight-lipped and hard, astonishing in one of his years.

He watched two horses coming down Papago street, a bay and a claybank. In the saddles a man and a woman knee to knee. The woman was in divided breeches, a gay silk shirt, and a fancy beaded vest of deerskin. Beneath the aggressive sombrero a small blonde head showed lovely as an exquisite cameo. Tendrils of tawny gold shot with copper escaped in impudent disregard curls. She was smiling at her companion and the smile was an inducing gift.

The man in chaps decided that she was a "dude" at one of the neighboring guest ranches, from New York, Philadelphia, or some point not far from the Atlantic coast. But the man beside her was no tenderfoot. He was ruggedly indigenous, the bronzed leathery product of many summer suns. His Roman nosed, broad shouldered, in the arrogant strength of the late prime, he was one to claim and hold attention. Not a corral dog, the man who had taken to wrangling dudes as a means of self-preservation in quest the dry lean years.

As somebody spurred down Fourth. The claybank did a nervous little prance, decided to get frightened, and went sun fishing. Its rider gave a careless laugh of disdain.

The shock against the adobe wall woke to action. Like a coiled spring released, the body shot forward. Strong brown hands caught the bridle rein a few feet out of the horse came down. Frustrated in an attempt to rise on its hind legs, the claybank backed to the sidewalk. An arm of the rescuer swept around the waist of the young woman, and lifted her to the ground. Before Brennan standing near he released the horse.

She lay for a moment against his shoulder, supported by it, clinging to him while she gathered assurance of safety. Her laugh was a little tremulous, for her poise was not quite sure of itself, though the words she spoke held a note of friendly derision.

"Thank you, kind sir," the rescued maiden said.

A sardonic smile offered a glimpse of strong white teeth. "Dragons slain are the lovely ladies," he assured her.

Ranse Brennan pushed forward. He was annoyed, unreasonably so. He hated to exchange waddies introducing themselves to Doris Silver in such a manner. There had been no need of it. Given another second he would have had the bridle rein himself without all this grandstanding.

He handed the cowpuncher a dollar. The gesture was born of an irritation to put this meddler in his place.

The man in leathers looked at the coin lying in his brown palm, turned it over and gave on Brennan, then tossed the dollar to the Mexican.

"For holding the brond, I presume," he drawled.

It was done with an easy insolence as disdainful as the arrogance of the other man.

The two measured each other, eye to eye, both recognizing an instinctive enmity. Brennan saw a young man of medium height, slender but well built, with an appearance of sunburnt competence. So much this stranger had in common with many Arizona youths, but there was in the steady eyes a quality of frosted granite that served as a warning.

Brennan was of uncertain temper, accustomed to bullying his way with opposition. He knew himself more forceful than most men. "I reckon you're too good to hold a lady's horse," he said, a rasp to his voice.

"I reckon you're wrong—both times," the answer came quietly.

Brennan did not need to ask information as to the other time. He had acted in the self-indulgence of a gratuitous insult. To offer such a man pay for a service done a woman was to violate unpardonably the code to gentlemen meet. But it was written in the horoscope of Ranse Brennan that he was to blunder through errors with a high hand rather than try to right them.

Now, with the irritation of the big man, there mingled a more disturbing emotion, some vague fugitive memory, as yet too indefinite for recognition, something forgotten out of the sinister and buried past, looked out of the level gray eyes at Brennan. For a moment fear, stark and naked, tightened the muscles of the bully. Swiftly he brushed this aside. It was a notion with which he was not familiar and did not intend to be.

"What's your name, fellow?" he demanded.

The cowpuncher ignored him and the question by turning coolly to the girl. A little crowd had gathered. The incident was due to close.

"If you're quite all right," he suggested.

"Quite. Thanks a lot." She offered her hand.

Their palms met here. They looked into each other's eyes. Once more his strong, dominant, showed a flash of pearly white against a background of brown. He dropped the small hand and turned away.

The name of Doris Silver followed him down the street. He was a man to be noticed twice—and then again.

"This town is getting too full of tramps to suit me," Brennan said, for all to hear. "Let's go, Mrs. Silver. The express office is around the corner. Juan here will hold the horses."

Doris moved beside him, smiling to herself. Who was this stranger, this young worn, with all the casual insolence of a young French aristocrat of the pre-revolutionary period?

"If I had my way I'd put fellows like that on the rock pile," Brennan said, walking along the sidewalk with chin thrust forward.

"Do you think you were quite—nice to him?" Doris asked by way of mild remonstrance.

"Why should I be nice to every Tom, Dick, and Harry?"

She dropped a step or two behind him. "Please, you're going too fast for me."

Brennan slackened his pace ungraciously. "Didn't notice."

"He's a special Tom, Dick, or Harry. He helped me."

"Seemed so. Any one could see that but a woman. I was reaching for him when he butted in. You oughtn't to pick up a scalawag like that and treat him like your equal."

"He did more than that. He had done me a service—at some risk to himself," she defended.

"Not at all. Damned impudence. And you encouraged it."

A network of smiles twitched at her mouth. She slanted a quick look at him. "Was he impudent? I didn't notice it."

"You wouldn't," he said sourly. "If a man throws a big chest a woman looks for him."

"Is that the way of it," she said innocently. "I've wondered about it. Will you explain Mr. Ranse Brennan that way?"

"I'm not talking about Ranse Brennan."

"No, I think you're a little hard on my picturesque tramp. I thought him quite nice."

"If you'd had as much experience with this kind as I have you wouldn't say that. He's a bad lot. Take it from me. What's he doing here? Who does he belong in this country. Probably one of Manuel Megares' men."

Manuel was the bogyman of the border, his name one with which to frighten children to good behavior. Sometimes outlaw, not seldom patriot, always villain of the plot, his name connoted theft, robbery, and murder.

"You really think so?" Doris cried. "I'm thrilled to death. I've never had Americans in with him. Let's go back and ask this man if he is an outlaw. If I only could believe it—well, I wouldn't have come to Arizona."

"I don't know what you're talking about," he said, annoyed. "Megares isn't any comic opera bandit. He's a bad hombre."

"And it would be quite nice to meet him, wouldn't it, with you along to protect me?" She beamed, eyes dancing. "They say he's quite a ladies' man."

"If you want to call it that," he said grimly.

"He speaks English fluently, so I hear. Went to school in this country. Is rather graceful and handsome."

"Matter of opinion." Then, bluntly, he added: "You'd be the devil himself if you had the chance."

"Brennan," she reproved with mock coyness.

Society Quiet Here While Gay in Europe

BY THALIA ——.

WHILE the social calendar for the immediate future here is quite bare [the only affair of any consequence to be discovered by assiduous inquiry is a Waikiki party to be given at Onwentsia next Saturday evening], the Chicago travelers in Europe seem to be going a gay pace.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederic C. Bartlett, who went aboard immediately after their marriage in Indianapolis in early June, were guests at a recent luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. P. Herman Gade at their Chateau Mesnil, at Saint Denis, outside of Paris. Mrs. Carleton Holdrege, with whom Mrs. Ford Rodman Carter stayed during her sojourn in Paris [she must already have sailed for this country or is just about to do so] gave a series of small teas for her guest in the garden of the Holdrege residence in Passy. The Holdreges and their daughter, Betty, are spending several weeks with M. and Mme. Hector Prudhomme at their villa on Mont Boron, near Nice. The villa overlooks Nice and the Mediterranean on one side and the Bay of Villefranche on the other.

Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt arrived in Paris a week or so ago after a stay at Baden-Baden, and the Charles T. Atkinsons, who sailed from San Francisco to circumnavigate the globe by easy stages last November, registered at THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE office in the Rue Scribe on Aug. 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Hollis sailed Saturday night on the Paris for the European trip they usually take each summer. They had no definite plans when they departed, and will probably be away until the middle of October.

Miss Elinor Whiting, daughter of Mrs. A. H. Whiting, was quietly married on Saturday at Waukegan to Edward H. Hagey of Chicago. Although they have been engaged for some months the news of the wedding, which was telephoned to Mrs. Whiting late Saturday evening, came as a shock to her and as a big surprise to the many friends of the bride and groom.

The newlyweds left immediately for Charlevoix and spent Sunday with Mrs. Whiting at her summer home at the Chicago club. They will arrive in Chicago this morning.

How Chicagoans Enjoy Vacations in the Berkshires.

Our Berkshires correspondent in his weekly letter includes a description of the E. Parmalee Prentices' Mount Hope farm villa, which was opened to the public for a charitable event on Saturday afternoon—a benefit concert by Albert Spalding for the Berkshire Industrial farm at Canaan, N. Y.

The estate stretches along both sides of the main highway for a mile and a half, and its gardens are noted. The mansion, of Georgian architecture, with tall white pillars, is not visible from the main highway, but is reached by a winding road more than a mile long through beautiful lawns and gardens. It is set on one of the foothills of Greylock mountain, and has a marvelous view of the Greylock Hopper.

The perennial garden, planted under Mrs. Prentice's personal direction, has quantities of Madam Bezanson phlox, cerise ones, old English lavender, heliotrope, old fashioned pinks, and various sages. Mrs. W. Rockwood Gibbs of Chicago and Richmond was in charge of Mr. Spaldings' recital, for which the proceeds were expected to exceed $1,000.

Mrs. Frederick S. Coolidge, and her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Sprague Coolidge, have gone to Greenboro, Vt. Willem Willeke, first violinist and director of Mrs. Coolidge's South Mountain string quartet and Elshuco trio, was their host while they were in Pittsfield and gave a large dinner and musical for them last week. Mr. Coolidge played the viola in the quartet at one of the Sunday afternoon concerts. The John H. Hamlines have been visiting Mrs. Hamline's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Beebe, at Great Barrington, and the George Higginsons have had as house guests Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Cantagalli of Florence, Italy, friends of Count and Countess Giangiulio Rucellai [Theresa Higginson].

Mrs. James Ransom Walker has joined the newly formed Stockbridge Contract club. The Kimball Salisburys had a dinner party early in the week for Mrs. Salisbury's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. James Denison Colt [Ethel Frances Eaton], who have just returned from their wedding trip abroad.

Wherein Winnetha Is Deprived of One Summer Thrill.

When somebody told me that Mrs. Frank Fuller of Winnetka was acquainted with Ramon Novarro, the movie actor, and that maybe he might visit her this summer, I began imagining what a sensation he'd create at one of the Indian Hill Country club dances. Alas for that bright picture! Mrs. Fuller tells me that although she knows Mr. Novarro—she met him last winter when she was in California—she hasn't heard anything about his coming here.

At the moment—the Louis Sudlers and their baby are visiting Mrs. Sudler's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes, at Harbor Point. . . . Mrs. Miles Trammell is in Atlantic City. . . . The Keith Carpenters and their small daughters, Alice and Ann, are with the Hermon Dunlop Smiths at the Robert J. Thorne camp at Desbarats, Canada [Alice and Ann have the Smith children, Deborah and Gwendolyn, to play with]. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Kingman Douglas of Lake Forest and Kingman Jr. are vacationing in the Adirondacks. . . . Mrs. Paget Cady returns today from a visit with Mrs. Cyrus Hill at Mackinac island. . . . The James Wallers Rogerses, who went up for a week-end with Mrs. Hill at Mackinac, proceeded on to Harbor Point to be with Mr. Rogers' father, at Harbor Point.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher W. Rockwell will give a tea dance at the Greenwich Country club on Sept. 19 for their debutante daughter, Miss Ann Rockwell.

Mr. and Mrs. George P. Houghtaling and George Ryder Houghtaling returning yesterday from Hot Springs, Va.

Mrs. Daniel H. Holmes and her granddaughter, Miss Polly Ingalls, returned from Hot Springs, Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Breeden of the Savoy-Plaza have gone to Manchester, Vt.

Harry Disston left yesterday to pass the remainder of the month in Saratoga Springs.

Bright Sayings of the Children

A neighbor of mine has a little boy three years old whose grandmother was a famous opera singer. His mother confesses to absolutely no voice at all. A few days ago she picked him up and sang a few notes. The baby looked up and said, "Please, mother, don't sing, I'll be a good boy." C. L.

By Marie Conway Oemler

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.

THE WINSTEADS DON'T CHANGE.

Sam talked of his trip, of the places he had seen, the people he had met. He narrated amusing little adventures and misadventures, such as befall all travelers. Then had come her cable.

Trains and ships being too slow, he had employed planes whenever possible, until he caught the ship that was to bring him home. From New York he again employed a plane.

"It must have been dreadfully hard on you," Sally said.

"It was all so hellishly slow! I was consumed with impatience, with fear. I didn't know what I was to find, what had happened, whether Dad would still be here——" he stopped, shuddering. "You, too, must have had an awful time, Sally."

She nodded, unable to speak for a minute. Then: "I have learned to know him—to love him," she said. "I—Sam, you were right. I found out." And she told him about the letters in the old desk at Oakleigh. "And after that—well, we have been real friends, father and I. We mean a good deal to each other."

"I heard you say you wouldn't go," he said, his voice low. "Sally, you said you wouldn't go."

"How can I go when father wants me to stay? He calls me daughter," she replied. And she asked, in a voice as low as his own: "Sam, on your honor—please, do you want me to go?"

"No!" he cried, almost like a groan. "No!"

"Do you still like me enough to be willing to have me here?" she asked, after a pause.

"Yes!" he said, betwen his teeth. "I like you enough to want you to stay here, Sally. I—I can't bear you to go! We Winsteads are one woman men," he told her sullenly.

"So father told me," said she, sedately. Her heart had begun to leap, to dance in her breast, to act as though it had wings and were trying to fly skyward and sing larklike. "It was good news to me. I was very, very glad to hear it. I think it would break my heart if I didn't hear it."

"Hear what? I don't understand," said he, beginning to tremble.

"That the Winsteads don't change," cried she, and laughed joyously, and faced him with shining brown eyes.

"Sally!" he cried in a choked voice. "Sally!"

The afternoon had waned, the skies were dimming pearl with a dash of crimson to brighten the last light. The gardens were a fragrant, lovely glow of flower faces fading into duskier beauty. A mocking bird began to trill, as though trying out his voice. In the fading skies a star trembled into the pure, pale light. The windows of home began to reflect the afterglow.

"Sally!" he cried, and caught the hand she held out to him.

"Come upstairs, and I can tell you what I have to tell you, Sam—what I must tell you," she said, leading him indoors.

Wonderingly, his heart beating like a hammer, he followed her indoors. Up the wide, splendid staircase. The dark hall was full of shadows that seemed to whisper; the great, silent house seemed to wait, to hold its breath, to listen intently for what Sally must tell him.

Into his own room, and the door closed behind her. She pressed the button by the door, and the room leaped into light.

"I can talk to you better with her near me. She knows. I think she has known all along. That is why she smiles so, the lovely thing!" said the girl softly, looking up at Katje's smiling face.

Katje's son couldn't speak—his heart hammered too much. He could only stand there and stare and stare, all his heart in his very blue eyes.

"Katje! I told you a long time ago that I thought I was going to love your Henry. You knew I would—and I do. He is my father, my dear father. But I didn't tell you I was going to love your son terribly, Katje, terribly; as you loved Henry, dear; but you knew it, you knew it!"

"I—O my God! O my God!" whispered Sam.

"Make him understand, Katje. Make him understand. Henry knows," said Sally, raising her face.

"Sally!" cried the young man. "Sally, Sally!" And he caught her to his heart. She felt his heart pounding against her side, felt his unashamed tears of joy and thankfulness on her cheeks. Then his lips on hers. Sam's lips.

"There are many things," she said, "that you and I will have to tell each other. But not now—not now."

"I can't listen to anything, I can't hear anything but that you love me, my love. Sally, say it."

"I love you. Even as you love me. With all my heart, all my soul. I shall always love you. You said you wouldn't ever make love to me again, you would never tell me you love me—unless I asked you to. Sam, husband, lover, darling—do you love me? Do you love me as you did—when you married me—and went away?"

He hid his face against hers, he held her close, whispering again and again that he loved her, he loved her.

"And the Winsteads don't change," she said happily. "See, O my dearest dear, I have no pride any more—I have only love. Now put me aside, my love, just for a moment—while you hear what I have to tell your mother."

Reluctantly, he released her for a moment, while she turned to the picture above the mantel. The two young faces watched each other, eye to eye, the blue eyes smiling into the brown ones raised to them.

"Katje, I have one more secret for your ears, dear," said Sally Winstead in a thrilling whisper. "Katje, I want—I hope for—I pray God for—a son like yours! I pray God for a son like yours, Katje."

Her proud and gallant head high, she turned and walked into her young husband's eager, outstretched arms.

Little Girl of Ten Is Making Quite a Problem of Herself

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

There are many mothers who find themselves in a quandry or difficulties similar to the one described in this letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans: I have read with interest your articles in the papers, and they have given me many an idea. I have a little girl, aged 10, who is somewhat of a problem. She would like to have her own way at all times, is more interested in movies than Sunday school, does not wish to study, and is not fond of reading. I wonder if you would give me your advice about her reading?

"First, is it a good idea for me to read to her or does that encourage her laziness? She belongs to the library, but so far she has not read one book through before she takes it back and gets another. Would you kindly send me the names of some books that might interest her?"

First, it is necessary for parents to realize that all children are not naturally studious and that all children do not care for reading. Frequently these are the reasons why children don't read and don't study.

This does not mean, however, that these children need never study or never read. If their school work is made sufficiently interesting they will do some studying. If they can get hold of books that suit their tastes or hold their attention they can acquire an enjoyment of reading in a moderate degree.

The same principle holds for Sunday school. Some teachers make Sunday school so dull that children either don't want to go, or they go only to play. I should not force the Sunday school—or perhaps one might try another class.

All children want their own way. The secret lies in a combination of firmness and friendliness. Give them their way whenever possible, reason whenever possible, but be the authority—when the occasion arises for it. Avoid nagging and scolding.

We still haven't touched on what may account in a large part for the trouble here. I suspect too many movies. A child of 10 should go to the movies rarely, and then only to carefully chosen ones. Movies are not good emotional or mental fare for young people in their formative years—certainly not for a child of 10.

My suggestions would be, first, to cut the movies down and almost out. Replace them with lots of childish interests and outdoor life.

Get some books or a good child's magazine and read to your daughter a little at a time—then leave them around. When she sees the entertainment there is in books she may pick them up herself.

Break up the home work period into two or three parts. Use praise freely and don't expect high marks.

For practical help there is sent out by this department a list of entertaining books called "The Children's Book Shelf"—a list of booklets on child management, and a booklet on stubbornness. Each of these will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Edgar Wallace Fails to Detect Sale of Paper

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—Another British newspaper, the Sunday News, ceased publication last night. Even its editor, Edgar Wallace, the writer of detective stories, did not know the newspaper had gone out of existence until informed by a reporter of another Sunday paper. The paper has been purchased by the proprietors of the Sunday Graphic and amalgamated with that newspaper, appearing for the first time this morning as the Sunday Graphic and Sunday News.

At 6 o'clock last night the staff of the paper was working as usual when the acting editor walked in and called:

"Gentlemen! I have news for you. The Sunday News is dead. These pages we now have in proof will never go to the machines. You can all stop work."

Thus ended the life of a famous journal which was first published in 1843 and at one time circulated all over the world. Until March of last year it was known as Lloyd's Sunday News. The name was changed when it passed into the hands of new owners and became an associate of the Daily Chronicle. The Chronicle ceased publication abruptly the following May. The net sales of the Sunday News last April were just over 1,000,000 copies.

EMBARRASSING MOMENTS

Sweet Trip Through Store.

Recently, while walking through a store, I noticed a candy dish filled with candy on various counters. Thinking it was meant for samples, I stopped and helped myself from the different dishes. Imagine my embarrassment when the manager stopped me and said, "I'm sorry, lady, but that candy is only for display."

I made a quick exit. L. L.

Cured of Noon Shampoos.

I always pride myself on my neatness, but recently my pride took a fall. Due to a 5:30 p. m. appointment for a marcel, I decided to wash my hair at noon time and taking the advice of a co-worker, I took a walk afterwards in the sun hoping to dry my hair. It is straight black hair and with the wind blowing strong, it stuck straight out at times.

I was walking on a downtown city street, and as I passed a group of young men sitting on the steps of a building, I heard a good imitation of an Indian war whoop. Believe me, I'm cured of noon shampoos. A. I. F.

Why Have Gray Hair?

If you are troubled with gray hair, falling hair or dandruff, don't give up! Use Nourishine! Nourishine is a tonic that acts naturally at the base of the trouble—the hair roots. Nourishine cleanses the scalp, banishes dandruff, stimulates and invigorates the roots and promotes hair growth. It acts as a food tonic for starved hair follicles and thus eliminates the cause of gray hair. The one liquid will restore gray hair to any original color, regardless of its shade. Easy to apply. Certain, uniform results. $1.25 at all drug and department stores.

Nourishine Shampoo is used first—especially recommended to Nourishine users for better results. Price, 50c.

Sally's Gang of 100 to See Puppets in Grimm Fairy Story

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

How does the news of our next party strike you, boys and girls?

Isn't it exciting to know that we're going to do something we've never done before, and doesn't it make you curious to know just what kind of a show this is going to be?

For the benefit of those who may have missed the announcement in yesterday's paper I shall tell you again that we've been invited to attend a puppet show on Thursday, Aug. 27, for a performance of that perfectly delightful fairy tale, "Rumpelstiltskin."

The actors will be mechanical dolls or figures who perform and move about the stage just like real persons.

The play itself should be delightful. You know the story written by the Grimm brothers, all about the little man who spun straw into gold so that the miller's daughter could become the queen.

The party will be on Aug. 27 and every letter must reach me no later than Thursday, Aug. 20, for on that day I shall select the winners. In writing, do not forget to mention your name, address, and age and send your letter to Sally Joy Brown, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, Chicago.

More New Yorkers Now Able to Read and Write

Washington, D. C., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Census bureau statistics today disclosed that illiteracy among New York City's foreign born is now 10.7 per cent, compared to 13.8 a decade ago. Total illiteracy among persons ten years of age or older in the metropolis declined 1.7 per cent from 281,121 in 1920 to 264,606 in 1930. Illiterates ten years ago represented 6.2 per cent of the population, against 4.5 last year.

Accessories Freshen Up the Paris Costume

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Head and hands are working together these days to make the simple evening ensemble look more decorative. Evening hats, if they can be dignified by so important a name, are in style in Paris, and are being worn for any sort of public affair, by certain smart Parisiennes. These hats, and very new short, transparent gloves are accessories that give the mode a fresh and attractive air.

The hat at the top of our sketch is one of the new evening headlines of Paris chic. It is from Agnès and consists of a tiny black silk tricot skull cap with a halo of white ostrich feathers. Worn with the new Antoine bob, as shown, it is most atractive. With this hat is a brand new Talbot glove, which barely covers the wrist and is made of black chiffon, yes'm—black chiffon. Lace motifs are set in at the top of the glove and across the back of the hand.

Below is Suzanne Talbot's intriguing new evening bonnet. It is a cap of tulle, with a short tulle veil over the forehead, in one piece with the cap. Over this a chaplet of black enamel and rhinestones is placed to hold the cap firmly on the head and make the hair behave in an orderly way. With this hat are shown Talbot's short black tulle slipon gloves which are being worn by some ultra smart ladies in Paris.

The chicken farmer who recently invested in a new incubator may be looking for a place of disposal for the old one. This family could put it to good use.

THOMAS WINS, 9 TO 2; RED SOX TAKE 2D, 5 TO 1

Rookies a Handicap to Vic Frasier.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The White Sox, having split their ...d double headers prior to yesterday's entertainment against the ...ton Red Sox, remained consistent ...y winning the first, 9 to 2, and then ...ping mediocre baseball to drop the ...ond, 5 to 1.

...n the first encounter the White ...s overpowered the Bostonians in ...ond by Tommy Thomas, but in ...ond game four of the Red ...x five runs went into the book as ...rned, with the other one involved ...a possible error of judgment.

...e winning run in the second game ...s scored on another of Billy Sullivan's ...ghtsome throws, and there is ...me talk of having the young man do ...me pitching in the matter of tossing ...baballs here and there.

Other Rookies Suffer, Too.

...e second game was a tough one ...r rookie Leonard. Willis Norman, in ...s first field, had great trouble in handling his first, and in addition further ...ded three of Durham's seven strikeouts. Frasier's fielding was pretty bad, too.

...n fact, about the only things to ...se the 18,000 fans in the sundown ...ndful were two great circus catches ...y Carl Reynolds.

...Tommy' victory was his ninth of ...e year and his sixth over the Red ...x. Tommy hasn't been able to do...n a first division team this season, ...d games like yesterday's count just ...s much in the standings, and more, ...r the second division teams are ...ined to hold a consolation pennant ...ce all to themselves.

...f the six hits Thomas allowed the ...d two were spurious in that they ...re misjudged by fielders. The next ...o, a triple by Pickering and a dou...e by Berry, which accounted for all ...e Boston scores, were untainted, as ...re singles by Miller and Oliver in ...e sixth.

Frasier Loses Chance.

...n dropping the second game, Fra...er lost an opportunity to become the ...ly nineteen pitcher on the Comis...y roster with a percentage as good ...s .500. But at the end of the day's ...rk Frasier was ten won and a ...e lost.

...rasier allowed the same number ...f hits as Thomas, but the ragged ...ne in his game made the difference ...n the decision, and Durham was some...hat worry about, even had the ...ox played skilled baseball. While ...ey errors he walked only one. ...e allowed only five hits, two in the ...st, one with two out in the fifth, ...d one in the sixth.

...e Sox will wind up their Chi...go series with a game this ...fternoon, Caraway will be pitted ...gainst Brandt.

FIRST GAME

...e Red Sox got the day's scoring ...ff by making two runs after ...o were out in the second inning. ...ey came in on Sweeney's fly and ...n Johnny's head for a ...ble. The confused young man re...ained the ball, however, and threw ...n time to thwart Sweeney's ...empt to score the smack to a double. ...e went to Watwood, but Pickering ...s thrown to right center and scored ...e first run as the rapid Berry doubled to ...e the same spot. Lisenbee trick...d a grounder between Cissell's ...et and Berry scored on the error. ...e Chisox died in Watwood.

...ox opened the Sox half of ...e second with a single to right and ...ller, batting for Watwood, walked ...o second. The runners advanced ...e a fielder's indecision. Then Cissell dou...ed to left, scoring Fonseca and ...ller. Tate's grounder got past ...ox, Cissell scoring.

Sox Score Four in Third.

...e White Sox added four runs in ...e third inning. Sullivan opened with ...single to right and went to second ...n Reynolds was reaching first on ...n error. Fonseca's bunt forced ...ullivan at third. Then Reynolds ...ole third while Norman was forced ...y Pickering, Kerr singled to right, ...ding Reynolds and Norman taking ...ird, after which Kerr stole second. ...ate then knocked his second successful double, a whizzer over third, ...ring Norman and Kerr scoring. Morris re...ced Lisenbee and Tate singled to ...ft, scoring Cissell.

...e Red Sox had the bases full with ...o out in the sixth, but fell short of ...ring. Miller singled to left and ...ox walked. Sweeney grounded to ...ird, who tagged Miller. Oliver ...ingled to left, filling the bases. Then ...ickering fanned and Fonseca made ...e catch of Berry's foul to the far ...ox bull pen.

...e Bostonians never developed a ...ing thereafter.

Tate, Miller Cross Plate.

...e White Sox closed their first ...ning offensive with two runs in the ...xth. Tate singled to right and ...ox up on Thomas' sacrifice. ## BOSTON GETS 7 HITS OFF ROOT AND 5 OFF BUSH

Another Twin Bill Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., Aug. 16.—Two large packages of pitching, neatly delivered, were enough to show up the bothersome Braves today before 28,000 of their Sabbath admirers. One of the packages was a seven hit effort by Charles Root; the other a five hit effort by Guy Bush. Behind this hurling the Cubs made such good use of their bats that they triumphed with consummate ease in both ends of a double header. The scores, in their order, were 7 to 1 and 5 to 1. The Chicagoans needed the two victories to get ahead of the Braves on the season. The count on victories now is 8 to 7.

There was so little lost motion in Root's right arm in the first game that the affair consumed only 1 hour and 39 minutes. There also was so much skill attached to his exhibition that the Braves didn't deserve a hit in six innings. They picked up a couple during that time only because of things over which Root had no control. One was Hack Wilson's fading skill as a fly catcher. The other was the sun. Even three of the five hits subsequently made off the outstanding citizen of Middleton, O., were tarnished.

Bush Breezes Along.

For quite a stretch Bush acted as if he intended to duplicate his sterling one hit warmup of last Sunday against the Cardinals. For five innings he kept his adversaries so well in check that they could perpetrate only one safety, and this was a scratch, which led to a run. What hitting was done against him after that was so well scattered that it was of no consequence. Meanwhile his mates were coasting to victory by virtue of a four run assault that had sent Socks Seibold away in the fourth. Three worthy hits figured in this episode, the choicest being a homer with one on by Gabby Hartnett.

The first game made a very disconsolate man of Ben Cantwell. As soon as he started throwing the Cubs opened a deadly fire and two runs resulted. They fired at him some more and scored another pair in the third. More firing came in the fifth, two more crossing the plate and relieving Cantwell of the necessity of further effort. Two of these six runs were driven in by Wilson, one on a single and the other on a double play. And last year's home run king also let loose with a double as part of the successful clinching of the second contest.

Two More Games Today.

Pat Malone and Bob Smith will pitch against the Braves tomorrow. The workmen for the latter probably will be Ed Brandt and Bruce Cunningham. Just to keep his batting eye in trim, Hornsby may start in the game in which Brandt is employed. This will relieve Blair of the necessity of trying to hit a southpaw.

FIRST GAME

The first game opened with Cantwell handing a pass to Blair and that was the start of a pair of Cub runs. English forced Blair, but Maranville in attempting a double play pegged wild and English went to second. Cuyler planted a triple in right center, English going home. Barton's swing produced only a gentle tap to the pitcher, but Wilson whacked a single to left, scoring Cuyler.

Barton made up for his first inning oversight by instituting a two run expedition in the fourth. He led off with a single to right and went to second on Hack's infield out. Grimm walked, and a moment later was forced by Hartnett, who narrowly avoided being doubled. Then Bell lined a single over third and Barton registered. A single by Root scored Hartnett, after which Blair fanned.

Accept Two More in Fifth.

The Cubs didn't exactly earn two runs in the fifth, but they accepted them nevertheless. English opened this attack with a high fly to left and Worthington neglected to hold it. To show his appreciation of this English dashed to second. Cuyler laid down a bunt toward third and beat it for a hit. Barton singled to right center, English counting and Cuyler hustling to third. Frankhouse then assumed the pitching labor. Cuyler ran home while Barton and Wilson were being retired in a double play.

While the above six runs were being accumulated, the Braves were being sorely distressed by Root's pitching. In the first three innings they put one man on base, that being a pass. In the fourth they finally broke through his hitless armor, but not legitimately. With one out, Richbourg sent a liner to left and Hack, after getting his hands on it, let it drop. It was recorded as a hit. Berger then bolsted one over short. English was set for the catch, but got the sun in his eyes and turned away as a matter of self-protection. It went as a single. An instant later a double play put an end to the inning.

Bunch Hits in Seventh.

The Braves didn't break out with any more hits until the seventh, but this time they bunched three of them for a run. Berger's grounder squirted off Bell's glove for a single. Singles to right by Worthington and Sheely loaded the bags. Urbanski's fly to

PERRY, BRITISH NET STAR, BEATS HALL FOR TITLE

Rye, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Frederick J. Perry, British Davis cup singles star, romped through to victory over J. Gilbert Hall, South Orange, N. J., veteran, in the final round of the eastern turf court tennis championships today. Perry, who came over here principally to bid for the United States singles championship, disposed of Hall, 6-2, 6-2, 6-4.

Keeping up the fine team play which has marked their game all season, Keith Gledhill of Santa Barbara, Cal., and Ellsworth Vines Jr. of Pasadena, Cal., carried off the doubles title by defeating the Wimbledon champions, George Lott and John Van Ryn of Philadelphia, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 11-9.

Earlier in the day, John Van Ryn and George Lott of Philadelphia had advanced to the final round of doubles by winning their semi-final round match with Jack Tidball and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, 8-10, 6-4, 8-6. This match was started yesterday but called after each team had won a set.

Fred Frame Wins 25 Mile Woodbridge Auto Race

Woodbridge, N. J., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Fred Frame of Los Angeles won the 25 mile eastern states automobile handicap race at the Woodbridge speedway today in 19 minutes 50 3-5 seconds.

Chicago Cards Sign Glasgow, Hawkeye Star

Bill Glasgow, who starred in the backfield at Iowa for three years before playing professional football last year with the Portsmouth, O., team of the National league, has been signed by the Chicago Cardinals, according to an announcement last night by Dr. David Jones, owner of the Chicago eleven. Glasgow's acquisition will strengthen the Cardinals' running attack and with the return of Ernie Nevers, former Stanford full back, to the Cardinals, Dr. Jones expects his team to finish near the top in the 1931 race.

BILL GLASGOW.

In addition to Glasgow, Dr. Jones will have several new stars.

Among them will be Jess Shaw, Southern California guard; Malcolm Franklin, end from St. Mary's; William Creighton, an end from the Missouri Valley conference; Frank McNally of California, William Rogge, an Iowa end, and John Malloy, a half back from Loyola university.

Many of last year's squad also have been signed. The list includes Herb Bloomer, Bullet Baker, William Boyd, Gene Rose, Charley Deal, Phil Handler, Jake Williams, Jess Tinsley, Mickey Erickson, and Johnny Vesser.

The Cardinals will start practice Sept. 1 at one of the local semi-pro ball parks. On Sept. 20 they will play the Pullman Panthers in a pre-season game at Normal park before opening their league schedule in a night game at Portsmouth, O., Sept. 23.

German Woman Breaks World Shot Put Record

BIELEFELD, Germany, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Fräulein G. Heublein of Barmen bettered her own world's record for the 8 pound shot put today with a toss of 13.70 meters [44 feet 11 25-64 inches]. The German girl bettered the record on each of four tries today. The listed world's record for the shot put for women is 12.55 meters [42 feet 1 59-64 inches], set by Fräulein Heublein at Frankfort in 1928.

WARNS COLLEGES THEIR GRID GATES MIGHT BE TAXED

New Carnegie Report Is Made Public.

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Football, the King Midas of college athletics, may some day be the cause of a revision of present day taxation laws unpleasant to colleges and universities, Henry Smith Pritchett, president of the Carnegie endowment for the advancement of teaching, warns in his yearly report made public today.

"A stadium, like the Yale bowl or the one recently erected at South Bend [Notre Dame], is used merely for public shows," said the president of the organization which issued the famous bulletin 23 on college athletic systems two years ago. "These plants are tremendous earners of money. Are they exempt from taxation, and, if so, upon what theory? Will not the various states insist [and rightly so] upon taking money earning agencies of this description? . . . An agency that takes in $400,000 at a single show is in no position to ask for the exemption of this money earner from taxation."

Outlook Still Dark.

The whole question of the exemption of colleges, schools, churches, and other "charitable institutions" from taxation may be opened, Dr. Pritchett points out, adding:

"The exploitation of commercial football has done more to hasten the inquiry than any other one thing."

Despite the reforms which Howard J. Savage, one of the co-authors of Bulletin 23, says have been worked in college athletics since 1929, Dr. Pritchett still views football darkly.

"It is generally conceded that football no longer is a college game," he writes. "The boys who are summoned to the football colors at the end of August are called to no boys' game. They are to be drilled under professional trainers for a gruelling contest for which the public will pay handsomely.

"Boy Is Exploited."

"The exploitation of the student, his diversion from genuine college study and social life, his service under professional trainers, are all in preparation for a commercial show before the public. The boy is exploited not so much to make a Roman holiday as to earn money and make a name for his institution in the public arena."

That football does play a large part in the college budget there can be little doubt, Dr. Pritchett says, despite the absence of statistics. He quoted the Harvard report which shows a yearly income of $12,000,000, five million from tuition and one and a quarter million from athletics, "almost wholly from football."

He comments:

"One wonders what is the ratio of football income to total income in institutions that make a specialty of football."

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

Robert C. Zuppke, who coaches football at the University of Illinois, is ready to let Michigan, Northwestern and Purdue battle it out for the 1931 championship of the Western conference.

BOB ZUPPKE.

Grouped closely behind these three are Wisconsin and Ohio State. The others can be lumped in the third division, as Mr. Zuppke sees it.

None of the three teams which the Illinois leader regards as potential champions will come together this fall. That is why he thinks there is a strong possibility of a triple tie.

"Illinois, as usual, plays the toughest schedule in the conference," Zuppke remarked the other night. "We meet six Big Ten foes and they're all tough. That's no sponge cake, either," he insisted.

"We play all three teams which I rate in the top flight. We also meet Wisconsin and Ohio State, the second division clubs. That's a schedule they could talk about even at Notre Dame."

Dick Hanley, whose Northwestern eleven last year tied with Michigan for the Big Ten title, was sitting at the table when Zuppke was bemoaning his ill luck. When it looked as if Zuppke were going to break down contemplating the strain of it all, Hanley pressed a handkerchief to his eyes and left the room. The suffering was terrific.

The regard football coaches have for the gridiron strength and skill of their rivals is beautiful to behold. It strikes me as betokening a new era in sport when you find so many masters of the game figuratively slapping one another on the back and admitting that after all there is no coach quite as skilled in the magic of the art as good old Fielding Stagg, inventor of the ears back reverse, or good old Bob Hanley, who originated the concave wingback formation.

This is all very heartening because as long as the boys stick together they will continue to do right well by themselves.

Whatever their opinions about the formidability of the other's team, Zuppke and Hanley were one in their appraisal of professional football. They agree it is the McHooey.

And Mr. Zuppke:

"My Illinois football team of last year [which was by no means his best] could play the Bears, the Cardinals, or any other pro club to a standstill. A team like the 1930 Notre Dame eleven would score four touchdowns on the best pro eleven before the latter knew what was going on.

"I have no quarrel with pro football. I have more boys in the game than any other coach. Perhaps that is why I know more about the relative strength of the two games than the average man. When I see players who were college stars at 160 pounds try to carry on at 180—but why talk about it? It makes me boil when I see what they get away with in pro ranks."

While Mr. Hanley nodded approval a reporter interrupted to inquire why Red Grange, who Zuppke rates as the greatest player he ever has seen, was unable to make headway against the Cardinals a few days after he left the campus at Urbana.

"Grange couldn't measure up to his college form for the same reason that Savoldi and Holmer and countless other stars have been disappointing in pro football. Grange had nobody running interference. McIlwain was the man who cleared the way for Red at Illinois. There was no McIlwain on the Bears and there are no McIlwains in pro football."

Zuppke then told of meeting one of his old players after watching him take part in a pro game.

"I notice you weren't doing blocking today," he remarked.

"Not on your life," the old Illini retorted. "I'll run interference for $165, but not for $100. I want to play next Sunday, too."

Hanley contended that the coaches and managers of professional teams usually emphasize a player's weakness rather than his strength. He brought up the case of Earl Britton, full back at Illinois, in support of his statement.

"Britton had certain things he could do well in college football," he explained. "He was a fine kicker, a good passer and skillful in receiving passes. He never was a good plunger or blocker. But when he got into pro football he was used to plunge and block. Naturally he looked bad."

Zuppke pointed out that pro football undeniably would be superior to college football if conditions under which the boys worked were the same. The greatest difference between the two games, he stated, was the zest for victory that you find among undergraduates, but which is lacking in post-college contests.

Stagg's Quiet 69th Birthday Isn't so Quiet

Amos Alonzo Stagg, who starts his fortieth year as football coach at the University of Chicago next month, had expected to spend his 69th birthday quietly at home yesterday.

Mr. Stagg had decreed that there should be no formal celebration as he had "a few jobs about the house" he had wanted to do for a long time.

Last night when asked whether he had succeeded in getting the work done, he laughed and said he had not.

"I got around to several of the jobs this morning," he said, "and then helped Mrs. Stagg wash the dishes.

"But in the afternoon so many persons came to my house to congratulate me on my birthday that I had to stop working. I'll probably have to spend the next several days answering letters and telegrams, too. Now I don't know when I can get the rest of the work done."

Burke and Von Elm Beat Star Indiana Golfers

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., national open champion, and George Von Elm of Detroit, runner-up for the open title, defeated Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, state open champion, and Ralph Stonehouse, Indianapolis, runner-up, 1 up, in an eighteen hole best ball exhibition match at the Highland Golf and Country club this afternoon. Burke and Von Elm turned in a card of 66, four under par and one under the card of the Indianapolis professionals. Von Elm, the business man golfer, won a $50 bonus for low medal score with a 71.

Winn May Act on Charity Races Today

Col. Matt J. Winn, head of the American Turf association, is to return to Chicago today or tomorrow, and after a conference with associates in the Lincoln Fields and Washington Park tracks, which his organization operates, probably will announce the part these racing associations will play in the charity program for Gov. Emmerson's unemployed fund. The race tracks plan to raise $50,000 or more for the fund, it became known Saturday. Col. Winn is coming here from Saratoga Springs, N. Y., where last week he announced he was heartily in accord with the plans for the various jockey clubs operating tracks in Chicago to add to the governor's fund for the unemployed.

Col. Winn also is coming to Chicago to complete plans for the opening of the annual autumn season of racing at Lincoln Fields, which starts one week from today.

While at Saratoga he interested a number of eastern owners in the $25,000 added Lincoln handicap, to be run on the afternoon of Aug. 29. It is possible that Mate, Sun Beau, St. Brideaux, and Spinach will be among the invaders from the east for the rich stake.

Sweep, Famous Sire of Turf, Dies at Lexington

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 16.—(AP)—Sweep, 24 year old thoroughbred sire valued at $100,000, died yesterday at Glen Helen stud after a few hours' illness.

BURNING BLAZE IS TOP FLIGHT'S RIVAL FOR TITLE

Chicago 2 Year Old Piles Up Strong Claim.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There isn't much likelihood of a clear claim to the 2 year old championship existing when the racing season ends late this fall.

If C. V. Whitney's Top Flight continues to show her heels to the juveniles in the eastern stakes her followers will claim the title for this daughter of Dis Done and Flyatit. It will be a right healthy claim if she goes on to victory in the Futurity at Belmont.

But if Burning Blaze, which races in the west for the Nash brothers of Chicago, goes on through the late summer and autumn 2 year old fixtures in Chicago to a string of triumphs, his claim to the title will be just as convincing, although he may not wind up the year as the winner of as much money as Top Flight.

Seeks Futurity Prize.

Top Flight's only immediate engagement is the Futurity at Belmont. She should win her victory under 119 pounds the Saratoga Special on Saturday indicates. For most of her more dangerous rivals in the Futurity were turned back by the Speedy Whitney filly in the Special.

Burning Blaze gets his next test, and it is to be his first real test under high weight, in the Hawthorne juvenile handicap on Saturday, for which he naturally will rule a strong favorite. He also goes after the 2 year old stakes at Lincoln Fields in September and the Latonia stakes for those of his age in October.

There is little likelihood of a meeting between Burning Blaze and Top Flight, for Burning Blaze will not invade the east because he is not eligible to the Futurity, and there is slight chance that Top Flight will make another trip west.

Chicago Well Represented.

With such stalwarts as Wise Counsellor, Anita Peabody, Reigh Count, Roguish Eye, Risque, and now Burning Blaze representing them, Chicagoans have figured prominently in 2 year old title affairs during the last few seasons.

Burning Blaze, which has already earned more than $40,000 for his Chicago owners, was a yearling bargain last season. But the Nash brothers had a pretty good tip that he was an extraordinarily good colt, for they made a special trip into Kentucky to pick him up for $5,000 on the night he was offered at the fall auctions.

The daddy of this good colt is Big Blaze and his mammy is Mexican Tea. Big Blaze was one of Campfire's best sons. Mexican Tea is a daughter of Tea Caddy. Thus Burning Blaze is of the family that has given American racing such noted horses as Iroquois, Belvidere, Sir Dixon, Ladkin, Crusader, Scapa Flow, Trojan, Spot Cash, and many others. It is known as the Maggie B. B. family.

Final Hawthorne Stake.

The Hawthorne Juvenile handicap on Saturday will be the final stake race of Hawthorne's summer meeting. It carries an added value of $10,000 and, despite Burning Blaze's big reputation, made chiefly when he beat all the star eastern and western 2 year olds except Top Flight in the Arlington Post and Paddock stakes, it will attract a big field. Top Flight, which earlier had won the Lassie stakes at Arlington, was not eligible to the Post and Paddock.

The western 2 year old stars begin warming up for Saturday's $10,000 race in the Woodlawn purse at 5½ furlongs today. The field in the Woodlawn includes Colonial Belle, Miss Marr, Givanna, Porter's Dream, Bryonia, Fair Lee, and others. Some of these fleet fillies are likely to make it most interesting for Burning Blaze in the Hawthorne 2 year old stake.

GIANTS DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER WITH CARDINALS

Walker Takes First, 7-1; Champs Second, 3-2.

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Before a crowd of 50,000 the league leading St. Louis Cardinals and second place New York Giants divided a double header today. The Giants walked off with the first game, 7 to 1, and the Cards took the second, 3 to 2.

The defeat in the second game dropped the Giants into a virtual tie with the Chicago Cubs, who took two games from Boston. New York remained ahead by one point.

Bill Walker held the Cards to two hits in the first game, pitching 6 2-3 innings of perfect baseball before Frisch made the first hit. Two errors and a walk in the ninth cost him a shutout.

Flint Rehm blanked the Giants for six innings of the second game, giving only two hits, but strained a ligament in his right leg and had to retire. Bill Hallahan finished, allowing the Giants both their runs. Scores:

ROBINS BEAT REDS TWICE.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—With their captain and shortstop, Glenn Wright, back in the lineup for the first time since his leg injury on July 15, the Brooklyn Robins snapped their losing streak today, defeating the Cincinnati Reds twice, 9 to 2 and 8 to 7.

Wright played the leading rôle in the heavy hitting. He had a double and two singles in three times at bat in the opening game, starting two of Brooklyn's scoring rallies before being taken out. He hit a home run the first time up in the second game and collected two more singles later. Scores:

Hurlingham Is Victor in U.S. Polo Debut

Mitchel Field, N. Y., Aug. 16.—(AP)—The 31 goal Hurlingham club polo team of Buenos Aires, the second of the Argentine invaders here in quest of the American open championship, opened its Long Island campaign today by defeating the U. S. army, 12 to 5, in an informal contest.

Daniel Kearney, Juan and David Miles and the redoubtable 10 goal veteran, Lewis L. Lacey, who arrived only two days ago, showed clearly that they will play polo up to their high rating. They were a bit rusty today, but then the Miles brothers have not hit a polo ball since last November, and they have not played together with Lacey since they won the open championship here in their pioneer invasion of the United States nine years ago.

Dave Miles, with five goals, led the attack, Lacey scoring three and Kearney and Johnny Miles two each.

Hurlingham led, 7 to 5, at half time and easily maintained its advantage, with Johnny Miles coming on his game for two goals in the fifth period.

The Army, consisting of Lieut. Fred MacKinney, Lieut. Demar Craw, Lieut. McDonald Jones, and Capt. John Smith, was a 16 goal team, and although outmatched by the Argentines, gave the visitors the workout they needed.

Hurlingham will play a stronger team on Tuesday at the Piping Rock club, Locust Valley. The lineup:

| HURLINGHAM [12]. | ARMY [5]. |
|---|---|
| L. Lacey ..... | L. F. Mackinney |
| J. Miles ..... | Lt. D. T. Craw |
| D. Miles ..... | Lt. M. D. Jones |
| L. Lacey ..... | Back...Capt. J. A. Smith |

Score by chukkers:

| | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Hurlingham | 2 | 0 | 1 | 4 | 3 | 1 | 2 | 0—12 |
| Army | 0 | 2 | 1 | 1 | 1 | 0 | 1 | 0— 6 |

SURVIVOR OF 40 BATTLES DIES IN BED AT AGE OF 90

H. W. Magee's Colorful Career Ends.

In the summer of 1843, when Chicago was an outpost settlement of 4,000 whites in a wilderness of Indians, a covered wagon lumbered over the forest trail from Pennsylvania, bringing a new settler here with his family and household goods.

Yesterday one of that family, Henry Wells Magee, who made the wagon trip as a child of three, died of old age in his apartment at the Hyde Park hotel. He was in his 91st year.

A lawyer by profession, Mr. Magee had practiced here for 62 years, being active until a few years ago. By reason of his long service, he was regarded as dean of the Chicago bar.

Survivor of Forty Battles.

Apart from this distinction, Mr. Magee was held by his intimates to be an unequaled raconteur. A veteran of the civil war, he had fought in forty battles and, upon his discharge from the army, made a world tour, crowding into two years of travel more sights and adventures than the average man has in a lifetime.

Among the historic spectacles he witnessed were the nomination of Abraham Lincoln for President, the completion of the Union Pacific railroad and the opening of the Suez canal.

He had fought the Pawnee Indians in the west, arrested Chinese footpads as a British policeman in Hong Kong, peddled ice in Calcutta and shot tigers in Bengal. There are detailed records of these adventures in his diary.

Chicago had been incorporated as a city only six years when the Magee family arrived from Meadville, Pa., in 1843. The massacre of 1812 was still a vivid recollection and federal troops were still quartered at Fort Dearborn.

One of Mr. Magee's earliest Chicago memories was of the summer day about 1845 when his youngest sister, Sylvia, became lost. Word spread through town that the Indians had seized her and throughout the night the town crier walked the streets, ringing his bell and calling, "Lost Child."

Old Home Near River.

When the citizens went to call out the Fort Dearborn troops next morning they found the child sleeping peacefully in the commander's quarters. Playing about the fort until dark, she had been unable to find her way home and was taken into the barracks for safety.

The Magee home stood near the river bank at the present intersection of Canal and Lake streets, where elevated and railroad tracks crisscross. The site of the Chicago and North Western depot was then a cow pasture, leased by Mr. Magee's father, and it was his chore each night and morning to drive the cows down to the river bank for water.

The boy was sent to the only public school in town. Henry was fond of telling how he and his chums would play truant to hear the stories of David Kennison, last survivor of the Boston Tea Party, who used to gather the boys on the river bank and spin stories of the revolution.

At the age of 21 Mr. Magee enrolled at Hillsdale college, Hillsdale, Mich., but had only been a few days in school when Fort Sumter was fired on. He soon found himself fighting with the Army of the Potomac. He went through forty engagements without a scratch, was mustered out and later's degree at Hillsdale and sufficient three years he had acquired a bachelor's degree at Hillsdale and sufficient law at the University of Michigan to pass the bar examination and gain admittance to practice in Chicago in 1868.

He was preparing to begin practice when a college chum persuaded him to accompany him west. En route they encountered the famous frontier fighter, Maj. Frank North, and joined him in battle against the Pawnees on the Kansas-Nebraska border.

Mr. Magee then pushed on to San Francisco. He signed as a ship's cabin boy and ran errands for his passage to Hongkong. Stranded in the Chinese port, he entered the British police service, where he served three months.

He quit Hongkong and went to Calcutta. Then he sailed to the Bay of Suez in 1869, in time to witness the opening of the canal by the Empress Eugenie. There he met Adelina Patti, whose voice graced the ceremonies, and the explorer, Henry M. Stanley.

Returned Home in 1870.

After crossing Palestine on foot and visiting Moscow, Mr. Magee returned home in 1870. He was just settling down to law practice when the great fire of 1871 swept the city, destroying all his property.

By comparison with his early life, Mr. Magee's legal career was uneventful. His practice was exclusively in corporation law. He was a member of the American, Illinois, and Chicago Bar associations, a trustee of Hillsdale college, member of the Chicago Historical society, and oldest living member of George H. Thomas post, G. A. R.

Four Children Survive.

Surviving him are two sisters, Mrs. Ella M. Adkinson and Miss Sylvia Magee, the latter being the "lost child" of earlier days. Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Joseph J. Augustus and Mrs. William Seba Marshall, both Chicagoans; and two sons, Jerome P. Magee, Chicago attorney, and Wayland W. Magee, former Nebraska farmer and now a member of the federal reserve board at Washington, D. C.

The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at the First Unitarian church, 57th street and Woodlawn avenue. Burial will be in the Magee family plot at Hillsdale, Mich.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: The Bad News

Vandals Wreck Tomb of Indian Chief Who Befriended Whites

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

History which he helped to make by helping the whites at the massacre of Fort Dearborn 119 years ago Saturday is now threatening to disturb the eternal rest of Chief Alexander Robinson. Because he was literally a good Indian in those frontier days, he is not now permitted to rest in peace in his grave half a mile east of the Des Plaines river on Lawrence avenue.

Picknickers in the forest preserve nearby, curiosity seekers and just plain vandals have strayed to the family plot where the former leader of the Pottawatomies and Chippewas is buried behind a high wire fence. Lock after lock has been broken off the gate intended to bar entrance there. Piece after piece has been chipped off the old warrior's monument. A large and valuable bronze cross erected by his children has been carried away bodily.

Wife's Tomb Is Wrecked.

Also the tombstone of his wife, the former Catherine Chevalier, lies in ruins beside the stone marker that commemorates the good deeds of her husband.

Such attentions from descendants of the little band that wended its way down the lake shore to be massacred is strange return for the service rendered by Che-che-pin-qua that bloody day. He is was who assisted Black Partridge to save the life of Mrs. Helm in the encounter commemorated by the figures on the massacre monument that until recently stood near the historic site on 18th street and Prairie avenue.

As the tale is told, Robinson, or Che-che-pin-qua, was chief of a band of Indians who had been friendly with the occupants of the fort. Capt. Wells, arriving with a band of Miamis to assist in escorting the inmates under Capt. Heald to Detroit, sent a courier to Robinson with word that his help was needed because of the threatening attitude of the red men. With Black Partridge and another Indian, Robinson started for the fort in a canoe. Before he reached it the fort had been evacuated.

Paddling down the lake along the shore, the three caught up with the whites, but not in time to exert any influence in their behalf. Already the warwhoops of the savages were splitting the air and many of the men and women were dead or dying. Black Partridge, leaping from the canoe, seized a young brave with whom Mrs. Helm, daughter of Capt. Heald, was wrestling for possession of his scalping knife. He rushed her to the lake and pushed her in, being careful to keep her head above water.

Robinson and the other Indian then contrived to get the young woman into their canoe, and set out with her for St. Joseph, Mich., where they had a settlement. There Robinson not only provided her with shelter for the next few months, but extended his hospitality also to her parents, who had surrendered and whose lives were spared.

Some time later it was discovered that Lieut. Helm had been wounded and taken prisoner in a village on the Kankakee. Black Partridge started from St. Joseph with ransom, and located the soldier, but was not permitted to depart until he had also given up his pony, and even a gold ring he wore in his nose. After the reunion of the group at the Michigan settlement, Robinson took Capt. and Mrs. Heald to Mackinac in a birch bark canoe, a distance of 300 miles, where he surrendered to the British, and was released on parole.

Died at 110 Years.

Robinson was said to have been born at Mackinac in 1762, and died in April of 1872, making him 110 years old at the time of his death. He was the son of a Scotch father and a Pottawatomie mother. John Kinzie, as a justice of the peace, performed his marriage ceremony here on Sept. 28, 1826.

Mrs. Herman C. Boettcher, his granddaughter, and her husband now occupy the property remaining to them near the family burial plot, on what originally was two sections of land granted to Che-che-pinqua by the government in return for his service at the massacre. They have complained bitterly at the recent desecration of the graves, but declare they are powerless to stop it.

TELL PROGRESS IN DEVELOPING FOREST PRESERVE

$3,000,000 Work Is Speeded Up.

Early completion of the first unit of the $3,000,000 forest preserve development program is indicated in a report to be submitted today to Emmett Whealen, president of the board of commissioners, by Charles G. Sauers, general superintendent. The report covers progress made during the last six months.

CHAS. G. SAUERS.

The first unit in the program comprises eleven major projects in addition to the reforestration of more than 5,000 acres of the 55,000 acre sincluded in the preserves, and represents an expenditure of approximately $1,000,000.

Complete Thatcher Shelter.

A large shelter and pavilion in Thatcher woods, one of the outstanding projects, together with landscaping and parking areas, has been completed, and a new general headquarters building on Harlem avenue near Lake street will be ready for occupancy on Sept. 15, according to Mr. Sauers' report. Another important project nearing completion, according to the report, is the clay hole swimming plant and development at 159th street and Torrence avenue.

Work also is well under way on a $250,000 swimming pool at Milwaukee and Devon avenues, which will be similar in design to the Cermak pool at Lyons. Development of a picnic and recreation grounds at Camp Bemis will begin within a few days, according to the report.

Start on Golf Course.

Construction of an 18 hole course at Cumberland avenue and Forest Preserve drive has already been begun and plans have been completed for a clubhouse of logs and hewn timber similar in design to the clubhouse recently completed at the Northwestern golf course in the preserves. Another course included in the program is to be laid out at 142d and Halsted streets within a short time, the report stated.

Despite the extensive building program projected or proposed, Mr. Sauers' report shows the principal part of the forest preserve work is reforestration.

80 Slain as 1,000 Desert Tribesmen Renew War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

JERUSALEM, Aug. 16.—Renewed warfare broke out today between two of the most powerful Syrian desert tribes, the Muwalis and Hadidns, after a one year's truce. In the battle 1,000 tribesmen participated. Eighty were killed, with several hundred wounded. Among those killed was a sheik of the Muwalis. French authorities have rushed troops, planes, and armored cars to the area.

I. LEON MEYERS, FORMER CHICAGO DOCTOR, IS DEAD

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 16.—[Special.]—After more than ten years of illness during which time he pursued research work in medicine and gained international prominence, Dr. I. Leon Meyers, attending neurologist of the Los Angeles county and Cedars of Lebanon hospitals, died today in the Seaside hospital, Long Beach, of a heart attack, following a lingering asthmatic ailment.

Dr. Meyers came to Los Angeles in 1921 from Chicago, where he was associate professor of neurology at the University of Illinois College of Medicine and the post graduate medical school of Chicago. He as the youngest professor ever to serve at the former. Several of his papers were translated for use in Europe.

Recently Dr. Meyers had completed his most important task of research—a study of head and eye conditions.

Dr. Meyers is survived by his widow, Mrs. Leah Meyers; his mother, Mrs. Samuel Meyers, and a daughter, Marguerite, 11. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning.

Pour "Selected" and the milk you wish to compare with it. Slowly sip first one milk; then the other. The "Sweet Natural Taste" of "Selected" tells its better quality.

. . . We pay extra to produce "Selected" with extra-ordinary care

"Selected" milk is produced under the most modern methods of dairying. Our own veterinarian inspects each farm regularly... inspects the herds, milking utensils, cooling equipment and food rations of the herd. As a reward for taking this extra-ordinary care, we pay the farmers a liberal bonus. Milk drinkers, young and old, love the "Sweet Natural Taste" of "Selected." It is fresh milk at its best. Surely it is worth 16 cents a quart to make milk drinking so much more attractive and enjoyable. For the benefits of regular milk drinking are priceless.

This model dairy barn is on the farm of S. B. Chapin, near Lake Geneva, Wis.—one of the 10 "Selected" farms devoting its entire milk production to "Selected" milk.

MAYOR WALKER WARNED TO STOP CIGARET SMOKING

CARLSBAD, Czecho-Slovakia, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Complete rest was the doctor's prescription today for New York's restive mayor, James J. Walker, who arrived here yesterday to take the "health cure." This prescription was issued this morning when Mayor Walker underwent a physical examination.

The doctor pronounced him "organically in good condition," but ordered abstinence from social activities. As result, the mayor spent virtually the whole day, except for a brief trip to a nearby village which was celebrating its 600th anniversary, on the hotel's sunny balcony.

One detail of the mayor's "cure" is a masseur who is scheduled to appear every afternoon. The doctor especially told the mayor to obstain from smoking, and today he smoked only two cigarets.

ORANGEMEN AND REPUBLICANS IN SERIOUS CLASHES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Ireland, Aug. 16.—The Hibernians' demonstration at Armagh City today was followed by serious rioting between Orangemen and Republicans in Armagh, Portadown, and Lisburn. Extra police were rushed in motor trucks from Belfast to these localities.

In Lisburn a crowd attacked a parochial hall and convent buildings, wrecked shops, and set fire to some at Portsdown republicans smashed windows of buildings owned by loyalists, including a large bakery owned by a magistrate.

The police made repeated baton charges in each town, and in Portsdown several were injured by volleys of stones. Many arrests were made.

Nautilus Starts on Cruise in Depths of Arctic Today

OSLO, Norway, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The governor or Spitsbergen today visited Sir Hubert Wilkins' arctic submarine Natilus, which was lying at her base at Longyear City. Immediately on its arrival yesterday, the Nautilus took on 70 cases of oil, today its machinery was thoroughly inspected and tomorrow the submarine is expected to start on its first cruise in the depths of the Arctic ocean.

COMPLETION OF HUGE PIPE LINE PROJECTS NEAR

Chicago-Texas Flow to Start Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—This month and next will witness the completion and operation of the greatest natural gas pipe line projects ever undertaken, marking the culmination of the work of a series of developments designed to make the fuel available to the eastern industrial centers of the country.

Hundreds of millions of dollars have been spent on the various projects, in reality unparalleled in scope since the great transcontinental railroads were built.

The $160,000,000 high pressure natural gas line from the Amarillo field in the Texas panhandle to Chicago, over 900 miles long, has nosed out the other major projects by a few weeks. The line has been completed, tests are begun, and gas is expected to flow through the 24 inch mains on Sept. 1.

Nearly Completed.

The $40,000,000 panhandle eastern natural gas line from the Amarillo and Hugoton fields to Indiana, slightly under 900 miles in length, was completed with the exception of some 40 miles at the close of last week, and a few days the last length of pipe will be in the ground.

The line will be immediately connected upon its completion to the extensive Columbia Gas and Electric system hitherto dependent on the "Hat Virginia" fields, which extends from eastern Kentucky to western New York. As a result, in a few days there will be interconnected natural gas main lines stretching from the Texas panhandle to the city limits of Philadelphia on the one hand, and Detroit, N. J., by a northern route. The 24-mile Virginia pipe line of the Columbia system is more than two-thirds complete and lacked but 25 miles in Virginia and 90 miles in West Virginia at the beginning of August. The pipe line will connect at the Kentucky border with a spur linked to other Columbia system main lines in the neighborhood of Philadelphia, providing a further source of natural gas for eastern Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Gas-Connecting Loop.

A loop connecting this last group of lines to the pipe line terminating at Detroit which traverses western New York along the Pennsylvania border will be built to provide natural gas to various cities in the northeastern United States as soon as the occasion arises.

A pipe line to serve Detroit from the West Virginia field, numerous extensions to the old and new pipe lines out of the Mississippi and prolongation of the Chicago line to Milwaukee and numerous other points, especially in northern Illinois will be undertaken as a result of the completion of the great pipe line projects.

The big Texas-Chicago natural gas pipe line is to be paralleled by a second equally large pipe line as soon as the great industrial area around Chicago requires more of the fuel. It is this, for which plans were announced June 13 last year crosses eleven great rivers in its course, including the Arkansas, the Missouri, the Des Moines, and the Mississippi.

The Cities Service company, the Insull interests, the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, the Texas corporation, the Skelly Oil company, the Southwestern Development company, the Phillips Petroleum corporation and the Columbian Carbon company are jointly interested in the project.

Large Initial Capacity.

The 905 mile main line will have an initial delivery capacity of 175,000,000 cubic feet daily. Ten compressor stations will be used to pump the gas over this distance, with a capacity of 70,000 horsepower required for the purpose. The first compressor station, at Fritch, Tex., is the largest gas driven compressor station in the world, consisting of twelve 1,250 horse power units, each of the other stations, about 95 miles apart, will have 6,250 horse power each.

Bumper Crops Aggravate Present Economic Ills

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Plentiful harvests, erstwhile economic antidote for business depression, appeared to be bad medicine during the past week for present disorders.

The government's estimate of the cotton crop at more than 15,000,000 bales, threatening the largest carryover of unused surplus in history, sent cotton prices crashing to the lowest level of the century.

The estimate of the wheat crop was 3½ per cent larger than last year's crop, and 8% per cent above the 1925-'29 average. The winter wheat crop promises to be the largest on record, more than offsetting the smallest harvest of the spring crop in 38 years. The wheat market, already deflated to the lowest levels in history, stood up fairly well under this news, however.

Signs of Upturn.

Despite the crushing burden of these two enormous crops—our two chief cash crops—signs of the seasonal upturn in trade in the autumn are gradually multiplying. The wholesalers report a little further improvements here and there. Shoe production continues at peak volume, some factories doing the best business in ten years. Clothing manufacturers are fairly active, and woolen mills continue well occupied. Cotton textiles, naturally, have been considerably unsettled by the crash in raw cotton prices, but statistically, the industry is in the best condition in some time.

Foreign financial conditions appeared a little more encouraging during the past week, although the problem of adjusting German credits, which the Wiggin committee is now wrestling with, still has a paralyzing influence on central Europe. Sterling exchange was steadier, and losses of London gold all but completely checked. In general, however, European business activity appeared to have subsided further, and conditions are not viewed as immediately promising to projects for marketing any considerable portion of American surpluses abroad. Since the crop reports interests in the American offer of wheat and cotton to Germany appears to have waned.

Copper Stocks Increase.

Copper is the latest commodity which is reported to have been offered to German producers on favorable credit terms. But copper stocks have grown as burdensome as the stocks of wheat and cotton. The July statistics showed another gain of refined and blister stocks on hand of 19,000 tons, and although mines and smelters are already largely shut down, complete closings are now being discussed.

The effort to control petroleum, however, has made distinctly encouraging progress. The signing of the new Texas conservation law this week will result in a substantial checking of the record breaking flo of crude oil from the east Texas field. Firmer prices generally are expected, although crude is still a long way from the $1 a barrel objective of Gov. Murray of Oklahoma.

Steel production and automobile manufacturing continue extremely quiet. What change there has been in the steel industry during the week appears to have been for the better, however, most surveys indicating a little upturn from the previous week's ingot making rate of only 20 per cent of capacity.

Car Loadings Gain.

The latest weekly report of freight car loadings shows the encouraging gain of roughly 15,000 cars over the previous week, as result of larger movement of miscellaneous freight and coal. In contrast, however, the weekly report of electric power consumption was less favorable, showing a reduction of nearly 3 per cent from the like week of last year, the poorest comparison since the last full week of June.

Despite the crash in cotton prices, it is notable that commodity prices in the aggregate have been fairly well sustained. It is pointed out furthermore, that the cotton crop has a month yet in which to mature and while the farm board's suggestion that a third of it be destroyed has aroused more ire than enthusiasm, nature has yet a chance to reduce the yield. With the exception of wheat, other grain crops are not so bounteous.

The total of five grain crops is placed as of Aug. 1 at 5,096,000,000 bu, or 345,000,000 bu less than a month earlier, largely as a result of a reduction of 193,000,000 bu in the estimate for corn. This is not particularly encouraging to the farmer, however, since the sorely depressed wheat is the principal cash crop.

CURB STOCKS REFLECT PROFESSIONAL HOPES OF BUSINESS REVIVAL

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—After a period of severe stagnation marked by easier prices, the curb exchange is reflecting professional anticipation of an approaching seasonal gain in business which would justify higher quotations.

The market's rally last week, developing in the later sessions after considerable irregularity had emphasized the extent to which liquidation had evaporated, was less emphatic than the upturn on the big board, but the improvement broadened on Friday. Bull pools began to take a new interest and stocks in which such operations had been abandoned following the reaction from the June rise again became prominent.

In no group was the rally more conspicuous than in the oils. Enactment of Texas legislation designed to curtail output and the appearance of firmer crude prices gave strength to the friendless petroleum issues and advances from the lows of the recent decline were sharp. Standard of Indiana was particularly active and strong.

The response of the utilities was rather sluggish, but speculative interest in a number of specialties increased considerably. Prominent among the latter were Aluminum of America and Great Atlantic and Pacific. Woolworth, Ltd., came under more aggressive sponsorship and the same was true of numerous other low priced stocks.

One of the week's features was the renewal of interest in Solar Refining, which made a new high.

New Burglary Insurance Covers "Strong Arm" Losses

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—A new form of burglary and robbery insurance, carrying protection "from every form of criminal enterprise by violence and the strong arm," and which even covers kidnaping "where the victim is taken back to the store to open the door of a safe," will become effective tomorrow. It is described by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, which announced the new policy, as an "answer to the universal need of the small shopkeeper to obtain blanket coverage" under present day conditions.

Members of the national bureau include a group of the largest stock insurance companies in the country. The policy, this bureau announced, is the result of a wide investigation by the burglary department, the burglary governing committee, and the statistical and actuarial divisions of that organization. Because the new insurance will be issued at a flat premium charge the cost will be a fraction of that previously assessed, the announcement said.

Designed for Merchants.

The new all inclusive policy, covering both burglary and robbery, was prepared especially for small merchants in cities, towns and rural districts. It is known as the "storekeepers' burglary and robbery policy."

Besides the clause which protects against "kidnaping" which involves the compulsory opening of a safe by the victim, other sections of the policy apply to holdups, either in a store or in the street; robbery in the home "covered with respect to money and securities used in the business;" burglary from a bank night depository, property damage due to or caused by burglary or robbery, and safe and open stock burglaries.

Offers Full Protection.

The new policy, it was announced, follows the trend in insurance and "is free from exclusions and offers 'continuity insurance,' by which is meant that full protection is afforded for the policy term without additional premium charges, no matter how many bona fide robberies there may have been during that term." The rates vary according to the territory, the highest being $50 for a $1,750 policy in Chicago and Cook and Lake counties, Ill., and in Detroit and Wayne county, Mich. The rate for the Bronx, Queens and New York counties, New York, is $35, the same as for communities in Florida, Minnesota and Nebraska.

JULY BUILDING CONTRACTS HERE UP MODERATELY

Moving slightly against an established seasonal trend, New England, upstate New York, middle Atlantic, Pittsburgh, and Chicago territories produced higher contract awards in July than in June, F. W. Dodge corporation reports. The middle Atlantic territory's July today of $40,464,600, compared with June's $32,123,800. Upstate New York had a total of $14,296,000 for July, only slightly higher than $14,024,000 for June. New England showed a gain of about $3,000,000 in its $28,865,200 July total.

The region around Chicago registered $34,906,500 in July and $28,122,200 in June. The advance in the Pittsburgh territory was $96,000 to $32,096,700. Total awards in the 37 states east of the Rocky mountains last month were $285,997,300, compared with $367,528,400 for the like month of 1930.

London Market Reacts to Import Tax Reports

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, Aug. 16.—The stock markets, being more prone to exaggerate events that Lombard street, seized with avidity last week upon rumors that the government's plans for balancing the budget would include a general tax on imports. Thursday witnessed a cheerfulness in the markets that had not been seen in a long time. Only apprehensive traders were bears, and their hurried covering accounted almost entirely for the rise that occurred in security values.

Southern Ice Exchange Offer Expires Aug. 20

General Finance corporation has announced the termination on Aug. 20, 1931, of its offers to the holders of Southern Ice and Utilities company 6 per cent notes, due 1932, and the American Utilities company 6 per cent bonds, due 1945, and 6½ per cent debentures, due 1941, to exchange their holdings for securities of Associated Gas and Electric company. Over 80 per cent of the Southern Ice and Utilities and American Utilities bonds have already been deposited under these offers with the Uublic National Bank and Trust Company of New York.

RISING PRICES PUT WALL ST. IN HAPPIER MOOD

But Cotton Report Is Bad News.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—Aside from the rather spirited advance on the stock exchange, the very novelty of which may have accounted for the enthusiasm which it aroused in Wall street, the developments of last week upon which financial interest was centered chiefly were those touching the cotton problem. One of them—the proposal by the federal farm board that the planters plow under one-third of the new crop—came as a sequel to the other, which was the crop reporting board's surprisingly large estimate of this year's yield.

The full measure of respect accorded the crop reporting board's figures, which were based upon Aug. 1 conditions, was evident in the violent decline in cotton prices, amounting at one time last Monday to $7 a bale in New York and to even more in Liverpool. The estimate of 15,584,000 bales as the probable yield not only confounded the private forecasters, who had looked for anywhere from 1,000,000 to 1,500,000 bales less, but the aftermath in the cotton markets must have thrown the farm board into something of a panic.

Idea Is Rejected.

The suggestion that the growers of the south destroy about 5,000,000 bales of an abundantly growing crop just when it is nearing maturity, met

OVER DOZEN FARM CROPS MAY YIELD LESS THAN IN '30

Winter Wheat and Cotton Dollar Values Drop.

More than a dozen great farm crops are promising yields smaller than those of 1930—a far different picture of American agriculture than the calamitous supplies of whet and cotton have popularized.

Corn, a much larger crop than either wheat or cotton, has fallen from the July forecast of almost 3,000,000,000 bushels to 2,775,000,000, only 14,000,000 bushels more than the 1925-'29 five year average and probably not more than enough to make up last year's short crop should stock feeding become general.

The department of agriculture estimates the yield of durum wheat to be 34,000,000 bushels below last year's crop; other spring wheat, 99,000,000 bushels below; oats, 88,000,000; barley, 114,000,000; rye, 11,900,000; flaxseed, 7,600,000; rice, 1,160,000; dry edible beans, 1,200,000; pears, 5,500,000; tame hay, 206,000 tons; sugar beets, 2,200,000 tons; tobacco, 24,000,000 pounds; hops, 1,200,000 pounds; grapes, 68,000 tons.

Big Winter Wheat Crop.

Statistically the reduction of 123,000,000 bushels in the yield of all spring wheat does not even up the increase of 164,000,000 bushels of winter wheat over the 1930 crop. That is offered as one of the reasons for "two-bit" wheat in the plains.

Drought caught much of the spring wheat, but the winter wheat country cannot recall a bigger or better crop. The yellow flood is backing up in every available storage place or streaming out in thousands of bushels on the ground to await a market. The "prairie gold" of a few years ago has lost its luster.

There was a time when this greatest of all winter wheat crops would have been worth $1,500,000,000 to the southwest. With the world full of wheat and more coming it indicates a farm value not much in excess of $310,000,000.

Decline in Cotton.

The big blow to agriculture is cotton. Whereas only about 500,000 of the nation's 6,000,000 farmers raise wheat, almost 2,000,000 of them grow cotton. A prospective crop of 15,584,000 bales, the fifth largest yield on record, plunged prices down more than $6 a bale, a loss of almost $100,000,000 if the decline holds all through the crop.

Huge yields and surpluses have produced a reaction which argues there is little use of large crops if they bring nothing. It is met by the theory that big crops mean the creation of wealth, work for many people, and the surest cure for depression.

Others Below Average.

Many of the field crops estimated to yield under the 1930 figure also are under the five year average. The potato harvest is forecast at 28,000,000 bushels more than a year ago, but it still is 10,000,000 bushels below average. Sweet potatoes are 400,000 bushels above average with an indicated yield of 13,500,000 bushels more than in 1930.

Apples and peaches are the most prolific of the fruits. The former is expected to show an increase of 54,000,000 bushels and the latter 43,400,000.

odities have been largely instrul in bringing down the value of total trade. During the period
April to June, 1931, for example, average prices of exports of flour, raw cotton, gasoline, and fell approximately 35 per cent pared with the corresponding of 1930. In imports decreases values of flaxseed, raw cotton, rubber, and raw silk amounted in finished manufactures and the articles of this class de-were greatest—both on a a percentage basis—for auto-

, machinery, iron and steel
s, and gasoline. In interpret-significance of these declines,
, the report declared, the fact be borne in mind that exports of these articles, except auto-
out the first half of 1930, while many other finished articles considerable reductions dur-

RISING PRICES PUT WALL ST. IN HAPPIER MOOD

But Cotton Situation Is Cause of Concern.

with the reception which the board, in the exercise of good judgment, might easily have foreseen. The idea was indignantly rejected in the south and definitely denounced elsewhere. And the farm board has been pointedly excluded on all sides of the evil consequence of previous interference with the commodity markets by governmental agencies.

Rising prices on the stock exchange gave put the Wall street community in a happy frame of mind, even if they have not been accepted everywhere as a prophecy of business improvement. Actually, the market still has much of the professional gone to be taken at its face value. Nevertheless, the advance is supposed to be in keeping with the August outlook.

As to what it foreshadows, it remains to be seen whether speculative powers have again erred in their judgment. However, the Wall street skepticism, which seems to be and spoils the notion that all of the current speculative capitalists are a rogue to put prices up on the exchange, does not obscure the fact that the path of lease resistance has for some days been upward. Whether the advance is being accompanied by demolishing the supposedly bogus "short interest," or whether both are directing the "bidding up," whether a real demand from speculators and investors is making its appearance, Wall street is delighted that its unanimous fall of prices has been interrupted.

New Quieter Abroad.

Developments abroad last week were of a less spectacular nature and had little immediate bearing upon our financial markets. Domestic affairs in Germany indicated continued quiet progress toward the resumption of normal business. In Basle, the Wiggin committee of experts drew closer to the final accord on the maintenance of existing foreign short term credits to Germany.

It has not been overlooked, however, that the less critical aspect of the central European crisis is due solely to the temporary relief measures that have been taken. Thus far nothing has been done, or even discussed in a serious way, so far as is known, to broach the more fundamental difficulties that precipitated the June collapse of Germany's economic machinery. Nor is it yet clear how far reaching are the ramifications of that crisis.

Good Printing Ink.

I would appreciate your telling me what you can of General Printing Ink corporation. Thank you very much. —E. A. L.

General Printing Ink corporation was incorporated March 28, 1929, to acquire George H. Morrill company, Sigmund Ullman company, Ault & Lang Manufacturing company, Sigmund Ullman company, Ault Printing company and American Printing Ink company. It manufactures and distributes printing inks and lithographic machinery and supplies.

In 1930 net income was $850,557, or $2.32 per share, against net income of $1,231,540, or $6.01 per common share in 1929, including earnings of predecessor companies. For 1928 predecessor companies reported a combined net income of $1,232,089, against $929,-511 in 1927.

For the first half of 1931 net income was $367,462, or $1.26 per common share, against net of $413,161, or $1.53 per common share for the first half of 1930.

On Dec. 31, 1930, current assets were $4,078,239 and current liabilities were $388,295. Cash and marketable securities totaled $1,516,295. Working capital was $4,062,906, against $3,960,257 a year before.

President Ullman stated that the decline in business during 1930 was felt most heavily by the machinery manufacturing division.

The company has no funded debt. There were outstanding at the close of 1930 41,323 shares of no par $6 cumulative preferred and 155,483 no par common shares. The common is on an annual dividend basis of $2.50.

Gary Electric and Gas.

I am contemplating buying Gary Electric and Gas company 5 per cent bonds due July 1, 1934. I would appreciate your information regarding their soundness.—Mrs. F. S.

Gary Electric and Gas company, individually controlled by Midland United company, furnishes electricity, gas and water to Gary, Ind., a city with a population in 1930 of 100,426.

The $9,000,000 first lien collateral 5s, due July 1, 1934, are secured by a first lien on all outstanding bonds and capital stock of its wholly owned subsidiary, Gary Heat, Light and Water company. Additional bonds may be issued under certain conditions.

Net earnings before depreciation for 12 consecutive months ended June 30, 1931, were $1,382,810, against $1,214,-834 for the preceding twelve months. The annual interest requirements on this issue total $400,000. Funded debt consists solely of these bonds. The company operates under an indeterminate franchise.

The bonds are regarded as a business man's investment.

DIVERSE FORCES PLAY IN WHEAT MARKET ACTION

See Prospect of Better Prices Later On.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

An excess of supplies of winter wheat and a shortage in spring sown grain in the United States, combined with the shortest crop of spring wheat in western Canadian provinces, presents a situation in North America that is most unusual.

Losses in spring wheat are more than offset by a gain of 163,000,000 bu of winter wheat over 1930. The trade, however, looks upon the shortage of supplies of spring wheat on both sides of the international line as likely to result in better prices later in the season. At the same time, with an excess of winter wheat, and the largest supply of wheat of all kinds, including the carryover, that the United States has known, there is a situation that places our aggregtae supplies greatly in excess of requirements, and an export demand is needed.

Import Requirements.

Latest reports from abroad indicate that there will be no increase in import requirements, despite the low prices at which American and Canadian wheat can be bought, and that importers are not likely to anticipate their needs and buy heavy at any one time.

Prices have been around the 50c level for about two months, the trade having become accustomed to it, and is gradually working with a view of advancing prices to a moderate extent, which, it is believed, will help general business and bring about a change in sentiment in favor of the constructive side of the market.

There are more factors of late to induce heavy speculative buying, which increased during the week, and also brought larger spreading operations in the way of buying Minneapolis and Winnipeg futures against sales in Chicago. A strong and advancing stock market with a number of trade leaders giving that market support, combined with an advance of $2.50 a bale in cotton from the low point of the week, contributed toward a fair increased buying of wheat and all grains.

Wheat Movement Ebbs.

Movement of wheat from the country has fallen off both in the southwest and middle west, farmers being dissatisfied with prices, and whenever possible they are holding it for an advance.

Hedging sales come into the market on all bulges. Millers are absorbing wheat steadily, northwestern interests being active buyers of hard winters in the southwest, and it is understood that they will have to grind a larger percentage of hard winters than ever before to make up the deficit in the spring wheat production. It is estimated by one close student of the wheat situation that there is a carryover of about 80 million bu of old spring from previous crops, which, he says, should go far towards making up the deficit in this year's production.

Within 3 Cent Range.

Wheat prices in Chicago moved within a range of less than 3c during the week, and closed with net gains of ⅞@1¼c. There has been an advance from the season's low of around 4c bu. September wheat closed at 58⅛@58½c, with an open interest of 86 million bu, a reduction of 3 million bu for the week. December closed at 53⅝@53½c, March 56¼c, and May 58c. ### Oats Fairly Absorbed.

Oat prices were lowest early in the week, but strengthened after a bullish government report with greater reductions in the crop than expected, and closed at net gains of ¼@⅝c. September closed at 21⅞c, December 23⅞@23⅝c, and May 26⅝@26⅛c.

Hedging pressure appeared on lights, while commission and cash houses absorbed the offerings on

RAIL WEAKNESS FEATURES BOND MART TRADING

Price Recovery Comes Late in Week.

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—The most significant event in the bond market last week was the persistent way in which rail issues, not all of which were of secondary or speculative rating, reached new lows for this year and in some instances for considerably longer periods.

Satisfactory conditions from several standpoints among the railroads were pointed for some time and the only wave was recognition of them. Much of the selling was ascribed to forced desires of liquidating their bond holdings. A tangible reason for the reversal of trend, which developed during the last two days of the week and restored considerable of the ground lost, was not apparent. The decline in rail issues has been fairly steady for some time.

Bond Standing Is Lower.

The leading railroad bonds at the close Saturday had an average price of 81.61, compared with 96.2 on Aug. 1, 96.57 on July 1 and a high record of 107.49 on Jan. 24. The decline between the two latter dates was interrupted by several periods of temporarily rising prices. The week-end recovery in rail bonds was simultaneous with an advance in rail stocks. It happens occasionally that prices of securities deviate because of technical market conditions, which would appear to be the cause of the rally in both rail stocks and bonds.

Late strength in foreign bonds was another feature. Colombian issues showed late gains, following the official announcement that funds had been received to cover the service charges on the 6 per cent issue of 1961, due on Oct. 1. Uruguayan loans showed temporary strength on reports that negotiations for additional funds were progressing.

German Issues Respond.

German obligations responded to the optimism in power of the Prussian government by the election on April 9 with a general advance in both corporate and governmental obligations. The most immediately pressing issues of that republic is the heavy maturing volume of short term debt which will be settled, it is hoped, by the deliberations of the committee of international bankers at Basle. However, the removal of threatening issues, such as the election provided, was sufficient to push the German quotations upward. Other European issues derived a certain amount of speculative appreciation from their strength.

From the domestic standpoint, little more appeared to suppose that any substantial change had developed in the bond market. New issues floated during the week totaled $71,699,641, compared with only $3,750,000 the previous week. As has happened frequently in the past, the great bulk of the offerings were of high grade. For some months it has been possible to sell new issues eligible for savings fund and trust fund investments, or nearly as high in rating. The offerings indicate this fact as well as the rather limited buying interest in securities of secondary standing.

CONFERENCE ON ANTI-TRUST LAWS CONVENES OCT. 26

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 16.—A national conference on the relation of law and business, with specific emphasis on the anti-trust laws, sponsored by Dean Frank H. Sommer of New York university school of law, and Dean John T. Madden of the New York university school of commerce, accounts, and finance, will be convened at New York university Oct. 26, it was announced in a joint statement by the sponsors today.

A number of national organizations have indicated their intention to cooperate with and be represented at the conference. These include the National Manufacturers' association, the American Petroleum Institute, the National Civic federation, the Association for the Coördination of Law and Business, the Cotton Textile Institute, Inc., and the American Federation of Labor.

"The current business depression," reads the joint statement, "has sharply focused attention upon the existing governmental structure and economic organization and has subjected them to analysis. This has resulted in a widespread criticism of the present state of the law, particularly in its application to business.

"Because of the growing criticism of the operation of, and agitation for changes in the anti-trust laws, it seems inevitable that many suggestions ranging from minor to major revision, will be offered in the next session of congress. Varied and conflicting views have heretofore been presented piecemeal in the press, and before industrial organizations, economic, political science, and bar associations.

"To provide a common forum in which the various criticisms and proposals may be presented and considered at one time from the point of view of the government, the public, and the industries involved, before the convening of congress, the first of the series of conferences is to lay specific emphasis on the anti-trust laws, their actual operation and proposed remedies."

Russia Takes 75% of U. S. Farm Implement Exports

New York, Aug. 16.—(AP)—Almost 75 per cent of American exports of farm implements in 1931 have gone to soviet Russia, an analysis of foreign trade statistics by Moody's shows. During the first six months of this year, the survey finds, Russia took from the United States agricultural machinery valued at $37,216,000, or 74.3 per cent of the entire foreign shipments, while Canada and Argentina, the best foreign customers in pre-depression years, together purchased less than 10 per cent of the total.

Crude Rubber Consumption in July Is 31,937 Long Tons

July consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States increased to 31,937 long tons, as compared with 23,745 tons in July last year. The July consumption, however, showed a decrease from 37,916 tons consumed in June this year. Domestic stocks on hand July 31 were 234,822 long tons, an increase of 3.9 per cent over June and 54.5 per cent over July last year.

OFFICE OF THE ARCHITECT OF THE CAPITOL, Washington, D. C., August 12, 1931.—SEALED BIDS will be opened in this office at 3 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, September 16, 1931, for construction of a New Wing along First Street, connecting the two wings of the existing U. S. Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C. The work consists of the construction of a new building approximately 291 feet long, by 71 feet wide, and five stories high, of the same general character and design as the existing building. On or after August 19, 1931, plans and specifications, not exceeding three sets, may be obtained at the Office of the Architect of the Capitol, in the discretion of said Architect, by any satisfactory general contractor. A deposit in the form of a check for $50.00, made payable to the order of David Lynn, Architect of the Capitol, will be required for each set of plans and specifications to insure their return in good condition. DAVID LYNN, Architect of the Capitol.

LEGAL NOTICES.

STATE OF ILLINOIS
DEPARTMENT OF PURCHASES AND CONSTRUCTION
DIVISION OF WATERWAYS.

Springfield, Illinois, July 27, 1931.

BRIDGE WORK
ILLINOIS WATERWAY CONTRACTS B1, B3, B4 AND B5

1. Sealed proposals for Illinois Waterway Contracts B1, B3, B4 and B5, will be received at the office of the Department of Purchases and Construction, Division of Waterways, State Hervey Building, Joliet, Illinois, at the dates and hours hereinafter stated, and then and there publicly opened and read.

2. Contract B1 is for the building, and subsequent removal, of a temporary highway bridge over the Illinois Waterway at Van Buren street, in the City of Joliet, Illinois. (Approximately: 323 cu. yds. of concrete; 173 M. ft. B. M. of lumber; 48,000 lbs. of steel.) Alternative bids will be given consideration if accompanied by drawings showing satisfactory compliance with the State's Specifications for Design.

3. Contract B3 is for 235-foot truss span on the Marseilles Canal near Marseilles, La Salle County, Illinois. (Approximately: 475,000 lbs. of metal work; 110 cu. yds. of concrete.)

4. Contract B4 is for the superstructures of two double leaf, rolling lift, highway bridges over the Illinois Waterway, one at Jefferson Street and the other at Joliet Street, in the City of Joliet, Illinois. (Approximately: 2,410,000 lbs. of steel work and machinery; 1,500 cu. yds. of concrete; 100 M. ft. B. M. of lumber; housings; electrical equipment; etc.)

5. Contract B5 is for the Sub- and Superstructure of, and the approaches to, a double leaf, trunnion bascule, highway bridge on the line of Brandon Road at the lower entrance to the Brandon Road lock in Will County, Illinois. (Approximately: 475,000 lbs. of steel work and machinery; 1,020 cu. yds. of concrete; 21 M. ft. B. M. of lumber; housings; electrical equipment; etc.)

6. Bids will be received on Contracts B1 and B4 until 9:30 a. m., Central Standard time, and on Contracts B3 and B5 until 10 noon, Central Standard time, on the 25th day of August, 1931.

7. Copies of plans and specifications and all official forms may be obtained after August 1 at the Chicago office of the Division of Waterways, 220 So. State St., Chicago, Illinois, upon depositing for each contract, $5.00. Checks must be made to the Director of Purchases and Construction, and in the following amounts:

For Contract B1: Five Dollars ($5.00)
For Contract B3: Five Dollars ($5.00)
For Contract B4: Fifteen Dollars ($15.00)
For Contract B5: Fifteen Dollars ($15.00)

These deposits will be returned only to bidders who submit bona fide bids for the work and on return of the plans and specifications.

8. The attention of prospective bidders is called to: "An act regulating wages and hours of work of mechanics and laborers employed under contracts for public works," in force July 1, 1931, which provides that the contractor and any subcontractor on public works contracts shall pay to laborers and mechanics employed at the site of the work "not less than the prevailing rate of wages for work of a similar nature in the city, town, village or other civil division of the State in which the public work is located, and that no laborer, or mechanic employed on the public work, covered by this contract, shall be required, or permitted, to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day" except in special cases as set forth in full in the Act.

9. The prevailing rates of wages at the site of Contracts B1, B3, B4 and B5, respectively, are as follows in dollars per hour:

| | Contracts B1, B4, B5 | Contract B3 |
